

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE COMMON COUNCIL TRANSACTIONS.

The Common Council met in regular session at City Hall, Monday evening, and had one of their customary inert sessions.

President Knapp found every ward fully represented and after Clerk Brimblecom had read the records of the last meeting and they had been approved, a long list of papers from the board of aldermen were taken up for concurrent action.

It was evident that the action of the aldermen in referring the order relative to placing Steamer 2 in commission, to the fire committee, as sent up by this branch sometime ago, was a very satisfactory sequel, especially to the Ward Three gentlemen.

The $750 order for placing municipal wires on Centre street in underground conduits, was laid over, under the rules until the next meeting.

Hearings were granted on taking land for sewer purposes in Mt. Vernon and Morton streets and upon widening Waban and a portion of Washington street. No one appeared and they were closed.

The taking of land for park purposes in Ward Four caused a little discussion by Councilmen Degen and Weed who were of the opinion that the city had not accepted the land offered by Mr. Miner. But the order was finally passed.

Edward A. Ellis and thirty others petitioned for a concrete crosswalk on Centre street opposite the post office.

Messrs. G. Crane, et al., petitioned for the laying out and acceptance of new streets at a uniform width of 40 feet as follows: From Walnut street to Fisher avenue to be known as Dunklee street, from Griffin avenue to Berwick road to be known as Saxon road, from Berwick road to Walnut street to be known as Fisher avenue. These petitions were referred to the highway committee.

Councilman Briston presented an order, requesting the committee on parks to consider and report at an early date some plan for the improvement of Boy's pond, as recommended by the board of health. The order was adopted.

The president stated to the council that the invitation of Charles Ward Post 62, to participate in the exercises on Memorial Day, had been accepted and the carriages could leave the City Hall promptly at one o'clock. He desired a full attendance.

The council then adjourned.

AN ENJOYABLE OCCASION.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF THE WEST NEWTON ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL HIGH SCHOOL.

Many of the former pupils of the English and Classical school of West Newton met last Friday evening in Hotel Vendome, Boston, upon the occasion of the annual meeting of the Alumni Association of that famed educational institution, which was founded in 1854 by Rev. Cyrus Pierce and Mr. Nathaniel T. Allen, who were identified with the first normal school ever established in this country.

The business meeting was held at 7 o'clock, Mr. Eugene F. Fay of Brookline, class of '54, presiding. These officers were elected:

President, Mr. Eugene F. Fay; secretary, Mrs. Florence Houghton King of West Newton; treasurer, Edward C. Burage of West Newton.

The list of vice-presidents chosen represented every class of the school from 1854 to 1893.

Directly after the business meeting brief addresses were given by Messrs. Nathaniel T. Allen and James T. Allen, principal and associate principal of the school; Rev. Joseph H. Allen of Cambridge and Mr. Joseph A. Allen of Medfield, superintendent of the state reform school.

From 8 until 8:30 o'clock an informal reception was held in the state suite. The reception committee comprised: Mrs. Florence H. King, Mrs. Alice Collins Gould, Miss Annie M. Ketchum, Miss Elizabeth T. Thurston, Miss Grace Lemon, Mr. Eugene Fay, Mr. E. C. Burage, Mr. Henry M. Nourse and Mr. George Davis.

A collation was served and the usual pleasant social features were enjoyed by the company present, comprising more than 100 ladies and gentlemen prominent in society circles. Some very handsome gowns were worn and the scene after the floor had been cleared for dancing was one of especial attractiveness, pretty and graceful women, tasteful decorations, the soft, bright glimmer of the electric lights, and the strains of orchestral music presenting an ensemble full of charm and action.

The committee in charge of the terpsichorean exercises consisted of Mr. Percy Curtis, Pedro Ueguiza y Bea, and Miss Sarah Allen. The aids were Messrs. Lyman Bowker, Howard Smith and Frank Hall.

Dancing was enjoyed until 12 o'clock. Soon after that hour the members of the Alumni Association and their guests bid adieu to the annual of '94 and with agreeable memories of a very enjoyable event departed for their homes.

A telegram of good fellowship was forwarded to the retiring president, John C. Ricketson of Pittsburg, Pa.

The Silk Mill Strikers.

The procession of girl operatives from Newton Upper Falls, that marched to the State House in all the rain Thursday, looked not unlike a young ladies' school out for a constitutional. It was curious to note the varied expressions of countenances these damsels wore along with their spring hats and gossamers, though many a girl trudged manfully on without any waterproof or umbrella to protect her. The best of the "demonstration" consisted in the conviction that it was all a mistake, but with true independence and don't-care-a-cent spirit the girls braved it out, and tried to appear quite unaffected by the advice volunteered by spectators, not to say their well wishers, on route. It is safe to say these 50 operatives will take some other measures to press their rights on the labor question. A woman hates to look silly. She would almost rather starve than be made ridiculous in the eyes of the world, and these girls were clever enough to see they had put both feet in it.—Boston Herald.

A Plea for Boys and Girls.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

"Thanks for the timely editorial on 'Collecting Birds' Eggs' in the GRAPHIC of May 28th. I hope parents, teachers and the boys will all read it and heed its suggestions. The subject is worthy the attention of all our local societies, the Garden City Improvement Society, the Horticultural and Natural History Societies and the school committee.

It is getting to be noticed that the number and variety of our local birds is increasing, at least in some parts of our city. This is partly owing to the gradual disappearance of the bullying English sparrow and partly to the increasing number and growth of trees. This is a very welcome state of things on all accounts. The birds are beautiful in form, motion, color and song. Their song is especially charming, because, curiously enough, although their notes are generally sweet, they always sing without notes. But besides being beautiful, the birds are very useful. They are our valuable allies in the war against many insect pests, and ought to be gladly cherished, defended and protected as our friends. A good boy, properly taught, would no more rob a bird's nest than he would pound his little sister.

Yet, somehow, each boy is carried away and enticed by the idea of a collection of birds' nests and eggs. Well, the idea is not a bad one, if only it is not allowed to run away with the fellow like a pond breaking its dam. There is a great collection of birds and eggs in the Boston Museum of Natural History, and another in the great Agassiz Museum at Cambridge. If more be wanted, first, let our own Newton Natural History Society be kindly, and wisely, provided with a place in which to open and exhibit its collections; and if still more be wanted—which is very doubtful, let our schools form collections of local birds, doing it gradually, so as to make no serious inroads upon our serviceable and pretty bird helpers, and companions. But for all beyond this, there is another way which is much better than to make separate collections, hid away in a drawer, and seen by few. It is this: Let everybody in Newton, look upon all the birds together in Newton, with their eggs and nests, as Newton's living bird collection, to be carefully kept alive, and defended as much as possible from cats, snakes and all other destroyers of their lives. A living collection is far more beautiful and every way more interesting than a dead one. Anyone forgetting, or wanting to know how any bird, nest or egg looks, can look at it and write it down. A living collection kept in the memory, is better than a dead collection kept in a box.

But one more: prevention is better than cure. It is partly restlessness from not knowing what to do with themselves, and from having nothing to do, that makes boys rob birds' nests. Here is a very serious matter. Our boys, who are our brightest hopes, are of infinitely more importance than land or goods or dollars. Blessed be every parent who heartily enters into his boys' lives, and provides them with tools, garden or mechanical, and with hens, goats or anything to keep them from the street as their only resort, and mere play as their only occupation out of school. The street! Why do we all instinctively fly to the great, wild, free open country as soon after July 1st as we can, and stay as long as we can? Surely, not only because it is the fashion, but largely because we soon find of ground "dressed up to kill" yes, literally to kill, by being so nice that nobody must step on it, much less play on it. If all our houses were rustic simplicity itself, at least outside, and more vine-clad, and all our lots just half wild enough, at least on some part of all of them, and playing by the side of them, would not hurt them, all life would be more sensible, sweet, simple and delightful.

Yet with lots as small as many of them must be, one thing more is indispensable, and fortunately is easily to be had; and that is, numerous small play grounds, scattered all over Newton, wherever open fields are not free and near by. These would provide, as a few fancy-dress parks, large or small, never can, for all the boys, say from seven to fourteen, and I earnestly hope and beg that our enlarged and strengthened "Garden City Improvement Society" will take up this subject vigorously, as being at least as well worthy of its attention as boulevards, river banks, grade-separation by depression, civilized 3rd of July nights, or any other of the excellent objects which it may have in hand for making Newton the joy of the whole earth. I have not mentioned the girls, but does anyone need to be reminded, to care for them?

Concerning the Issue of Monopoly.

(Springfield Republican.)

Among the speakers at a recent meeting of the Milholland Republican corps at New York was Mayor H. S. Pingree of Detroit, who is attracting much attention in Michigan by his reform administration of the chief city of the state. He gave an interesting account of what had been done in the four years of his public service to free the city from the control of the rings and private corporations holding public franchises. First a cement ring was broken up, which had been bleeding the city of large sums, and a paving ring and a sewer ring of the same kind were next unhorsed—the companies doing business in these lines having been found to be combined together to keep up the terms of contracts with the city and to divide the great profits among themselves. Next, the gas monopoly was induced to reduce the price of gas from $1.75 to $1 and eventually to 80 cents and this even after a fight in the Michigan Legislature, "in which the gas monopoly, as is usual in such bodies, was victorious." More recently Detroit has been brought to establish an electric lighting plant of its own which will light the city at cost, and the mayor predicts that it will then be the best and most economically lighted city in the country. He seems to have great faith in the policy of city operation of all natural monopolies, and is now after the street railways; "the ultimate object for which we are contending is the ownership by the city of everything in the streets, including tracks, and a fare at the rate of eight tickets for 25 cents, with universal transfer. The only thing now standing in the way is the watered stock of the company, and the wringer is busy at work squeezing the water out."

Mayor Pingree is not a professional agitator or reformer, but a successful boot and shoe manufacturer and supposedly a hard-headed man of affairs.

His further remarks on the general industrial problem are thus of some interest.

While this is not strictly municipal, I want to say that the days of watered stocks, immense issues of bonds on titious values, and trusts formed to raise the price on the necessities of life, and all other forms of monopoly whose special objects are to grind down the wealth-producing masses for the benefit of the non-wealth-producing classes, these days are, I say, drawing to a close. I hope never to see the time in this country when force will be used as a remedy against these evils. But the condition of affairs as to the concentration of wealth, which is power, and the spread of poverty, which is weakness, seems to be getting worse instead of better. And it is the history of the world that there is an end to human endurance. The changeable vote in the state of New York indicates the ominous condition of unrest. The tide flows first one way and then another. It is the throes of the popular heart in the vain hope of the people that one party or the other will afford them needed aid and expected relief.

This is a business man's view of the causes, and justification of the popular discontent which is now so profoundly disturbing the country. It presents considerations which all classes need to study.

Paris Green for Canker Worms.

Newtonville, May 28, '94.

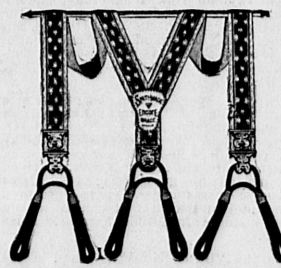

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

For the benefit of your subscribers, residents of Newton, I herewith give you a brief account of my experience with apple tree pests, viz., the tent caterpillar and canker worm. My first fight was with the caterpillar, which I attacked with great zeal by burning their nests. This method proved very unsatisfactory, for if done thoroughly the trees were more or less injured, and if not, a new nest was immediately built by the survivors, and the burning had to be done over again. I found that the proper way was to destroy the eggs early in April, and should any be overlooked, put on some old gloves, gather in the nests and burn them. After getting rid of the caterpillar, I found the canker worm to be far more destructive and difficult to manage. It has taken me four years to find out that Paris green will completely destroy them. One year ago I procured a force pump and showered the trees thoroughly. The next morning the ground beneath the trees were literally carpeted with dead canker worms. Once was sufficient. Now as to the danger of poisoning, there is practically none at all. The rains during the summer wash off every vestige of the poison. My family managed to dispose of about two barrels of apples picked from the trees that I showered with Paris green last year, with no ill effects. This year those same trees are comparatively free from the canker worm, and three of them seem to be loaded with fruit. The operation is so simple that a boy ten years of age could easily do it, allowing five minutes time to each tree. Fifteen cents worth of Paris green is amply sufficient for eight large sized apple trees. Use a pail of water for each tree, making a total of 16 gallons. I write this hoping that others owning apple trees will go and do likewise.

AMATEUR.

P. S. I imagine that the post does double duty by killing bugs and worms in the ground under the trees.

THE SABBATH DAY.

POST 62 AND GUESTS ATTEND SUNDAY SERVICES AT UPPER FALLS AND NEWTON.

Memorial Sunday dawned bright and clear, ushering in a welcome day, after the storm of a week previous.

The morning services, which the members of Charles Ward Post 62 G. A. R. and invited guests, were to attend, took place at 10:30 o'clock in the Baptist church at Newton Upper Falls. Barges conveyed the veterans from this side of the city and there was quite a large turn out to attend the service.

The church was filled to the doors, the unusual visitors drawing many to the service. Draped in the rear of the altar with a shield as the centre, were the American colors, and a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers was placed near the desk. The members of Post 62 occupied reserved seats in the centre of the church. They were represented by about 70 members and with them were delegations from J. Wiley Edmonds Camp 100 S. of V., numbering about 12, A. E. Cunningham tent 2, D. of V., numbering about 20. The musical portion of the service was by a male quartet, consisting of Messrs. Moody of Boston, William Peck of Newton Centre, Edwin Cooper and Edward Newell of this place.

The soprano solo by Miss Edith Newell was an enjoyable feature and Miss Newell and Mr. Cooper sang a duet. The sermon was delivered by Rev. H. S. Davis, pastor of the church, who took for his text, Prov. 14-54: "Righteousness exalteth at nation but sin is a curse to any people."

The thought was derived that righteousness was the source and the pledge of a nation's perpetuity and greatness. The salient events in the development of our national life were portrayed as the result of righteousness as ingrained by our forefathers. The Pilgrim fathers sought these shores to gain freedom of worship, and the predominant idea of true Americanism has always been freedom of thought. To secure national righteousness not only the principle but the practice of entire freedom of conscience in man's individual action must be preserved. This is the prime factor, for national righteousness is but the expression of individual life in the aggregate form. The fountain rises no higher than its source, neither can the nation be better than the individual. Reference was made to the decade between 1855 and 1865 when the political experience of the people and nation, the senseless operation were not then understood. It constituted a period of mystery. But we can look back now and see more clearly the designs of Providence and the lesson to us, that God rules the destiny of every nation, and we believe it has resulted in a nobler and fuller expression in our national life of the American ideal.

There are still great things before us and by preserving righteousness or right doing in the nation we shall secure to our children a worthy heritage. In closing, the speaker referred to the brotherhood which obtains in the Grand Army and its auxiliary organizations. The memory of their service to the country should be preserved and perpetuated not as in the olden time, but by extending this bond of brotherhood which is more enduring and which in itself will constitute a lasting expression of national blessing.

The afternoon services, to which the veterans were invited, took place at 3:30 o'clock in the Channing church, Newton, and it proved one of the most impressive services which the post has attended for several years. The attendance was very large, the great auditorium being well filled, and the decorations about the altar were unusually fine. The railing in front of the choir seats was draped and festooned with the American colors; about the altar were potted plants, hydrangeas and cut flowers, and on either side of the altar was a stack of rifles.

The veterans and friends occupied special seats reserved for them in the front of the church. Charles Ward Post 62 G. A. R., under command of W. A. Tripp, turned out 75 veterans, J. Wiley Edmonds Camp 100 S. of V., under Captain C. E. Kimball, turned out 10 men, A. E. Cunningham tent 2, D. of V., under Miss Ella E. Jeannison, numbered 15, Clinton Guard Co. C. 5th Regt. M. V., under Captain J. Albert Scott, numbered 40 men.

Rev. Mr. Hornbrooke's address was substantially as follows: The text was 2 Timothy II, 3. "Thou therefore endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

The name of the soldier has been an honored one among all nations and in all times. The annals of history recount deeds of military service, sometimes almost to the exclusion of everything else besides. The genius of poetry has always sought to lend new lustre to warlike achievements. The highest rewards of nations have always been given to those who have won victory for them on fields of battle. No profession has been more honored in social life than that of arms. The cause of this is evident. For ages nations have depended upon the soldier for their existence. They needed him, as they needed no other man, and they needed him often. The ability to render military service was in constant demand. Naturally enough he who could respond to the call of his native land in this way, won an almost exclusive portion of its gratitude and veneration. But this is not quite the case today, at least among us. The call for military service is almost unknown to all but the smallest fraction of the men of our country. Almost thirty years have passed away since large numbers of men were called upon to render it. Then our modern life has become so complex that there are many ways besides that in which they are able to serve their country. It is not to be wondered at that less attention is given to the work of the soldier than in days gone by. But while his work is not so much or so often needed, the essential qualities of soldiery are needed as much in all our life as they ever have been. Still as much as he is needed, he is also more and more prized. What are some of those qualities and how may we use them in the highest interests of our country in peace as well as in war?

The most striking quality of the soldier is self-sacrifice. It is that which more than anything else that endears him and enables him. No one can see a company of men marching to where suffering and death awaits them without feeling his eye moisten and his heart throb. That self-sacrifice finds expression in many ways. It is seen in his willingness to do every duty which belongs to him as a member of a military force. He calls the man who is unwilling to do that a shirk. It is seen in the way in which he faces the hardest and most painful tasks. It is seen also in his surrender of personal success to the success of the cause he defends. We need all that today at home, as much as we needed it thirty years ago on the tented field. It is needed to shame the man into a sense of what he is really doing when he evades the payment of taxes which are due from him as a man who owns so much property, and so compels others poorer than himself to bear his burden. It is needed to inspire men to the service of their country on the jury, at the polls, in the performance of civic duties. These things, it is true, take time; often they are unpleasant. But what if they are. The soldier reminds us that no duty ought to be too hard for a man who desires to serve his commonwealth. The soldier, too, teaches us all that the nation, no more than the army, can prosper when men put themselves, their assumed interests and passions and prejudices above the general good of all.

Another quality of the military life is its discipline, its devotion to its leaders, its faith in the cause it serves. Without discipline the army becomes a mob; without devotion to its leaders it loses its self-respect; without faith in its cause it loses its enthusiasm. These alone can enable it to move on with the assurance of victory in its heart. But true as this is of the life of the army, it is just as true of the life of the republic. There are evidences only too abundant to show how much we ought to heed these teachings from the discipline of the soldier. There is a disregard of law which sometimes becomes painful. And this disregard does not come alone from newcomers to our soil, not alone from those who in their determination to secure higher wages face the representatives of law with deadly weapons in their hands, but also from those who in the confidence that comes from financial and corporate power too often act as if the laws of the land were made not so much for their obedience as for their interest. Well will it be for us if we can arouse that spirit of discipline, that can make men fear even if they do not reverence the laws of the land. Then there is too great a reverence among us for the great names of our history objects of mirth. We have even had comic histories of our country. But no nation can do its noblest work or develop the highest form of national character that has no reverence for those who have been its leaders. And no nation that forgets to honor its past is likely to have a future worthy of honor. As Americans let us cultivate the spirit of respect and honor for our representative men.

And we also need faith in our republican institutions. A. We look too much at imperfect and discouraging details, and our own failure to realize as we should like our ideal of a republic. But here we must walk by faith. Let us look at the great ends that have been accomplished. Let us remember that if our form of government has often led to the elevation of bad or inefficient men to high places in the state and nation, other places of government have done no better, sometimes even worse. All forms of government, as well as ours, are experiments. We must develop and strengthen that faith in our republican institutions, which will result in works which will not let them fail. Faith will give us success in our civic endeavors as well as in military. Put the same faith in our men at home, that was in the men whose memories we honor today, and we need not despair of the life of the republic.

Then the success of the army depends upon the character and capacity of each individual soldier. Want of these may render the wisest plans useless. The movement of the whole army is affected by what each soldier in it does. The old emperor William of Germany expressed the true military spirit when he said that one button lacking on his coat would lower the tone of his armies. The knowledge each man possesses adds to efficiency, as we found during the last war that the mechanical knowledge of men in the ranks enabled them to at once repair the damages done by the enemy.

But character and capacity are just as much demanded of us all today as citizens as they were then demanded of men as soldiers. To the extent that men are efficient in their occupations, to the extent that they study to understand the social and moral conditions of their time, to the extent that they develop what is highest and noblest in themselves do they help the nation to do its appointed work.

We belong to a great nation, a nation which has risen into being as the outcome and result of the thought, the work, the aspirations of the ages. It is a nation well worth the best service we can give it, and it needs us all. That service is needed not on the battlefield alone, but everywhere, in the school, in the home, in the shop, in the place of business, in our hours of meditation and prayer. Our service may sometime call for self-devotion, for the endurance of hardship. But what of that? All the great ends of life must be won in that way. The memory of those who died that we might still remain a united people may well inspire us to consecrate our noblest powers to the attainment in our life as a people of those great ends which God has appointed nations to fulfill.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Carpenters commenced work Monday morning on the Hotel Belmont, that was, putting it in thorough repair.

—A large load of pleasure seekers spent Memorial Day at Sunnyside Park in Natick where a variety of sports were in progress.

—The sheds at the Baptist church have been sold to William Chesley and will soon be removed to the great improvement of the church and surrounding property.

—Mr. Irving N. Moody has leased John Richardson's house off Boylston street and will move in this week. W. F. Bird, its late occupant, has moved to Mr. Nicholson's house.

—Memorial Day has not so honored Upper Falls for several years as it did on Wednesday, and almost everyone was at home to receive the soldiers of Newton on their arrival from Newton. The Post 62 boys and their guests in the line of march had a lunch in Prospect Hall at the Wade school after their arrival here. John Walton prepared the spread.

—Rev. James Feeney and Rev. M. J. Sheehan of Boston, the Redemptorist priests, who have been conducting the mission for the two weeks past at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Newton Centre, were at St. Mary's church, Monday, to give instruction for the confirmation which took place Wednesday. About 150 appeared and were confirmed. The work of the mission here promises to be very successful.

—The Wade school held special exercises in the hall, Tuesday, at 2:15 o'clock, in commemoration of Memorial Day. The decorations consisted of flags and bunting gracefully draped about the room, and over the platform hung a portrait of Abraham Lincoln, above which was the school pennant. The children were small flags or colored ribbons, and those of the primary grade wore pretty paper rosettes of red, white and blue. The musical part of the program included the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," "Columbia," and "America." Past Commander Austin Sylvester of Post 62 was present to talk to the children, and he gave them an interesting sketch of the battle of Gettysburg. Recitations followed from Eva Bakemul, Francis Mitchell, Andrew Kempton, Irving Gould, Alice Brown, Louise Randall, Hannah Howley, Helen Gould.

—Mr. Bernard Billings has completely transformed the interior appearance of his drug store this week by the introduction of new fixtures throughout. He had contemplated this move for some time previous and with this in view endeavored to have the store interior fixed up, but this could not be brought about and his business has increased until it became absolutely necessary to make a change which would afford more room and additional conveniences. The new fixtures are all of quartered oak beautifully finished. The counters are low and are surrounded by high show cases of the latest design. The prescription desk, situated as before, is eight feet in length and is handsome in design, having a beveled plate mirror in the centre with lettered cathedral lights on either side. A handsome new soda fountain with front of polished Ruse-Tecan marble and small tables of the same material and design and mould of Belgian black replaces the old fountain. This has fourteen silver draw, syrup tanks and five fountains, two for soda and three for other drinks. A handsome inclined mirror ornaments the top in fine setting of carved oak. In front is an 8 foot white marble over which to serve soda. The design of the fittings and their arrangement is neat and tasteful and reflects credit upon Mr. Billings who selected and planned the arrangement, the fittings and soda fountain all being made to order.

THE VALUE OF RICH MEN.

Extract From an Address by Richard H. Dana, in Boston, Feb. 28, 1894.

When in Chicago at the World's fair you probably saw in the fine art gallery a very striking statue of a group of persons struggling for labor tickets. As you know, there have been times in certain parts of England when labor has been very scarce, and what little employment there was used to be distributed by scattering labor tickets among the people. This statue represented such a scene as often took place. One large, strong man has grasped the ticket and holds it aloft in his hand, a stalwart young man is trying to take it from him. An old man clings piteously to his waist, but all the while the eyes of the fortunate holder are looking at a poor woman with her child at his feet, and he is struggling between his own desire for work and his pity for those more helpless than himself.

Now what does all this mean? It means a scarcity of wealth in that town. Now let us suppose that there should come into that town to stay 100 men with incomes of $15,000 apiece, let us suppose of a rich copper mine in the west. What would be the result? They would build homes. That would create a demand for lumber, bricks, stone, lime, cement, hardware and labor. Then the lumber and hardware dealers would have money, the brick yards would start up and with the joint employment of labor there would be a demand for all sorts of articles.

The storekeepers would have more money, rents would be paid, real estate would advance, and again there would be more demand for goods, and that would be a demand for more labor and that in its turn create demand for goods and so on. Not only the townspeople, but the farmers would be benefited. The demand for farm products would not stop with what the 100 rich men and their families would consume, but storekeepers, mechanics and laborers would be able to afford the pleasure of keeping life in their bodies would now be purchasers of milk, butter, eggs, meat and vegetables.

Now, would it have been a wise policy to have kept these 100 rich men from coming into that town by insisting on imposing an unjust double tax on their property which other countries did not insist on?

I heard on the floor of the legislature last year a member who got up and denounced rich men generally and said, "We don't want any more millionaires in the commonwealth." What is the use of talking that way. It isn't that we want the individual millionaires or that they are any more agreeable than equally well educated, honest and able men who are poor, but we do need their wealth, and yet we insist on a double tax in this state, as none of our surrounding states require, and which tends to keep out and drive out wealth from this state, and efforts are being made at the state house to enforce that unjust double tax more stringently than ever.

What's In a Name?

The custom of naming flats after their builders or owners is a growing one and sometimes results in a curious combination. Just below me are two new flat houses, built last summer. One was named "Albert," and on the plate glass front door of the adjoining one was the word "Madeira," it having been built by a patriotic gentleman who names his flat houses after various wines. But the latter was sold to a man named Hawkins, who forthwith put his own name up. So now the combination is complimentary to the old time and widely known White House coachman, "Albert Hawkins."—New York Herald.

"For Years,"

Says CARRIE E. STOCKWELL, of Chesterfield, N. H., "I was afflicted with an extremely severe pain in the lower part of the chest. The feeling was as if a ton weight was laid on a spot the size of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, leaving as suddenly; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the fever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which yielded readily to the same remedy."

OUR LEGISLATORS.

There is a good deal of talk of the way the Bell Telephone has been favored by the present legislature, and the means taken to bring it about, and to allow the monopoly to divide up its increase of capital stock among the stockholders. Some direct charges of lobbying and bribery have been made, but as of course it is very difficult to prove this sort of thing, those who made the charges in too explicit a manner have had to take them back, and some of the Boston papers have been subservient enough to proclaim that the legislature granted all its favors out of a pure Platonic love for the Bell company, and that there was not even an odor of anything but purity and disinterestedness about it. If this is so, then the men interested in presenting the matter to the legislature must be more than ordinarily persuasive talkers. No one, of course, is simple enough to believe that the legislature would voluntarily except the Bell Telephone's new millions of capital stock from the bill requiring such new issues of stock to be sold at auction, and to pass the stock-auction bill and then not have it apply to the Bell stock, is to make the bill a ridiculous measure. It puts a very elaborate lock upon the stable door, when there is nothing in the stable worth taking away. It is the same old story that is repeated every year, where corporations fare favored at the expense of the public, and plausible arguments are always given why the public should be sacrificed just this once. Those in a position to know, say that the force of lobbyists at the State House was never greater than this year, and evidently they are more than a match for the average legislator in shrewdness, especially if they secure all these valuable concessions for nothing.

The weather for Memorial Day was made to order and could hardly have been improved upon. The dust had been laid by the rain of the day before, and it was just cool enough to make the marching comfortable. The celebration was successful in every feature and great crowds of people reviewed the procession from different points of vantage along the route. The Newton cemetery never looked more beautiful, the early spring and the rains having brought all vegetation forward, and assisted the superintendent to make the cemetery appear in its most attractive attire.

The City Treasurer has disposed of $170,000 of boulevard, School, and Drain four per cent, twenty year bonds, at the handsome premium of $60.44 per thousand, which is the highest price ever paid for city 20 year bonds, and shows the high credit Newton enjoys in the financial world. There were fifteen bidders, and the whole lot were taken by Blodgett, Merritt, & Co. of Boston. The many bidders and the high premium shows what an amount of money is lying idle, ready for safe investment.

The improvements along Cheesecake Brook are getting widely advertised as the proper way to treat a brook that flows through a city, and which usually becomes a nuisance as soon as houses are built along its banks. Engineers from other cities and towns come to visit this brook, and are very enthusiastic over the way the brook has been made a great attraction, and other cities are taking pattern from the example set by Newton.

There are rumors that the gypsy mob has been at work in some parts of Newton, but possibly it is a case of mistaken identity, and the canker worms and apple tree caterpillars are merely parading under a new name. Newton has up to this season escaped invasion by the gypsy mob, and if any of the pests are discovered the fact ought to be made known at once, so that vigorous measures could be taken.

The town of Canton is claiming great credit for its originality in getting rid of the apple tree caterpillar by offering prizes for the collection of nests, just as if the same thing had not been done for several years in Newton by the Newton Horticultural Society, and the example thus set was followed by Canton, as it has been by several other towns.

REPRESENTATIVE ESTABROOK introduced in the House on Monday, a bill instructing the Board of Metropolitan Park Commissioners to investigate the sanitary condition and prepare plans for the improvement of the Charles river and its banks from the line between Waltham and Watertown and Mother brook in Dedham.

THE State House of Representatives has decided that the Boston & Maine railroad shall not be exempted from regulations which apply to all other railroads, and the Senate will do well to recede from its position and follow the example of the house.

THE City of Springfield has taken steps to remove disfiguring poles from its streets, and has ordered telephone wires to be placed under ground, and will get rid of other poles by having electric wires placed on the street railway poles.

UP in Worcester a generous citizen has given a lot of land and $100,000, for a new City Hall, and it looks as though Newton would have to wait for some such generous citizen, if we are ever to have a new City Hall.

SEVERAL contracts for the construction of the new boulevard have been awarded, and work will soon be begun on this long-talked-of improvement.

The Newton Canoeists.

Newton paddlers were again successful in defeating all comers in the races at the Eastern Division Meet of the American Canoe Association on Decoration Day. The Meet this year was held at "Calla Shasta," which is the delightful summer home of the Springfield Canoe Club, situated on the Connecticut River about four miles below Springfield.

The canoeists went into camp on Monday, the 28th, and enjoyed every moment of the three days' outing, notwithstanding the inclement weather.

Interest in the races this year seemed to be centered on the "War Canoe" event and it was in this race that the crew of Newton's "Wawbewawa" showed their thorough training in handling a 25 foot canoe.

"Crews" representing the Springfield, Hartford, Putnam, Newton and Waltham Canoe Clubs had been in training for several weeks and the grand struggle for supremacy took place on the 30th at 10.15 o'clock.

The Newton men made a rather poor start but soon settled down to a "winning stroke" and reached the half mile line in the remarkable time of 2 min. and 33 seconds, winning the race by about one length. The Putnam was a close second, with Waltham and Hartford tied for third place and Springfield a poor fifth.

The race was intensely exciting from start to finish, and proved to be the most interesting event on the entire program. The Crew received a handsome silk banner, and each member was presented with a gold scarf pin in the form of a miniature war canoe, with the words "Calla Shasta '94" engraved thereon.

The "Wawbewawa's" Crew that made such a fine exhibition was under the efficient command of Capt. Louis S. Drake, and paddled in the following order: 1. Francis J. Burrage, stroke, 2. Roger D. Smith, 3. Wm. Wells, Jr., 4. J. W. Brown, 5. Jas. H. Low, 6. Louis S. Drake, 7. Geo. W. Cutler, 8. A. L. Bennett, 9. Geo. B. Smith.

War canoes are fast becoming popular and almost every canoe club in this vicinity has one in its possession.

The Wawbewawa was the first canvas war canoe to be built, and the crew claim the credit of starting the "ball a rolling."

J. B. Robertson and C. Mather won the first prize in the tournament race, which was intensely interesting, and each brought home a handsomely engraved silver cup. Robertson won the upset paddling race, prize a silver cup, and the hand paddling race, prize a small pin of paddles, and Robertson and Mather won the tandem paddling race, two silver cups.

The dedication of St. Joseph's church, Newham, took place Wednesday, the crowning result of Father Danahy's efforts to this end. The clergymen who participated were entertained at the parish house. The main altar of the church is a work of art, and is the gift of the parishioners of St. Mary's church. The beautiful side altars are the gift of the pastor. The stained glass windows are remarkable for their artistic richness. They were donated by Mr. W. Quinlan, Mr. H. Fitzgerald, John Sullivan, C. H. Crowley, Thomas Gahagan, Margaret Durbin, Julia Collins, Edmond Commons, Mrs. Monto, Mrs. Stanton, Dr. W. H. McGowan, Phil Fanning, Patrick McNamara, James Shine, J. F. Buckley, J. H. —We have received a letter from Bernard Clark, one of the men referred to by Mr. J. W. Mitchell of Upper Falls, in his remarks before the board of aldermen, when he said that two families living in his houses had been broken up by the sale of liquor at Upper Falls. Mr. Clark says that as far as the statement refers to him it is utterly false, and also that the other man referred to could not get a drop of liquor at either of the two drug stores. He also says that a man could not buy any more liquor when he was working for $7 a week, and could not collect his pay then, and that this is the reason he moved out of Mr. Mitchell's house, as he did not wish to owe anyone. He now has a job in one of the large manufacturing concerns in Newton, who would not have hired him, he says, if he was not a sober man.

—The second annual Parents' day was held at the Wade school last Thursday and invitations were extended to the parents to visit the school during the day and see the scholars at their regular routine work. About thirty availed themselves of the opportunity thus offered by Master Wetherbee and gained an insight into the work of the school. No change in the regular work of the departments was made, but the visitors went from room to room observing the pupils in studies and recitations. In the hall above an extensive exhibit of the work of each pupil was exposed for their inspection. The exhibit this year was a great improvement over that of a year ago. Master Wetherbee's method of opening the school to inspection is greatly appreciated and affords parents an excellent opportunity to observe the true work of the school.

—The proprietors of the silk mill have taken final action regarding the strike by this notice, received Tuesday from New York, making impossible any arbitration between Agent Kelly and the committee: "Notice is hereby given to the employees at the Newton Mills that the finishing room and dyehouse will resume operations whenever a sufficient number of the help are willing to return to work at the present rate of wages. All the other departments will remain closed down until the tariff question has been settled. (Signed) Wm. Kyle & Co." The girls were naturally dismayed at the statement, but the labor organizers hold out alluring promises to "fix" the company. From an understanding of the local situation for years local citizens have expected some such result, as predicted in these columns last week, and have not sympathized so strongly with the girls as a Boston paper tried to make out Wednesday morning. When the tariff question will be settled is hard to say, and even then the mill may not open as a result of this difficulty.

—The square was black with people while the post and its military escort went by on their way to the cemetery, Decoration Day.

—Mr. Geo. E. Thompson has the contract for plumbing one of the elegant new houses now being erected on Corey Hill, Brookline.

—The Newtonville Cycle Club participated in the bicycle parade in Boston, Wednesday morning. Capt. Williams had 20 men with him.

—There are letters at the postoffice for Mrs. John Anderson, Brown & Cloughlin, H. G. Chase, Miss Winnie Dyer, Miss Mary Marvin, John McCabe and Charles Reed.

—The new block is on the ascent. A trust company, it is said, will be one of its tenants, and offices of the Co-operative Bank will find in it a new location.

—A bicyclist ran into two gentlemen in the square during the parade, Memorial Day, and one of them was knocked down. Neither he nor his companion, however, were injured.

—A benefit dancing party was given in Tremont Hall, Wednesday evening, having for its special object the raising of a fund for Huber Farrell, who was badly injured recently in a railroad accident.

—In the United States court, Tuesday, the cases of Frank Joyall and Frank Horrigan, for sending objectionable literature through the mails, came up. Both were placed on probation and put under bonds in the sum of $1000 each.

—There will be several June weddings here. That of Miss Susie Bigelow and Mr. James Newell occurs in the Universalist church, June 6. Another will be that of Miss Grace Bird and Mr. Harry S. Waterman of Boston in Grace church, June 27.

—The Newton Club Whist team during its stay at the meet of the American Whist League Congress in Philadelphia, was a bit unfortunate, owing to the illness of Mr. H. D. Kingsbury. Mr. Kingsbury played in every match, however, notwithstanding his indisposition.

—Mrs. W. P. and Master William Soule went to Easton last Saturday to attend the funeral of a relative, a young man of much promise, who graduated with honors not long since from the Normal school, and who had begun a successful career as a teacher.

—A recent discovery here is a supposed haunted house on Walnut street, where the servants made a quick exit a few days since, giving as their reason the particulars of a nocturnal visit of spooks. The family claim not to have been troubled and are out for new domestics.

—The members of the aerial ladder truck company had a couple of hours' hard practice with the big piece of fire apparatus, Wednesday evening. The exercise ladder was run up in front of the hose tower of the station and was handled very deftly by the fire ladders.

—The High school battalion made a splendid appearance in the parade Decoration Day, and its marching had not been excelled in recent years. Maj. Benson, a capable military instructor, has just reason to feel proud of his boys and they are certainly a credit to their teacher.

—It is now a settled fact that a lodge of the order of Knights of Pythias will be located here. Alderman Rumney has done much to bring it about. He is, perhaps, one of the best known secret society men in this vicinity and is quite prominent in Masonic and Odd Fellows' circles.

—Mr. Austin R. Mitchell has brought a black colt from his stock farm in Vermont that is said to be about as good a piece of horseflesh as can be found in this city. On Memorial Day he rode behind a pair, a bay and dapple gray, and the pair and handsome turnout attracted a great deal of attention.

—The cards are out for the wedding of Miss Mary Josephine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Woodworth, and Mr. Arthur Willard Vose. The ceremony takes place in the Central Congregational church, Wednesday evening, June 6, at 8 o'clock, and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents on Washington park.

—The block on the square does not look much like having Washington street widened, and it is certainly strange, if there is any intention of such widening, that the city authorities allowed such a block to be started. Possibly the city council intend to widen the street as far as the business section of the different villages, and allow local public spirit to take care of the rest. The new block makes a great difference in the looks of the square.

—Even thus early, the interested politicians are beginning to talk up candidates and possible changes in the make-up of the next city council. Mayor Fennell, it is said, will not run again. There is a strong Bothell sentiment here just now, but at the present stage of the game, one cannot size up public opinion with any degree of satisfaction. Mr. E. P. Hatch will run for —The Rev. F. E. E. Hamilton, who has recently become pastor of the M. E. church here, is one of the most highly educated men in the city. After graduating with honor from Harvard a few years ago and being the class orator of his class, he studied philosophy for three years at the University of Berlin, and afterwards at the University of Paris. He speaks French and German with almost the fluency of a native.

—The attractive home of the Newton Club was the scene for a large company of stay at home, Decoration Day. The attendance of members and guests was very large and those who found their way within the finely appointed building devoted to the 400 was rewarded by various and pleasant forms of entertainment. There was no special program, whist, bowling, billiards and social festivities, affording opportunity for recreation and amusement without the tedium of formalities. The club management is laying out some excellent tennis courts and will take a hand this season in that popular amateur sport, associated with the racquet and net.

—Foundations are being put in for the new edifice of the Central Congregational Church society. The new house of worship will be a handsome structure, and will be an ornament to the section of the city in which it will be located. In design the building will be a simple form of Romanesque. It will be constructed of New Hampshire granite, and in dimensions will be 12x130 feet. The auditorium is expected to accommodate, on the ground floor and gallery, about 1000 people. Pews will be arranged in six rows, with three aisles. The Sunday school room will occupy the south side of the building, and will seat about five hundred. When the subject of a new building was broached last year, the necessary funds to go ahead with the details were quickly raised. Hartwell & Richardson, the architects, will supervise the construction.

—On Monday evening of this week a very enjoyable concert was given in the Universalist church by the Ladies' Schubert Quartet of Boston. This quartet has been heard before with pleasure in Newton, but as its manager has lately engaged for a nocturnal visit of spooks, the family claim not to have been troubled and are out for new domestics.

After the presentation a vocal duet by Messrs. Edward and Willard Clark, and a solo by Mr. Edward Clark, accompanied on the piano by Mr. B. Bluns, was greatly enjoyed. DID THE HORSE PLAY THIS TRICK?

How Two Spanish Gentlemen Happened to Forget to Pay Their Check.

There is a small all night restaurant in a Twenty-eighth street basement where gentlemen of more or less bohemian instincts sometimes go for a quiet bottle and a taste of reasonable delicacies.

As I sat there one night I observed that the two sharp featured gentlemen in dress suits who sat at the table next to mine had already dispatched their second bottle of Chateau Yquem, besides a liberal array of toothsome edibles. They were now chatting over their cigarettes. The greater part of the conversation was in Spanish. Finally they gathered up their overcoats to go, and as they stepped toward the desk, apparently to settle the bill, one of them said to the waiter, "Call in our cab driver and give him a drink."

The jehu entered promptly. "I'll leave the door open if you don't mind, so as to keep an eye on the boss," he said. "He plays tricks on me sometimes."

The beaming 'night hawk' had raised his glass, of a liberal three fingers of whisky, and was just remarking, "Ere's looking at ye, gentlemen," when he glanced out the open door and realized that the "boss that plays tricks sometimes" was leisurely ambling off toward Broadway. Dropping the glass unemptied, he bolted for the door, closely followed by the two gentlemen who wore dress suits and talked Spanish. The latter were laughing merrily, as though the whole affair were a good joke.

They didn't come back right away, and when the cashier, somewhat uneasily, went outside and looked down the street, night hawk, "boss," Spanish gentlemen and all had disappeared.

Then the cashier came back behind his desk. He looked ruefully at the figures on the unpaid check, banged the cash register viciously as he rang up another customer's 15 cents for a cocktail and remarked, "I'd like to know whether that 'boss' was taught to play those tricks or whether my Spanish friends simply took advantage of what was really an accident."

The worldly wise bartender stopped rinsing a glass, dipped a towel disdainfully over his shoulder and said with a pessimistic grin: "There's more ways than one to beat the house. I never saw that trick done before, but I've heard tell of it."—New York Herald.

A Famous Beadle of Paris.

Discours, the beadle of the Church of St. Roch, in Paris, died on Saturday. He was almost famous for his tall stature, imposing air and portly figure, and was at once the tallest of the Paris beades and the senior of them all. Prevost, the beadle of the Madeleine, stood next in stature, and after him came the beadle of Notre Dame, an ex-drum major, who was engaged two years ago by Archbishop Richaud.

Discours was a passionate lover of billiards and went every evening to play at the Cafe Regence, where he used to measure his skill with M. Grevy before the latter was president of the republic. He constantly saw there a man taller than himself, Mr. Theodore Tilton, the American poet, who went to La Regence to play chess and was more than a match for Grevy. The post of beadle in a Paris church is a much envied one among the class of men who compete for it. At Notre Dame, the Madeleine and St. Clotilde the salary is $60, and there are perquisites at grand weddings and funerals. In smaller churches the pay is $40. The gorgeous uniforms and silver headed wand are provided by the vestry.—London News.

What's In a Name?

The custom of naming flats after their builders or owners is a growing one and sometimes results in a curious combination. Just below me are two new flat houses, built last summer. One was named "Albert" and on the plate glass front door of the adjoining one was the word "Madeira," it having been built by a patriotic gentleman who names his flat houses after various wines. But the latter was sold to a man named Hawkins, who forthwith put his own name up. So now the combination is complimentary to the old time and widely known White House coachman, "Albert Hawkins."—New York Herald.

FOR HER.

For her the sweetest blossoms should breathe a perfume rare.
For her the tenderest music should come floating through the air.
For her the choicest pleasures should bedeck and pave the way
And brightest beams of sunlight at her feet in glory play.
For her the blushing rosebud should discard its cruel thorn
And for her heaving bosom other eager searchers scorn.
For her a pure contentment should throw its arms about
And circle her, while pleasure shuts all care and sorrow out.
For her I'd make the journey through this land of bitter tears
A lasting day of smiling love, devoid of doubt and fears.
Her path should glow resplendent, the way be like a dream.
I'd make her life with happiness like dearest heaven seem.

BUD'S COPY.

The city editor opened the door and peered impatiently through the clouds of smoke rolling up over the long center table in the reporters' room.

"Did you get that story, Carleton?" he asked.

"Carleton's not in yet, Mr. Howard," one of the men replied. "He's—"

But the door shut with a bang, to open a minute later, when the same worried voice inquired:

"Where's Bud? No; I suppose he isn't to be found either! Did any one ever know him to be on hand when he was wanted? Here, Bud," as the grimy faced galley and general utility boy in question came in with his proofs, "go down to the foot of F street and find Carleton. There's a wreck off the point, but it won't do us any good unless he gets here with that copy pretty soon. We go to press at 3 o'clock—in just two hours. Bud!"

He stepped with a half smile, for the boy was already part way down the stairs on his way to the street.

None of us knew exactly why we gave the weird, shriveled specimen of boyhood the name of Bud. Possibly it was because of the certainty we felt that he would never become a blossom. He was a thin shouldered, sunken chested little fellow, small even for his 12 years, with a sharp featured, unchildish face, and the suggestion of eternal croup in his voice. He had drifted into the office one stormy night about a year before the time of which I write, and although his request for "a place" had been promptly refused he had calmly staid on and become a fixture. He was not communicative about himself, and we were not particularly curious. One of the women proofreaders discovered before long that the gray rat under her desk was not a more constant habitue of the office than was Bud.

He spent the hours between the time that the paper went to press and the arrival of the day men at 11 o'clock sleeping on a pile of empty mail sacks in a dark corner of the engine room, but from that time on he was alert and ready for business.

As "understudy" for Frank, the regular galley boy, he was fast picking up a knowledge of printing and had occasionally displayed a surprising amount of information regarding the general makeup of a newspaper. Strongly imbued with the idea that all things were secondary in importance and must be subservient to its requirements, nothing pleased him so much as an errand of the kind just given him by the city editor, and we all knew he would return on time if he was alive.

Carleton was a new man on the paper, a little green in the business, but with a "nose for news" and a sense of honor and the eternal fitness of things, coupled with reliability of statement. Mr. Howard had looked over his staff that night before giving the assignment.

"Get to that wreck, Carleton," he said testily. "You are the only man here who can write it up without having the waves roll mountain high." And the new reporter had torn a thick section from the block of copy paper and hurried away.

Bud found no difficulty in locating the wreck, although he could see its dark spears outlined against the sky much better by running along the water front as far as H street. The storm, which had been raging for three days and had finally caused the disaster, had subsided a trifle, and from his distance the great, black hulk seemed resting easily upon the waves. On account of the hour there were but few spectators—only the hurrying life saving crews, the patrolmen and the inevitable groups of ragged wharf rats. And Bud observed, with delight, that not another paper had a reporter on the scene. He looked around for Carleton, and some one told him that the "chap" that had been writing there for a long time, sitting on an overturned small boat, had at last righted the little craft and set off for the half submerged ship.

"He hadn't oughter either," the man continued. "This water ain't as peaceful as it looks. We had a hard pull gettin in the last trip with the passengers, and the wind is risin higher every minute."

It was true that the clouds had begun to roll again, while the lightning threw ever sharper and more jagged fangs across the sky. The crew on shore made hasty preparations to put out. There were still many people aboard the wreck—a number of them women and children. Bud was the first one in the boat.

"Come out of that, youngster," said a sailor. "Be quick with you!"

"I'm goin," cried the boy. "I've got to see Carleton—I've got to, I tell you!" The sailor's hand was on his collar, but Bud clung to the seat with desperation, the muscles in his little hands standing out like a gladiator's.

"I've got to get something for the paper," and his voice rose to a shrill scream.

The man lifted him out, sat him—not the boy's hands, and he dropped backward into the water. He scurried to the shore and stood choking with impotent rage, strange oaths pouring from his lips and his frail hands beating at the air.

The wind increased in violence. The thunder was terrific, and the heavens were cut with broad, white blades. The night grew ever blacker, but he could see by the flashes that the lifeboat rolled heavily and seemed in distress. He sank down and dug his hands deep into the sand. All at once a peal of thunder shook the solid earth. A flash of lightning leaped down and seemed to lap up the sea and ships. Bud uncovered his eyes, and in a moment his shrill voice was added to the chorus of agony sent up from among the flames of the fated steamer. Lightning had struck her, and the boy had heard the sailors say that she carried a consignment of coal oil.

The light was bright enough now, and the watchers could see a small, dark object leave her luminous side and head toward shore. It was the small boat. Bud screamed in ecstasy as he saw a man—Carleton—work at the oars. The time seemed an eternity, and the boat, overcrowded as it was with women and children, seemed to make no progress. It was in danger of swamping. How long before the explosion must occur?

The boy threw himself face downward upon the beach and waited. Presently he lifted his eyes and saw the man in the boat rise and gently put back his hands that were extended toward him, as if in entreaty, and then with a long leap spring into the ocean. Bud saw him strike out with strong, confident strokes, while the boat, relieved of his weight, made a leap forward. Then there was a sudden darkening of the sky as the flames swirled downward, followed by a long, reverberating shock and roar, a glare that turned the heavens into fire, while the waves hissed around the scene with the foam at their lips stained red. There was a hurrying back and forth along the shore, the whirling of long ropes, lassolike, over the waters, and after awhile a few charred, blackened shapes upon the beach.

Bud opened the office door at half past 2.

"This is a nice time for you to show up," growled the city editor. "Where's Carleton? Did you get that copy?"

Bud approached the table slowly, fumbling in his coat with trembling hands.

"I've brought the copy," he said, his lips drawn and ashen. "It's a little wet, 'cause 'twas in his pocket, and"—the boy put his hand up to his throat and sobbed hoarsely—"you see, he—got drowned."—Grace Duffie Roe in Chicago Post.

Dummies in the Band.

Quartermaster Liebhich of the Fifth regiment made a discovery once and has been careful ever since whenever he has occasion to engage a band to play martial music for the gallant boys in blue.

"I wanted to engage a brass band," said he, "and there was a certain rivalry among the boys that made it difficult to reach a conclusion. I finally made up my mind and engaged a certain band, and the next day the bandmaster of the rival organization said to me, 'You watch your band tomorrow and see that they don't ring in any dummies on you.' I didn't know what the man was talking about, so I asked him to explain, and he did. A light then dawned upon me, for he gave the snap deliberately away, that while leaders of certain bands collect so much per man from the people that engage them they frequently ring in people in the band that don't know a bar of music from a bar of soap. They just simply walk along with the rest of the players and nobody is any the wiser. The next day the parade took place, and I followed the advice of the other leader and watched my band carefully. It didn't take long to pick out the two dummies. They just strolled along with the brass instruments at their mouths and acted as though they played without inflating their cheeks. We had to pay for those fellows $3 apiece just the same."

"And what did you do?"

"I asked the leader to tell the two dummies to play solos."

"And they did?"

"Not by a jugful. He simply said that that wasn't in the contract, and he refused to do it. I have had my eyes opened since, and you may rest assured they don't ring in any more 50 cent dummies on me and charge me $3 for them."—Cleveland World.

An Optical Illusion.

If you want a good ending to a little party, take all the guests into the dining room and turn out the gas. Make them all sit around the table, in the middle of which place a soup plate. In the soup plate put some common salt and a little alcohol. Light the alcohol, and then look at each other's faces. They will look natural at first, but as the alcohol burns out and the salt becomes ignited the flame changes from yellow to blue, and the changes in the faces are very startling. They all take on a ghastly look. Eyes stick out, and the skin looks as though drawn tight like parchment. Then the faces become almost black, and when the flame dies out and you go out into a lighted room you unconsciously try to wipe the black off. But it doesn't come. It's all the light from the salt.—Hartford Post.

Reproductive Power of Memory.

As the child, flashing about him a bit of burning stick, may seem to make a circle of flame because the flame point moves so quickly, so memory, though it does go from point to point and dwells for some inconceivably minute instant on each part of the remembrance, may yet be gifted with such lightning speed, with such rapidity and awful quickness of glance, as that to the man himself the effect shall be that his whole life is spread out there before him in one instant, and that he, godlike, sees the end and the beginning side by side.—Maclaren.

HOW WE FELL FROM GRACE.

Reporting Was Too Exact, and He Became a Hotel Keeper.

"Yes," said Michael Angelo Tracy, "I once was a newspaper man, long before I ever thought of hotels and diamonds. It was in Toronto that I made my debut, also exit. My first assignment was to report an inquest. Now, my paper was edited in short, condensed, breezy style, and everything was boiled down. This fact was impressed upon me by the city editor when I went forth in quest of news. Well, I labored like a good fellow at that inquest and brought in a column of matter. The editor read it over with a mingled air of amusement and disgust, and then, laying it aside, said, 'This is all very nice, Mr. Tracy, but we would like to know the verdict.' I had written a column and left out the only piece of news in the item. You can imagine my emotions."

"My next assignment was to report a meeting of the Sons of England, a Tory organization. Now, I was a Liberal and vice president of the Young Men's Liberal club of my native city. The Sons of England were all Tories and bitter opponents of my party. I had hardly taken my seat at the meeting and was preparing to take notes of the proceedings when I was recognized by a Tory acquaintance, and a howl went up that one of the enemy was among them. Instantly the Sons of England rose in a body and demanded that I be put out. I explained to the excited assemblage that I was only at the meeting in the capacity of a reporter, and that I didn't intend to be thrown out. None of the Sons of England present seemed to relish the job of ejecting me, and I remained throughout the meeting. I didn't relish my experience, however, and on my return to the office I told the city editor what had happened. 'Oh, that's nothing,' he said. 'You will get used to little things like that.' I didn't agree with him, however, and that is why I am in the hotel business now instead of reporting suicides and pink teas in my native land."—Louisville Commercial.

A City Without a Woman.

Maiwatin, in Mongolia, close to the borders of Russian Siberia, is the only city in the world peopled by men only. The Chinese women are not only forbidden to leave this territory, but even to pass the great wall of Kalkan and enter into Mongolia. All the Chinese of this border city are exclusively traders, and they accumulate money till their trading with Europe through Siberia has created a sufficient fortune to enable them to return to their native cities and live there in ease with their families. Their dwellings indicate their prosperity. They are separated from the street by a clay wall, rather ugly, it is true, but surrounding generally a very elegant looking house, before which are gambling those sleek looking, plump ones, with unusually big eyes, such as are pretty faithfully represented on Chinese vases and screens. The main part of the houses of Maiwatin is divided into two compartments, and that which is behind is raised. Fires are kept up under this great platform, which is covered with mats that serve as seats by day and beds by night. Opposite the door a niche is generally seen where the domestic idols, unaccustomed to attitudinize to profane eyes, repose behind an ornamented blind. The walls of the reception room are lacquered in red or black and sometimes covered with figured silk, according to the wealth and taste of the owner. The apartment overlooking the court is generally of light wood, perforated and carved, and over these openings colored paper is stretched, producing something of the graceful effect of stained glass. The idol temples are gorgeous buildings.—Chicago Tribune.

Life in Other Worlds.

The fact has been established that the supposed diamonds found in meteorites near the Canyon Diablo, in Arizona, are actually such. This is a matter of profound interest, indicating as it does that such stones exist on other planets. Some authorities assert that diamonds—like coal, which is so nearly of the same chemical construction—could not possibly come into existence without previous vegetable growths to generate their material. For this reason they infer that the finding of the gems in the meteorites proves that there must have been vegetable life in the place whence the meteorites came. If there was vegetable life there, it is a fair presumption that there was animal life also. All this may be untrue, but it affords the first glimpse ever obtained into the greatest problem that mankind has ever attempted to handle—namely, the question whether life exists in other worlds than ours.—Philadelphia Press.

Irrigation by Dog Power.

Manuel E. de Costa, who resides six miles south of Sacramento on the Riverside road, has built an ingenious machine for irrigating his flower garden and his orange and lemon trees. It consists of a wooden wheel 10 feet in diameter and with a rim, or tire, about 2 feet wide. A dog is placed inside the wheel, which is turned by his weight as he gallops in treadmill fashion. The revolution of the axle turns a crank which operates the handle of a pump set in a dug well. After half an hour's exercise the dog is taken out and a fresh dog put in for another half hour. The dogs seem to enjoy the work, for they bark and wag their tails when they are brought to the wheel. They know that it means something good to eat at the end of the half hour's work.—Sacramento Bee.

Only.

"I'll work my fingers' ends off to support you if you'll only have me."
"But I don't want a slave."
"Ah, considerate girl! What do you require?"
"Only."
"Love?"
"No; a millionaire."—Boston Gazette.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE—Manager Harry Askin promised theatre goes a genuine treat with the opening of the Tremont Theatre summer season of comic opera, and the crowded houses and universal approbation proclaim loudly that his promises have been fulfilled. The keynote of his endeavors has been to transform the Tremont to combine the coolness of the seashore, the fragrance of the country, and the enjoyment of a playhouse. The oldest patron of the theatre has been simply astonished at the many innovations that have taken place.

"Patience" has never had a better presentation than that now given at the Tremont. The cast and chorus is perhap the most expensive one that has been associated together for many a day. The "Pirates of Penzance" will soon be on the boards, but "Patience" will surely run for another week. A novel feature of next week's performance will be the naming of each night after some town, which on that night will send in a theatre party.

PALACE THEATRE—Barry and Fay's great success in Irish Aristocracy, will be the attraction at the Palace Theatre.
 As a fun producer the comedy has no superior. Its dialogue is extremely witty and it abounds in the funniest situations and incidents. There is not a dull moment in it and the auditor is kept in a state of continual merriment throughout its action. There is plenty of good singing and dancing in the piece to enliven the different scenes. The play will be presented with all the original scenery and effects by a capable company headed by that clever Irish comedian William F. Carroll.

Board of Health.

The board of health Tuesday afternoon gave several hearings, and hearings were set for June 12, for J. B. Murphy, J. M. Briggs, and J. N. Bacon, relative to entering the sewer on Washington street.

Orders were passed requiring Albert Gay to abate a dump nuisance on Highland avenue, also requiring these parties to connect with the sewer: Melton Bray, corner Institution avenue and Beacon streets, Cabot C. Walworth, Lake and Moreland avenues, D. S. Farnham, Centre and Beacon streets, Mrs. O. H. Walker, Lake avenue, J. M. Woodbridge, Beacon street, E. C. Dudley, Beacon street,
 J. O. Teale, Lowell street, Patrick O'Brien, Crafts street; revoking the license of John Lane to keep cows, and giving him and James Claffy 60 days to dispose of their cows.

W. H. Mague put in a bid for removing night soil, which was laid over.

The nip of a poisonous snake is but a slight remove from being more dangerous than the poison of Scrofula in the blood.
 Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies the vital fluid, expels all poisonous substances, and supplies the elements of life, health and strength.

"The Country Week" Public Appeal.
 The Country Week, carried on by the Boston Young Men's Christian Union, gives a country visit of about ten days to as many poor children of that city as can be provided for, special attention being paid to those in delicate health, and every effort being made to promote the welfare of all.

During the recent seasons more than three thousand have annually been recorded on our lists, and we would rather increase than lessen the number; but our receipts have been so much less than usual this season that the work must be greatly curtailed unless more money is promptly contributed.

The charity during the past twenty years has abundantly established its claim upon the public consideration.
 Its benefit is practical, immediate, and lasting, and its administration is believed to be judicious and economical.

We therefore make this special and urgent appeal in behalf of Boston's little ones, now eagerly waiting for a needed outing, and many of them to be disappointed unless generous friends come to their aid.

All donations, large or small, will be most heartily welcomed, which may be sent by mail or otherwise, directed to
 Wm. H. Baldwin, President B. Y. M. C.
 Union, 48 Boylston street, Boston, and marked "For The Country Week," for which receipts will be promptly returned.

Canker Worms.
 To the Editor of the Graphic:—

There has been some discussion as to the nature of the worms which have left some apple trees as bare and brown as if a fire had swept over them. They are what are called canker worms and seem to be more prevalent than for many years. A strip of tarred paper fastened tightly around the trees, coated every few days with tar, or a cheap kind of printer's ink, is a sure protection, as any one can see by travelling about the city.

Trees thus protected are untouched, while other trees across the street have not a leaf on them. I see that some apple trees in front of the old cemetery on Centre street, that presumably belong to the city, have had their foliage destroyed, although their bark was carefully scraped, to destroy the eggs of the tent caterpillar. The canker worms like a smooth bark, and as they last through the season, instead of for a few weeks,
 like the tent caterpillar, they will probably attack the elm trees next, unless precautions are taken. AGRICULTURIST.

NEWTON BOULEVARD.
 CONTRACTS FOR TWO SECTIONS AWARDED BY THE HIGHWAY COMMITTEE.

The highway committee of Newton have taken the first steps toward making a practical reality of the new boulevard.
 Bids were opened and two sections of the roadway were let out. They were numbered 5 and 6. The former extends from Valentine to Chestnut street, while the latter section extends from Chestnut to Washington street.

The contract for No. 5 was awarded to Jeremiah C. Cotter & Sons, and sec. 6 to Thomas E. Mague.

Secs. 3 and 4, which comprise the district from Centre street to Valentine street, will be laid out by the city.

Secs. 1 and 2, comprising the distance from the Boston line to Centre street, to Frank Stuart and W. H. Mague, respectively, and the contract price was about $28,000 and $23,000 for two sections. The total for the sections where contracts have been awarded is about 20 per cent. less than the estimates, which is fortunate for the city.

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the puru-lent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which is the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results by its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best and only cure. Call upon your druggist for it.

Lack of vitality and color-matter in the bulbs causes the hair to fall out and turn gray. We recommend Hall's Hair Renewer to prevent baldness and grayness.

—The bride was prettily attired in white mousseline de soie, her veil being held in place with lilies of the valley, and the same flowers formed her bouquet. Miss Devens was maid of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Spurr will reside in Chicago.

—The item in a contemporary last week that Auburndale wants "more than two months each day" sounds funny. Six mails arrive at the local office every day and eight are sent out and have been for several years. This is one more per day than the Newtonville postoffice has. Newtonville carries about 1700 letters, a total of 17. Citizens appear to be very well satisfied with the present service which is practically the same in time as all the other Newton offices on the main line of the railroad, and differing in the arrival and departure of the mail trains at the different stations.

—Henry E. Parker, eldest son of the late architect, Charles Edward Parker, and brother of Horatio W. Mr. Parker is also harbor master at Newport News. The new pier is 650 by 170 feet, and the grain elevator, second largest in the world, has a capacity of one and three-quarters millions of bushels.

—There was a quiet wedding in Grace church, Newton, on Sunday after the Communion service, in the beautiful chapel, when Miss Cornelia E. Parker, only daughter of Mrs. Charles Edward Parker, was married to Mr. Stephen Arnold Bailey of Telluride, Colorado. Rev. Dr. Shinn officiated and the bride was given away by her brother, David F. Parker. Only the immediate family were present.

—The bride has a handsome dowry, consisting of a handsome copy of the service for the solemnization of matrimony, bound with the signatures of friends who are present. A lunch was served at the home of the bride, for the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will visit Mrs. Bailey's eldest brother in Newport News, and go westward via the F. & V.

—The Woodland Park hotel was the scene of a very pleasant gathering last Saturday evening. The occasion was the annual reception of the students of Boston university tender to the outgoing senior class. The students went out on a special train early in the afternoon and were joined by members of the faculty and friends at the hotel. The time passed pleasantly, some playing tennis and croquet and others bowling, dancing and playing pool and billiards. Many spent the afternoon on the Charles. After the banquet the president spoke a few words to the assembled students, and at a late hour the party took the train to Boston. Among those present were Dean and Mrs. Huntington, Prof. and Mrs. Taylor, Miss Taylor, Miss Perry, Miss Warren, Lindsay, Perrin, Kirby and Coit.

—The Centenary M. E. church was the scene of a very pretty wedding last evening when Miss Carrie Lucena, daughter of Mrs. George L. Bourne, was united in marriage to Dr. John Densmore Brewster of Windsor. The church was finally decorated for the occasion, tall palms mingled with potted plants and festoons of evergreen surrounding the altar, and in the centre a mass of daisies, buttercups and vines. The invitations issued numbered 800 and the church was filled with relatives and friends. The bridal procession entered the church at 8 o'clock to the strains of the "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn played by the organist, Mrs. Estabrooks. The six ushers preceded the maid of honor, Miss Julia Bourne Hatch of Dorchester, and the bride, standing upon the arm of her brother, Mr. George H. Bourne, who gave her away. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Fred M. Goodwin of Hartland, Vt., a nephew, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas W. Bishop, pastor of the church. The bride was attired in a white satin gown, cut en train and trimmed with duchesse lace. She wore diamond and pearl ornaments, including a handsome star shaped pendant of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom. The tulle veil was fastened with lilies of the valley and she carried a bouquet of the same flowers. The maid of honor, cousin, wore pink mousseline de soie and carried brides' roses. The ushers were A. H. Burroughs of Hartland, Vt., nephew of Dr. Goodwin, Luther T. Mayon of Newton, Dr. George H. Harvey, Fred D. and E. R. Barnes and Howard Bourne of Auburndale. As the party retired, the march from Schopenhauer was played. A reception attended by relatives and immediate friends at the home of the bride on Melrose street followed, where Dr. and Mrs. Brewster were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Bourne, mother of the bride. The house was prettily decorated with flowers and trailing vines and in an upper room the presents were displayed, comprising a large variety of valuable silver-ware, rare bric-a-brac, works of art, etc., among which were a handsome oil painting from Lasell Seminary and a complete set of solid silver from "Auburndale friends." Dr. and Mrs. Brewster left later in the evening for a brief wedding tour before going to their pleasant home in Windsor, Vt., where they will be at home after June 23.

Among those at the reception were Mr. C. O. Fox and family, Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brewster, Mr. Lyman Cabot, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Harpin, Windsor, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Reed, Worcester; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Flagg, Charlestown; Mrs. E. Hatch, Dorchester; Mrs. R. J. Hatch, Athol; Mr. J. G. Rice, Woburn; Mrs. Eben Tourjee, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. R. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Spaulding, Mrs. Franklin Estabrooks, Auburndale; Mr. and Mrs. Pollard, Newton Highlands; Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Stott, West Newton; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cabot, Newtonville.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

MEETING ON GRANTING DRUGGISTS' LICENSES IN UPPER FALLS—FOUR NEW PATROLMEN—JURORS DRAWN—FIRE APPROPRIATIONS—THE MAGUE PIGGERS AGAIN.

The regular meeting of the aldermen was held Monday evening, the mayor presided and every member was present. There seemed to be more than a cursory interest in the proceedings of the board on this evening, to judge from the increasing number of people who found places in the chamber as the time for opening the session approached. It was noticeable that most of the spectators came from Newton Upper Falls, and in addition to the male portion of the attendance there were quite a number of girls and ladies. Among the more prominent of those present were ex-Alderman George Pettie, Mr. Otis Pettie, Mr. H. B. Parker, Mr. Geo. Albree, City Solicitor Slocum, Mr. Amos L. Hale, Mr. Bernard Billings, Mr. Joseph Temperley, Mr. Herbert E. Locke, Dr. J. R. Dean, Dr. W. H. McOwen, Mr. J. W. Mitchell and W. A. Marcy, Esq.

The session was called a little late owing to a previous committee meeting and the records were read and approved.

The mayor submitted an invitation from H. H. Sawyer, representing the Young Men's Assembly of Watertown, to attend a public meeting in the Town Hall, Wednesday evening, June 13, in the interests of the Charles river improvement, which was accepted.

Papers from the common council were passed in concurrence.

A hearing was granted the N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. on locating additional underground conduits.

Mr. Albree of the company stated that they wished to extend the work commenced last fall on Centre street into Franklin street, and to begin similar conduits in connection with the West Newton exchange for the distribution of their lines in various directions.

The company intended to gradually extend the underground system in the future. No remonstrants appeared and the hearing was closed.

A hearing was also opened in behalf of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Co. for an area light pole, corner of Berkeley and Chestnut streets, and was closed without remonstrance.

Alderman Roffe claimed the attention of the board at this point, stating that he held a petition from Bernard Billings of Newton Upper Falls for a sixth class druggist's license. It had been advertised by authority of the distribution committee, and as parties interested in the matter were present, he moved that they be granted a hearing at that time.

The motion prevailed and a hearing was opened.

The petition was first presented and referred in due form.

Ex-Alderman George Pettie was the first speaker. He appeared in favor of granting license in Newton Upper Falls, representing Mr. Billings, some of the residents of that village and himself.

He felt some embarrassment in speaking as it had pleased the board to refuse licenses in that section of the city, but the privilege thus denied had led to serious inconvenience to the citizens of the place in securing medicines and filling prescriptions, which necessitates their going to Newton Highlands or Boston.

They asked equal facilities as allowed all other sections of the city, which he believed they had a right to request from the board. He desired, before proceeding, to hear what ground the remonstrants had for opposing licenses in that place.

The mayor stated that the board would hear all the evidence in favor, that the remonstrants would then be heard and that Mr. Pettie would then have an opportunity to close.

Mr. Marcy for the remonstrants wished to ask Mr. Pettie a few questions and was granted the privilege.

Q. You are quite a prominent man in Upper Falls, are you not?

A. I should not like to say about that.

Q. You have been an alderman?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know that Mr. Billings has violated his license and sold liquor illegally, don't you?

A. I hardly think I should make that statement.

Q. You have been pretty active for Mr. Billings.

A. I have been active for no one.

Q. But you have thrown your influence in his favor.

A. Whatever influence I have, has been exerted in behalf of the interests of the citizens.

Q. You have seen some of the aldermen?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You signed the petition in his favor?

A. I signed a petition circulated by the citizens in favor of license in that village.

patronage then?

A. I have enjoyed a majority of their patronage.

It was then brought out that alcohol was an important factor in the business and in compounding prescriptions, very few of which were without it in some form or other.

Q. Without license, then, you are out off from compounding prescriptions which require it?

A. That is what I believe and practice.

Mr. Billings in answer to questions said he had been postmaster for 16 years and handled large money order amounts every month.

This line of questioning was interrupted by the mayor, who thought it irrelevant to the question.

Mr. Pettie replied that he understood the remonstrants had attacked the character and business integrity of Mr. Billings and wished to show how false statements of that kind were.

The mayor said if such charges were made the petitioners would have an opportunity to reply later.

A letter from Rev. H. S. Davis of the Baptist church was then read, protesting against the granting of sixth class licenses and remarking an increased orderliness and absence of loafers in the square near his church on Sundays.

The side of the remonstrants was opened by Mr. Otis Pettie who came there as opposed to license in any form or place. It had come to his ears that some gentleman had been interviewing the aldermen under his name and he had come there to place himself in a true light on this matter before them.

He did not know how true the rumor was, but had heard it. Regarding the compounding of medicine he read an extract from the Massachusetts statute law, allowing druggists to sell pure alcohol for medicinal chemical or manufacturing purposes. As he understood it this allowed no hindrance to the compounding of prescriptions. He believed as far as the Falls were concerned no license was needed. The petition which he signed in remonstrance was done so conscientiously. But for the rumor alleging duplicity of action on his part he might have appeared in a different light before the board. He did not believe a majority of the better class of people wanted license.

Alderman Hamilton—Do Upper Falls people think the aldermen have discriminated against that portion of the city?

Mr. Pettie—I have heard nothing said against the board of aldermen.

Q. In your judgment are a majority of the more influential people against license?

A. I think a majority of the better class are.

Q. A majority of the voters?

A. No, I should say not.

Q. What is the feeling since the action of the aldermen in this matter?

A. Satisfactory, so far as I am concerned.

Q. Have you heard any opinions expressed relative to the noise or number of loafers on Sundays?

A. I do not go into the square on Sundays. One lady remarked to me that she felt she could go to the postoffice with a greater degree of satisfaction and freedom from an offensive crowd.

A trader near there told me more people had paid their bills recently than usual.

Q. Do you believe liquor is sold there now?

A. I don't know. One of the papers said locally awhile ago that Upper Falls was very dry now.

Alderman Plummer—Do the people object to license if it is lived up to?

A. I am not prepared to answer as I have heard no expression. I don't think license is necessary.

Alderman Thompson—Was there any fear among ladies when license was in force?

A. I only have heard the remark of that one lady.

Alderman Plummer—You consider from these petitions that the best people are opposed to license?

A. Yes, sir, emphatically.

Mr. Oscar A. Nutter thought those most inconvenienced by no license were those who drank habitually. These parties now had to go out of the village to get what they required. Referring to the petitions for license first submitted containing 132 names, he said seventy-five were not voters, four were not supposed to live there, two were down twice, three were now suspected of selling, eleven were men who had been discharged from work because of drink and twenty-three were habitual drinkers. Of the last petition fifty-two were voters and twelve were not voters in that precinct. He was not opposed to Mr. Billings, for whom he had a great regard, but did not want any license in the place.

The mayor presented a petition here from O'Hare & Kerrigan for a sixth class liquor license at Newton Upper Falls, which was referred.

Alderman Hamilton to Mr. Nutter—What is the relative proportion of the signs of all these petitions?

A. I should say many more have asked for it, than oppose it.

The mayor—Leaving out those who are not citizens?

A. I should think about evenly divided.

Alderman Rumery—Do you know who circulated the petition you first analyzed?

A. There were several petitions. I think I do know, but should not care to say.

others have.

Q. How long ago?

A. On Apr. 18, 1893.

Q. Any other time?

A. Not since then. I remember the date because it was Sunday. I have got it there other times before.

Q. How long have you been in the United States?

A. Three years.

Q. Are you a voter?

A. No.

Q. Did you sign the petition against granting licenses?

A. I did. I was one of the committee of the Good Templars on the matter.

Q. And still not a voter?

A. No.

Continuing, Young said dice had been shook and liquor drank from the glass in Mr. Billings store.

Alderman Thompson—When did this occur?

A. Within three months.

Q. Do you know it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How do you know?

A. I was told.

Q. I thought you said you knew?

A. Well, I know from what I have been told.

Dr. W. H. McOwen, who has practiced in Upper Falls for nine years, said he did not come there from any personal motives, but believing the best interest of the place was opposed to license.

He had no personal feelings against any one and no confidences to betray. The mothers of families had spoken to him and asked his influence in their favor.

He had told them to go to the store and see Mr. Billings and they had done so with good results for a time. He thought it was time to refuse licenses when he was told a city official in uniform could drink there and another had stood with a committee from the city government and drank liquor drawn from the soda fountain.

Alderman Hamilton—With respect to drawing liquor from the fountain what authority have you for such a statement?

A. I know what he said.

Q. Is he a responsible and reliable party?

A. Yes I think I can say so.

Alderman Roffe—Have you a regard for his veracity?

A. Yes,—quite a regard.

Alderman Plummer—Do you consider the discharge of an offending party in the store has eliminated a disturbing factor?

A. I certainly do. The character of the two men is not to be compared. I have a great regard for Mr. Bernard Billings.

Alderman Hamilton—Is there any change recently.

A. I feel that there has been a change.

Mr. George Pettie—Have you seen anyone under the influence of liquor there recently?

A. Yes.

Q. A dozen?

A. Yes, as many as a dozen.

Q. Do you think they got it at Mr. Billings's store?

A. I don't think Mr. Bernard Billings would sell it. Don't believe he has sold it in the last five years.

Q. In the course of your practice, do you come across any kitchen bar rooms?

A. I think there are some.

Mr. Marcy took the doctor in hand and elicited the fact that he was a graduate of the Harvard Medical school and that he needed brandy or whisky in his prescriptions about once a month.

Joseph Temperley spoke as one interested in temperance but belonged to no organization. He believed there was no influence other than a desire for reformation in the opposition to these licenses, and temperance people would be glad to see every drug store in the city refused a license.

The open bar rooms of the past had been closed up and now a lever was being exerted against the druggists. The place is improved since the first of May, and the patrol wagon does not come up there so often, he claimed. There was no such much liquor drunk there now as before. He had signed a petition against license and had talked with many who would have signed, but for the enmity thereby engendered.

Alderman Hamilton—How many in that attitude have you talked with?

A. I know of two old residents and might find more if I tried.

Quite a sensation was created by the introduction of a new witness, who was brought to the hearing by M. H. Coffin.

The latter said he did not come with any malice toward anyone, and had brought a boy who had been in the habit of carrying liquor about the village from Mr. Billings's store.

His name was Charlie Andrews.

He had been hired for a few cents to go and get liquor.

Alderman Hamilton—Do you know that he has done so?

Mr. Coffin—Ask him, I have not questioned him at all. Let him tell you if he would come here tonight with me.

Alderman Hamilton then directed his queries to the boy.

Q. How old are you?

A. Ten years.

Q. You have carried liquor, have you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When?

A. Last summer.

Q. What did they do with it?

A. I don't know.

Q. Were they sick?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You carried it to them because they were sick?

A. That's what they said. (laughter.)

Mr. Pettie—You have been in the habit of carrying packages for Mr. Billings?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How did you know there was liquor in them?

A. I didn't.

Q. Did you always go for Mr. Billings or for others?

A. Sometimes for others.

Q. Did you carry an order when you went to the store?

A. Yes, sir.

Alderman Hamilton—How much did you earn in all? How much did you get?

A. Five or ten cents.

Q. Did you earn as much as a dollar?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Coffin spoke in reference to the square which he said was much less frequented Sundays than formerly.

Herbert E. Locke spoke for Rev. Nathaniel Fellows who was unable to be present, but was in hearty sympathy with and endorsed the action already taken by the board.

Mr. Marcy in summing up for the remonstrants, thought it had been clearly shown that Mr. Billings' license had been violated. He continued in a personal strain against Mr. Billings for several minutes, and after speaking of the discharge of a certain clerk at the store, which, he claimed was simply a blind, as the gentleman was now in the post office, next door, proceeded to unfold an elaborate plan of the store and post office, and to describe in detail to the board of aldermen just how far away

The aforesaid gentleman was located. The plan, he stated, was not drawn to any scale, unfortunately, but the approximate number of feet between the prescription desk in the drug store, which is quite a nice affair, with plate glass front, etc., and the office chair before the roll top desk in the post office, was shown. The room between the post office and the drug store he called the stock room, as he had never been in there, and did not know what it contained. Then from a little back room, he explained, stairs took one to the second story, or so he understood, for he had never been in or up there, to what he called the "laboratory" for want of a better name. He then made the statement that on this second floor with the "laboratory," a social club was located, where he was told that gambling and drinking formed a prominent feature of amusement, and he demonstrated how convenient that "laboratory" must be to them. To return to the post office, of course it was very easy, he resumed, for this gentleman to step into the drug store if so disposed, and dispense liquor, ammonia, or anything else.

Alderman Bothfeld rather brusquely interrupted a beautiful theoretical development, by inquiring what all this proved. If these things could not be proved the board had other business in which to employ the time.

Alderman Plummer to Mr. Marcy—Do you mean that Mr. Edward Billings is in the drug store and selling liquor?

Mr. Marcy. No.

Q. Do you mean to convey any such idea?

A. I only told this as I thought he was not a respectable party.

Alderman Hamilton—Do you mean formerly or now?

A. Formerly.

Mr. Marcy in concluding claimed the petitioners had not advanced one point.

Mr. Peetee in concluding for the petitioners touched upon the testimony introduced. Notwithstanding the police and other officials of the city, according to the remonstrants, the square was filled with loafers to the discomfort and terror of ladies and others. Mr. Davis' letter had been included in these remonstrants, when he might have been relieved by the police had they been asked. One lady only has referred to disorder in the square and these things are used against the petition of 200 of representative resident citizens of the village.

Fifty are claimed not to be voters, but even if 100 are taken away there are still 100 citizens left who ask for license and these are the people who own the houses and pay taxes into the treasury of the city of Newton. Today the people of Upper Falls go to Newton Highlands or elsewhere to buy their medicine, where before they have purchased of the local stores. Discrimination is made against these citizens, while all other sections of the city enjoy the privileges allowed by a sixth class license.

The remonstrants say they did not try to get all the names they could, and only 20 names are filed at the office of the city clerk, and these are used as the expression of the whole village to deny the druggists of that place and the citizens, the privilege of the square and these things have been more real drunkenness lately than usual. The claim is made that Mr. Billings has been selling illegally and indiscriminately. Is there a store in the city that is not selling illegally? But one man is singled out for punishment and the others are allowed to continue.

At a recent hearing Mr. J. W. Mitchell, although remonstrating against the issue of license there, expressed the opinion that Mr. Billings was fair, conscientious, and that if license was granted, there was no doubt that the business would be conducted to the satisfaction of this board and the citizens of Newton Upper Falls. There is no question in our minds but that he was discriminated against.

The petitioners should be accorded the same privileges enjoyed by other sections and it is just as much the business of the city fathers to see that the letter of the law is adhered to in this as in every other case. Then these remonstrants who have no word to say against Mr. Billings can go to him if they have a grievance and be assured he will govern himself accordingly. When reform is shown to be sound and logical there is no such weakness in its presentation as exhibited here, and it is adopted without successful opposition.

This closed the hearing.

The N. E. Telephone & Telegraph Co. accepted a location for underground conduits which was received.

A communication was received from the inspector of buildings relative to the erection of a stable, 30x30 for Chas. Curtis on Otis street. It had the approval of that official and was accordingly granted.

A petition was received from the drivers of the fire department and of Chemical B for an increase of pay to $2.50 per day.

Referred to fire department.

The mayor made these appointments to the regular police force for a probationary period of six months.

Charles H. Tainter, Nathaniel Seaver, John A. McKenzie and Festus A. Putnam.

They were confirmed.

These jurors were drawn for the next session of the Superior Court.

Chester Guild, Jr., Park street, Ward Seven, Richard H. Adams, High street, Ward Five.

John J. Forbes, et al., petitioned for extension of the sewer 600 feet in Freeman street. Referred.

Wm. Cahill, et al., petitioned for sewer in Lexington street from River street to the Waltham line. Referred.

J. C. Elms petitioned for the laying out of Elmhurst road and sidewalk on same. Referred.

U. G. Gray petitioned for an officer to be stationed at Riverside.

Alderman Plummer said this was a much needed provision for public safety. Many of the boat and launch men returned home at night oftentimes with considerable sums of money and several people had been waylaid in the late evening, one man losing quite a large sum which he was fortunate enough to recover later. He thought it advisable to make some provision for police protection here.

The petition was referred to the police committee.

Alderman Bothfeld for the highway committee reported, recommending the discontinuance of a portion of Beacon street; relative to the assessment of betterments on the Cheesecake boulevard on the basis of the improvement of the brook and the laying out of the street; also recommending the granting of various petitions for sidewalks.

An order appropriating $951 for the water board to lay 700 feet of mains in Cornell and Ottawa streets was passed; also an order to construct various sidewalks on Winthrop and other streets.

Alderman Bothfeld offered the following order:

CHEESECAKE ASSESSMENTS.

An order was adopted making assessments on account of widening, deepening and straightening Cheesecake brook from Watertown street to Charles river. The following is the list of assessments: Emily A. Parker, $1100; Anna M. Hyde, $700; Lucy J. Cate, formerly Fuller, $350; Amasa W. Tarbox, $800; John C. Chaffin, $300; Emeline Maynard, $3000; Robert H. Hill, $300; Mary C. Morrill, $800; Gilbert Maynard, $100; George B. Wilbour, $500; Harrison Danham, $1200; Alice D. Hall, $500. Total $9650.

An order was adopted making assessment on abutments of Cheesecake brook from Watertown street to Charles river on account of highway built on each side of same. Emily A. Parker, $733.33; Anna Hyde, $466.67; Lucy J. Cate, formerly Fuller, $233.33; Amasa W. Tarbox, $533.33; John C. Chaffin, $200; Emeline Maynard, $2000; Robert H. Hill, $200; Mary C. Morrill, $533.34; Gilbert Maynard, $66.67; Geo. B. Wilbour, $333.34; Harrison Danham, $800; Alice D. Hall, $333.34. Total $6433.34.

Alderman Bothfeld explained that in all but three cases it was simply a matter of form as the land had been released to the city.

Alderman Hunt reported in favor of constructing sewers in River, Beach and Faxon streets. Accepted.

W. S. Sloum for the building committee of the Central Congregational church petitioned for permit to occupy eight feet of Walnut street. Referred.

C. F. Eddy petitioned for concrete sidewalk on Parsons street. Referred.

Alderman Rumery presented a letter from W. H. Baker, having a claim against the city in favor of Dr. E. F. Newton of New York for damage resulting to property corner of Harvard street and Norwood avenue during the construction of the sewer, the house remaining idle for six months. Referred to sewer committee.

S. E. Strout et al., petitioned for two street lights on Paul street. Referred.

J. H. Farrar, Cook street, petitioned for a pool table license. The petition was accompanied by a petition in its favor signed by C. W. Kinder et al., Referred.

D. Frank O'Hare petitioned for a sixth class liquor license at Newton Upper Falls. It was received, referred and ordered advertised in the Newton Journal.

Alderman Plummer presented an order requesting the mayor to order the flags to be displayed on all public buildings, and the city hall closed on Monday, June 18th. Passed.

C. F. Crehore & Co. endorsed D. W. Warren's petition for license as a public weigher and the mayor appointed and the board confirmed this action.

Orders were passed giving notice and appointing hearings on the laying of sewers in Faxon and Beach streets.

The board then took a recess for 20 minutes.

Upon reassembling Alderman Rumery put in an order appropriating $750 for the fire department, to expend $500 in the purchase of additional hose and $250 for a new horse for Truck One.

Alderman Bothfeld wanted information regarding the order.

Alderman Rumery said the committee had $400 and proposed to put $500 more into it to make up their regular complement of hose. The horse was to replace one of the white span which was about 30 years old. The latter was to be transferred to the supply wagon at Newton Centre.

Alderman Roffe believed it imperative to see that the bulky horse on Stearns Three should be replaced without delay.

Alderman Rumery said two horses were really necessary. Councilman Parker telephoned him that he could walk to Box 75 Sunday quicker than Stearns Three got there, because of that horse.

The order was adopted.

An order was passed and a hearing appointed for the widening of Washington street to 75 feet near the estate of Charles Harrington.

Harvey B. Holt petitioned for permit to move a building from Hillside across Concord street. Granted.

Edward Bosson et al., petitioned for a concrete sidewalk on Hillside avenue. Referred.

J. Allen Smith petitioned that Collins road be accepted by the city. Referred.

T. G. Woodman and Mary Valencio, Upper Falls, petitioned for innholders' licenses. Referred.

The mayor stated that several hearings had been set for June 18, and on motion of Alderman Rumery they were postponed until June 19.

Alderman Thompson presented an order that the mayor petition the railroad commission to take steps to prevent the continued use of the whistle as a signal at crossings by the N. Y. & N. E. railroad company in Newton.

He said the signals had been in use three weeks and had become a perfect nuisance. An appeal to the superintendent had been productive of no result.

Alderman Rumery presented an order authorizing the fire committee to expend $400 for hose. Adopted.

Alderman Hunt introduced an order which passed, relinquishing land taken for sewer purposes in Gasometer court.

Orders were passed to lay out sewers in South Main and in River street. Alderman Thompson said that two parties in his ward were anxious to have some action taken on the matter of the street railway location on Woodward street. The road bed was partly on their land and they wanted it moved. One of the gentlemen was present that evening. It was time something was done about the matter as the board had ordered them to be moved. He mentioned that the N. & B. Street Railway Co. be ordered to move their track on Woodward street forthwith to the location granted them.

Alderman Bothfeld said an order was passed last year for them to put the track where it belonged. They had taken no notice of the board's requirement. The motion passed.

An order was passed granting the telephone company location as requested for underground conduits for their wires.

An order was adopted granting the N. & W. Gas Co. location for pole, corner of Berkeley and Chestnut streets.

An order appropriating $1325 for the settlement of claims against the city was passed.

Alderman Plummer's motion to meet next on June 19 was adopted.

Alderman Plummer spoke at this time of the old nuisance at Auburndale known as the Mague piggery. One year ago he took occasion to speak of the nuisance and it is there today just the same except that an 8 foot fence has been built to keep the small out. The atmosphere in all that section is laden with malaria. The fumes are something terrible to experience. "Why, a man came to me with tears in his eyes," he continued, "and said his children at home were shaking like rats," from the malaria spread abroad from this public dumping ground. Not only was all the filth of every ward in the city brought here into Ward Four, but that from the Newton Hospital was spread out top the ground with everything else. Imagine the accumulations from the hospital and its contagious disease wards, even aside from the contributions of the other six wards, and the people of Auburndale living with it all right under their noses! And not only is this refuse dumped and spread right on top of the ground but 18 big hogs are put in there to root around and keep the odors in circulation. He protested most emphatically against its longer existence. It was the business of the health officers to attend to this matter but they say it is out of their province. He wanted to know whose business it was to look after such things if not the board of health. If the state board of health should get on to the condition of this section and indict the city of Newton, some one would be found responsible, and that very suddenly. Stagnant water stands in the middle there where the city has built a 4-1/2 foot drain, but the drain has become clogged up so one cannot get one's hand into it,—and no one is responsible! The claim made for an abatement was just and reasonable, and he wanted the matter probed and remedied at once.

He then made a motion that the matter be immediately brought to the attention of the board of health with a request for action.

Alderman Rumery seconded the motion.

Alderman Hunt suggested that the board of health be ordered instead of requested.

Alderman Plummer—We cannot order them.

Alderman Thompson—I believe if the board of health cannot attend to these matters it is time they were legislated out of existence and replaced.

Alderman Plummer—That's a good idea.

The motion was then put in this form—that the board of health be requested to immediately remonstrate against and prohibit the dumping of garbage and offal as now practiced, and that the highway committee fix the drain.

This was adopted.

An order appropriating $250 for exchange of horses for the fire department was passed, also an order allowing the auditors of the Mague meadow drainage 60 days in which to pay their per cent of the cost as assessed them.

The board then adjourned at 11.12 o'clock.

NINE MEN AND A LADY.

WALTHAM'S BEACONS DEFEAT NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

The Beacons of Waltham defeated the Newton Highlands Saturday on the latter's grounds before 1500 people, half of whom were lady followers of the Newtons and a disappointed Walthamite gives this account of the game.

The ladies made themselves heard time and time again when their own boys figured in good plays or when the Beacons fumbled a ball.

Coaching is not a feature with the Highland boys, for their lady friends are there to do all the work of that kind that is necessary, and they did it Saturday to good advantage.

With the score 9 to 7 against them the Newton lads came in to bat in the ninth. The first man flew out; the second made a hit and stole second; the third man hit a ball to right field which went directly into a buggy wherein sat one of Newton's fair rooters.

Then the lady furnished the climax of the game, and showed how Newton's maidens assist Newton's men in winning games.

The Beacons' first baseman made a dive for the carriage the instant the ball dropped into it. At the same moment the fair occupant of the carriage whipped up the horse.

A man-versus-brute fifty-yard dash resulted. The Beacons' man by the side of the carriage and finally, by a grand coup, reached his hand over into the bottom of the carriage, got the ball, returned it to the pitcher, after one man had crossed the plate, but just in time to throw the base runner out at third, which made the second out.

When the last man came to the bat the echo of the noise made by those 1500 people will be heard in Newton for years to come. But he obligingly struck out and the Beacons were winners, 9 to 8.

The score by innings:

Beacons.....3 0 0 2 0 4 0 1—9
Newton Highlands.....4 0 0 2 0 0 1—8

M. Hammerly, a well-known business man of Hillsboro, Vt., sends this testimony to the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: "Several years ago, I hurt my leg, the injury leaving a sore which led to erysipelas. My sufferings were extreme, my leg from the knee to the ankle, being a solid sore, which began to extend to other parts of the body. After trying various remedies, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and before I had finished the first bottle, I experienced great relief; the second bottle effected a complete cure."

They became unmanageable and started upon a lively run. Mr. Pulsifer made strenuous attempts to hold them, but when he found it impossible so to do, he leaped from the carriage. He was not injured but was badly shaken up. The horses continued upon the run, and in the progress of their flight came in collision with several poles upon the sidewalk. The young people worked with their customary zeal to make this in every way a successful affair and that they attained this object was the unanimous opinion of the very large number present. An elaborate and daintily served supper was partaken of at the customary time and this was followed during the evening by an entertainment, consisting of vocal and instrumental music by members of the society and of recitations by Miss Ida Florence, a talented reader from Boston, who richly entertained her audience by her recitals, both humorous and pathetic. H. Raper, was much praised. The new pastor, Rev. E. P. Burtt, who has but just begun his labors among this people, has met with a most hearty reception. He is a cultivated and talented young man, a clear speaker and of a warm hearted generous nature who will find many warm friends in the beautiful Newton which he has chosen for his home.

He has been a life-long Democrat and prominent in both local and state politics, and his appointment will give great satisfaction to his numerous friends in Massachusetts.

Old Newton Names

The trustees of the Newton Boulevard Syndicate have appropriately named the streets in their beautiful tract of land. One of them is called Wachusett and another Monadnock from the mountains in view.

The trustees out of compliment to Judge Bishop proposed to call the third, running from Beacon street to the boulevard and thence to Ward street, by his name, but he declined to allow them to do so and substituted the name of his ancestor, Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Hobart, the second minister of the First church, for his own, so the name will be Hobart road. Thus the name of this ancient worthy takes its place with others of earlier generations, Cotton, Jackson, Hyde, Homer, Gratton and Ward in our thoroughfares.

It was Dr. Hobart's daughter who carried from Newton to Connecticut in the saddle bags on her wedding journey, a great copy of the Bible, the gift of her father, which book Judge Bishop reclaimed and now has in his possession.

The plan of the Syndicate's land by Messrs. Olmsted, Olmsted and Eliot shows great skill and taste in the laying out.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—The "36 confirmed drunkards" as mentioned in a Boston paper, reporting the proceedings of the hearing, Monday, has aroused great ire among the 132 signers to the petition which was analyzed.

—A Children's concert is to be given Sunday evening in the Methodist church by members of the Sunday school.

—The post office square has been kept more free from loiterers since the latter part of April, for at that time the police were requested to keep the premises clear and they have done so.

—The hearing at city hall Monday, called out a large representation from the Good Templars and Y. P. S. C. E. and a small number of prominent citizens were also present.

—There are letters at the post office for Mrs. Mary Lyons, Emily Douglas, Daniel J. Corcoran, Dr. Charles Lane, Michael Sullivan, James Tyler.

—Charlie Keefe, aged 12 years, died very suddenly Wednesday morning from heart failure. He was a bright lad and well known about the village. The funeral took place this morning. Rev. M. Danahy officiating.

—Last Sunday was an excellent illustration of what the village has had for diversion for the past few weeks, notwithstanding the opinion expressed in certain quarters. Boston parties have been in the habit of driving out here Sundays with a load of hard liquors which they have had no trouble in getting rid of. This practice has been in vogue for several summers, but never before have they commenced operations so early in the spring. Last Sunday the team drove out as usual and after giving the tip to those who knew them, crossed the Boylston street bridge to the Wellesley side, where a crowd soon collected and liquor was retailed, not by the bottle, as usual, but by the glass. No Newton officers could interfere and the Wellesley officers were too far away to be of any use. A party who passed through there later in the afternoon counted no less than ten men in an intoxicated condition sleeping off the effects of the liquor. A large crowd collected in the square near the junction of Elliot street in the afternoon, being attracted thither by a dog fight which continued some time before the canines could be separated. A week ago last Sunday the patrol wagon visited the village in a business capacity.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Mr. Folsom is having his house painted and also other alterations and repairs made.

—Washington street, near the hill, badly needs repairing and for a main thoroughfare it is in a disgraceful condition.

—Arthur Humphrey has returned home from Raleigh, N. C., where he has been attending Shaw University, pursuing a course of studies.

—Mr. Wm. Hecke and wife have opened their handsome residence at the Hills after an absence of about five months, part of their sojourn being in the South.

—The tenants who occupied the double house of Robert N. Bishop, have moved out as the building is to be made larger and used as a store house.

—Canker worms are playing havoc with apple orchards in this section and in some cases it is thought the trees will be completely ruined.

—Rev. P. H. Callanan, accompanied by a party from his parish, attended the McCloskey testimonial in Mechanics Hall, Boston, Monday. The concert was excellent and financially a grand success, about 6,000 persons attending represented in good number by clergymen.

—The sudden death of Mrs. James Wright of the Hills last Saturday morning from cancer was a great loss to the prize to many. She had been but a few days at the City Hospital in Boston for treatment prior to her death. The cancer was an old and standing trouble for which she has been treated for in the past few years.

The Late De Witt C. Butler

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

As we have enjoyed walking on Mr. Vernon street, not only on account of the fine residences and inviting grounds, but also for the exceptionally fine view to be obtained from there, it has brought to mind our esteemed fellow citizen, De Witt Clinton Butler, who so lately passed away, and the interest which he took in that locality. And it has seemed that a short resume of his life would not be amiss.

He was born in 1812, being the oldest son of Hon. Josiah Butler of Deerfield, N. H. In 1835 he was appointed postmaster at South Deerfield, also Capt. of Infantry in the 18th Regiment. He received his education at Greenfield and Exeter Academies, but, preferring a mercantile life, engaged in the wholesale grocery and flour business on Blackstone street, Boston, which he carried on successfully for a number of years. Afterwards he entered the Boston Custom House where he remained until 1874.

He was an active member of the Bowdoin Square Baptist church, until he removed with his family to West Newton, when he united his interests with the society just formed here. Thoroughly appreciating and wishing all to enjoy the beautiful prospect to be obtained from the hill, he bought in 1870 a large tract of land thereon, through which he constructed Mt. Vernon street and built the four handsome residences now occupied by Wm. Bullivant, Geo. Lovett, J. R. Carter and Chas. Hosmer. He could have advanced his own interests much more by accepting the many opportunities to sell the land in small house lots, which would have resulted in cutting off the view which is enjoyed by so many who now walk and drive through Mt. Vernon street. But placing restrictions for twenty years on each lot sold, he determined to adhere to his original plan to do all in his power to make the place a source of pleasure to residents; although, on account of the business depression at that time, he sacrificed his own property by so doing.

Until within a few years, active in all that pertained to the welfare of his country and a staunch Republican, he was interested in the national questions of the day to within a few weeks of his death. He leaves three daughters, Miss L. J. Butler, a teacher, Mrs. Wm. E. Elder and Mrs. Wm. H. Rand, the oldest child, a son, having died in South America when a young man. His wife, the memory of whose sainted life will always be cherished by his friends, was called to her Heavenly Home, Oct. 23, 1893. He died April 21, 1894.

Seldom has the world been blessed by the long life and example of two such unselfish persons; and now after fifty-eight years of companionship in this sphere, they are reunited in another world, where "There shall be neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things have passed away."

BEGINNING OF MAN.

DR. BRINTON FURNISHES INTERESTING DATA ON THE SUBJECT.

General Agreement on the Discoveries in the "Drift"—The Glacial Age Sandwiched In Between Warm Periods. Where Man Opened His Eyes.

"The Beginning of Man and the Age of the Race" is the subject of an article in The Forum by Dr. Daniel G. Brinton, one of the foremost anthropologists of the time. The very earliest deposit in which there may be said to be a general agreement that man's remains are found is that called the Drift, a series of gravel beds in the valley of the Thames in England, Somme in France and the Manzanares in Spain, and elsewhere in western Europe. In these beds his stone tools and weapons are found lying in undisturbed relations with bones of animals long since extinct, and which under the present conditions of the climate could not exist in that locality, these animals belonging to a tropical or subtropical fauna. From this one is led to believe that man lived there at an early date when the climate was much warmer than now, and that he had lived there for a long time, for thousands of his implements have been found in various strata and scattered over a wide area.

After this warm period a period of extreme cold descended from the north over central and western Europe. Huge glaciers covered Scotland, Scandinavia and Switzerland, and the forests of France were the haunts of arctic quadrupeds and birds, of musk ox, reindeer and the white fox. Man, however, weathered this cold period and continued to roam the woods and fish the streams, transferring his habitations to natural caves, where evidence of his hunts and his battles are still to be found. This period of cold is what is called the "glacial period," and by some of our most learned geologists the length of this "icy age" has been placed from 20,000 to 30,000 years.

Adding this to the former calculation, and allowing a reasonable time for primeval man to develop and spread over the area in which he lived, we have as the approximate time since man has appeared in Europe—where, up to date, we have found the earliest trace of his existence—about 50,000 years. This Mr. Brinton regards as the minimum allowance for him. Some writers of eminence have required 200,000 years to explain all these changes in climate, in organic life and in geological deposition, but Mr. Brinton points out that the tendency of late years has been toward a reduction of these figures, especially by field geologists, who seem to be more impressed with the rapidity of natural actions than heretofore.

Coming next to the consideration of the origin of man, Dr. Brinton declares that "there is no trace anywhere of the missing link, no evidence that man developed out of some lower animal by long series of slow changes." Nor does he accept the doctrine of specific creation as a scientific explanation. There is a third possible theory of the origin of man which Dr. Brinton holds as as good as another—namely, that called "evolution per saltum," or with a jump.

"It is that process, whatever it may be, which produces 'sports' in plants and 'cranks' and 'geniuses' in respectable families. No doctrine of 'heredity' or 'atavism' or 'reversion' can explain these prodigies or monsters, as they happen to be. A family of we know not which of the higher mammals, perhaps the great tree ape which then lived in the warm regions of central France, may have produced a few 'sports,' widely different physically and mentally from their parents, and these 'sports' were the ancestors of mankind. This is a theory which asks for its acceptance no blind faith in the dogmatic assertions either of science or religious tradition."

As to where man first appeared Dr. Brinton says: "In fact, we are limited by a series of exclusions to the southern slope of that great mountain chain which begins in western Europe and Africa with the Atlas mountains, the Cantabrian Alps and the Pyrenees and continues to the Himalayas and their eastern extensions in farther India. Somewhere along this line in southern Asia or in southern Europe or in northern Africa we may confidently say man first opened his eyes upon the world about him. Up to the present time his earliest vestiges have been exhumed in the extreme west of this region, but that may be because there search has been more diligently made, but the fact remains that, speaking from present knowledge, we know of man nowhere earlier than in England, France and the Iberian peninsula."—Review of Reviews.

John Walters, who lives about two miles west of Catonsville, is 96 years old and is probably the oldest man in this part of the state. Mr. Walters is an expert shot, and at his advanced age takes great pleasure in gunning. Recently he walked about 12 miles in the morning in pursuit of game and in the afternoon walked to Catonsville and return, a distance of 16 miles, in one day. Mr. Walters' mother died at the age of 105 years.—Catonsville (Md.) Correspondent.

Not a Romance.

Mr. Farwest—I met my old schoolmate, Lakeside, today, for the first time in an age, and I thought from the way he acted when I mentioned you that you and he must have had some romance or other before we met.

Mrs. Farwest—No romance about it. We were married for a few years, that's all.—New York Weekly.

MORE TIME WANTED.

NEWTONVILLE & WATERTOWN STREET RAILWAY ASKS EXTENSION OF ONE YEAR.

At the last meeting of the Watertown selectmen a communication was received from the Newtonville & Watertown street railway company, asking for an extension of time on their franchise to build an electric road on North Beacon street as far as the Boston line.

The company, through its president, George W. Morse, says that his company entered into a contract with the West End railway company that, provided they received the franchise, they would build a railway from North Beacon street bridge on the Boston side to the Watertown line.

The West End railway company finds itself unable to build the line in the specified time, and asks for further time to obtain its franchise and make its extension.

The Newtonville & Watertown company says that until the West End street railway company extends its tracks according to the agreement they cannot judiciously extend their tracks beyond their present limits. The company asks for an extension of one year. It is probable that the people of the town will object to the extension.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a pleasant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

No one in ordinary health need become bald or gray, if he will follow sensible treatment. We advise cleanliness of the scalp and the use of Hall's Hair Renewer.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON MUSEUM.—Theatre-goers residing in the suburbs or towns and cities not very remote from Boston, will be pleased to learn that the Boston Museum is to return to a custom several years in vogue at that house—the presentation of comic opera during the heated season.

The return to this policy will be inaugurated on July 2 by the bringing out of the new nautical comic opera, "Davy Jones." The composer and author is Mr. Fred Miller, Jr., who has given to the stage many a delightful and successful musical creation. Among his works are "Ship Aho," "The Golden Wedding," and many others. All of Mr. Miller's creations have enjoyed long runs.

It is believed that "Davy Jones" will also make history. A brilliant company of principals and a large and qualified chorus will be seen in the presentation.

PARK THEATRE.—The Park Theatre possesses an attraction that is remarkable as it is powerful. The Kilanyi living pictures have more than fulfilled the prophesies made about them and have leaped at once into the highest popular favor. Wherever they have been thus far presented they have proved to be the sensation of the hour and this is not by any means surprising. They are as follows: Canova's "Diana," Van Kray's "Moonlight," Spiridon's "Sappho," "Kathleen," "The Fate of the Moon," Canova's "Helen," Pigeon's "Me and Jack," Sichel's "The Daughter of the Sheikh," Koppay's "Spring Buds," the "Venus of Milo," Thumann's "Psyche at the Well," Delatoche's "Pharaoh's Daughter," Cott's "Spring-time," Eberlein's "The Flautist," Thumann's "The Three Fates," Lerch's "Will-o'-the-Wisp," Bouguereau's "Cupid and Psyche," Dannecker's "Ariadne," and Herr Kilanyi's "Aphrodite." But the bill at the Park is not confined to the Kilanyi pictures. There is an excellent burlesque minstrel scene, a vaudeville entertainment in which Jas. B. Radcliffe and Press Eldridge do good work, and the program finishes with the laughable two-act farce, "The Hornets' Nest." This attractive and varied program will continue at the Park all next week, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Charles River Improvements.

[Boston Herald.]

Assuming that Sunday last was a pleasant day in England, it is probable that the Thames river, from Richmond to Henley, and no doubt well above the last named point, was filled with thousands upon thousands of pleasure craft of different descriptions, their occupants finding in this way healthful as well as delightful recreation. No one who has not made a trip up or down the Thames in a steam or electric launch or a canoe or boat of some description can form an idea of the manner in which this river has been utilized for pleasure purposes; and it may be remarked, this utilization has been made possible by a careful regulation and improvement of the water course.

Not many years ago, before the control of the river passed into the hands of the Thames Conservancy, the waterway was impassable in consequence of small rapids, shoals and other conditions which made it necessary for one voyaging up or down it in boats to resort to frequent "carries;" but now, by the establishment of dams with locks and the collection above each dam of a large amount of backwater, navigation for craft of light draught—that is, four or five feet of water—has been obtained over a long distance, while at the same time a water covering has been secured for a great deal of what would otherwise be low and marshy land, thus adding to the attractiveness of the river front of the Thames for residential purposes.

We have referred to the benefits derived from this as a means of calling attention to an improvement which might easily be made in the immediate vicinity of Boston. The commission having in charge the improvement of the Charles river has recommended certain changes which would have the effect of giving to the lower part of the Charles the benefit that we have referred to which have been obtained by the treatment of the Thames. But it seems to us that a very valuable work would be accomplished at a comparatively small expense by thus improving the middle and upper sections of the river as well as its lower course. Whether the falls at Newton could be overcome—that is, without too much expense—is an engineering matter upon which we should not care to pass a hasty opinion; but such an improvement appears to be easily practicable as far as the lower falls, and after passing Newton Upper Falls and proceeding toward the headwaters of the river it is obvious that a few judiciously placed dams with locks would afford attractive navigation for a great many miles.

We think, apart from its historic relations, that the valley of the Charles is quite as attractive as the valley of the Thames, and there are reaches of river within a few miles of Boston which for quiet beauty are not to be surpassed by any which England can offer. The Thames conservancy, by levying a small toll for the use of its locks, secures a revenue sufficiently large to pay the requirements of interest and sinking fund on the improvement undertaken and to keep up the work of needed repair; that is, the system is self-sustaining, and it seems to us, if properly undertaken and gradually carried on, that a similar improvement on the Charles river would be attended with equally desirable financial and health and amusement-giving results.

And Yet He Did Not Go.

[From Puck.]

Madison Square (incredulously)—So you really like country life?

Subb Urban (enthusiastically)—Like it my boy? I revel in it!

Madison Square—Rather dull, isn't it?

Subb Urban—Not a bit—not a bit! Every day brings its special pleasure. By the way, are you disengaged Wednesday?

Madison Square (cautiously)—I think so.

Subb Urban (cautiously)—Then come out and spend the evening with us. My daughter will give us some selections from Schubert; Mrs. Urban will read (beaten to us, and when the ladies retire I'll brew a pitcher of lemonade and we'll have a bout at dominoes, best six games out of eleven.

—The parlors of the residence of Mrs. W. R. Dupe at Chestnut Hill were thronged Tuesday afternoon with a large gathering of people from Wellesley, Beverly Farms, Brookline and elsewhere on the occasion being a fair in aid of the Convalescents' Home at Wellesley. Fancy tables containing useful, pretty and valuable articles were displayed. It had been the intention to hold the fair upon the large lawn which surrounds the residence, but rain prevented. At the conclusion of the fair the managers found that the sum of $600 was realized.

—The need of a new horse on Steamer Three, if not a new pair, was well demonstrated Sunday in answering the alarm from box 75. The steed went along all right until they reached the Cypress street bridge when the grey became tired and balked. After ten minutes of coaxing and persuasion he decided to continue on to the fire, but changing his resolve when the Dudley street hill was reached and there he remained with the engine and crew until the rest of the department came back and the apparatus returned to the stable. Alderman Ruffe called attention to the need of a new horse Monday night and one will soon be purchased.

—Two bold attempts were made to set fire to a barn upon the premises of Mr. Milan C. Ayer, Dudley street, Sunday afternoon. The first was shortly after 4 o'clock and the second two hours later. The first blaze was discovered by neighbors burning in a mow of hay. It was extinguished without material loss. Upon the occasion of the second attempt the flames gained fair headway before neighbors again discovered them. This time an alarm was pulled from box 75, and the fire department arrived promptly upon the scene. A stream of water was directed upon the burning hay and sufficed to extinguish it. The damage amounted to $10. As to the identity of the incendiary, and the police are firm in the belief that one figures in the case, no trace can be gained. The time for a successful perpetration of an incendiary act was particularly ill chosen, as many pedestrians were passing at the time.

—Last Sunday was a day of great interest with the Unitarian Society in this village. At the close of the morning sermon the beautiful rite of christening was administered to seven children and young people. Following this, eighteen young men and women were publicly received into membership of the society. To each individual the pastor, Rev. B. F. McDaniel, extended a personal welcome in wisely chosen words. Such an event has not before been known in the history of the society. The floral gifts, decorations and the music were in keeping with the occasion. Immediately following the service the Flower Sunday was celebrated by the Sunday school in the church parlors. The youngest class, for the past year under Miss Merriam's care, contributed the main part of the entertainment. The little people were charmingly set off by the great bank of ferns, hydrangeas, palms, etc., just beyond them. At 3.30 p. m., a fully attended meeting of the Hale Union in the parlors was addressed by Miss Kate L. Brown, widely and deservedly known for her untiring energy as a literary and practical worker in behalf of Sunday schools and young people's societies, unions or guilds. Her address was very practical and entertaining, and was listened to as people do listen to what they are hungry to hear. After the meeting had closed the young people, loth to let her go, gathered about her, and for a half hour plying their questions, asked from her, the full fund of information, the result of her splendid experience. In this pleasant informal manner the day's exercises ended.

—Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Brooks and family of Lake avenue left town this week for their summer home at Pocasset.

—The engagement is announced of Mr. Gain Tourtellot and Miss Grace Fairbanks Williams, both of Newton Centre.

—C. O. Tucker & Co. have telephone connection and will call and deliver orders if notified.

—Mr. William Bartholomew is sketching some of the beautiful scenery afforded among the New Hampshire mountains.

—Viola, the Italian who boards his countrymen, has again hired the barn on the Tucker estate, for the accommodation of the laborers on the boulevard.

—The postoffice will be opened to the public next Monday morning in the new Associates block and Postmaster Ellis has, in addition to his regular work, been kept busy this week superintending the putting in of the new fittings. The removal will be made after closing hours Saturday night so that all may be in readiness the first of the week. The new location is the finest by far of any heretofore enjoyed by the people of this village, if not the best in the city. The store is a large, airy, natural woods with hard wood floor, rough finished walls and ceiling of a light cream color above the high wainscoting, with the immense plate glass windows extending along the whole front and on the side with two public entrances, one at the corner, makes a light, pleasant, attractive and convenient place for the postoffice. The new fittings are of finely finished ash, simple but effective in design and are of the A pattern which not only adapts itself well to the room, but affords greater convenience to the postoffice clerks. The general delivery window is at the front and in the centre on either side as the boxes run to the rear are smaller delivery windows. Upon the left as one enters is the registry window and the public desk, and upon the right a door leads to the money order department where a separate shelf allows one to write without standing at the window opening into the office. On either side of the money order door are large ground glass windows which afford ample light. The interior will be very conveniently arranged. Mr. Ellis' private office, which is entered from the money order room, has a large pleasant window opening on Pleasant street. Another door opens from his office into the postoffice proper through a glass partition. The rear entrance to the office for the delivery of mails is from Pleasant street. Particular attention has been paid to proper ventilation for the interior, and the whole plan and arrangement is as perfect as could be desired for convenience and dispatch in the work of the office. The office is fitted for electric and gas light and there are 750 call and 100 lock boxes in the new office, an increase of sixty in the latter and 200 in all over the old. Postmaster Ellis' efforts to make the citizens of Newton Centre first-class facilities and an office which has no peer among the Newtons in its appointments, will find hearty appreciation.

—Mrs. A. S. Daggett and family, who have been occupying the Briggs estate, Washington street, during the winter, have gone to Ithaca, N. Y.

—Mr. Oliver S. Briggs and family are expected out from Boston today to take possession of their estate for the summer season.

—Dr. Burr is having his house at corner of Lake avenue and Elm painted. Mr. G. L. Avery has the contract for the work.

—Mrs. Kent and family have taken the house adjoining Mr. Geo. May's on Forest street, and owned by Mrs. S. C. Cobb, and they now occupy.

—Services next Sunday at St. Paul's church will be as follows: Holy Communion, 8 a. m. Morning Prayer, Litany and Sermon, 10.45 a. m., Evening Prayer and Address, 7 p. m.

—The house occupied by Mrs. Barry on Hyde street and owned by Mr. Levi Ladd of Needham, has been nicely painted, and looks well, and so does her flower garden and conservatory.

—Rev. G. M. Boynton of Newton Centre spoke of the work of the Sunday school and Publication Society at the Congregational church last Sunday morning, and was listened to with much interest.

—The funeral services of Mr. Hart, whose death resulted from the kick of a horse at Whitman's stable, Newton, took place at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. T. D. Sullivan, Walnut street, on Thursday.

In the morning there will be baptism of children, presentation of Bible to children baptized ten years ago, special music and a sermon to the children. —J. P. B. Fiske, son of Mr. G. M. Fiske, who has held the position of chief engineer of the motor department of the Thomson-Houston Electric Co. at Lynn, Mass., for four years, has severed his connection with that company and accepted a position with the Morgan Engineering Co. of Alliance, Ohio, as their electrical engineer. He will assume the duties of his new position about June 15th.

—Mrs. Julia Hutchins Tyler, wife of Alexander Tyler, Esq., died last Tuesday. She was the daughter of Augustine Clark Pierce and Hannah Taylor Hutchins. Her birth-place was Detroit, Michigan, but very early in her life her parents removed to Concord, N. H., and it was there in early girlhood that she developed the helpful and unselfish Christian character which had endeared her to a multitude of friends. Her early religious training was within the Episcopal church and she entered into the life and work of that church with a devotion and enthusiasm which lasted until her death. She was endowed with natural musical talent and this was so carefully cultivated that she was from her youth an accomplished musician. With her generous desire to do all the good in her power her life became a true ministry of music. When she was very young she became the organist of St. Paul's church in Concord and showed at that time her characteristic ability in directing a musical service. When St. Paul's school was founded in Concord she was accustomed to play and sing to the boys, as she so thoughtfully said, "to keep them from being homesick." During the war her loving activities were spent in the philanthropic plans which were then devised to help the soldiers. In 1867 she married Alexander Tyler of Portland. For several years Mrs. Tyler lived with her husband in Minneapolis and there with all her heart into the work of her beloved church. In 1882 Mr. and Mrs. Tyler with their family removed to Newton Highlands. From the beginning of her life in Newton Mrs. Tyler was active as a leader in every good work. Her labors in every kind of beneficence which she undertook, and her interests were legion, was in defatigable. She had not been long in the village before the Episcopalians began to form a parish and Mrs. Tyler brought her energies to this cause with her usual enthusiasm. There was no department of church work to which she did not lend a helping hand. Her musical tastes and her love for children led her to take special interest in the music of St. Paul's church, as the new parish called its little place of worship, and the surprised choir which was formed a few years afterwards, owed much of its inspiration to Mrs. Tyler. It will never be fully revealed how much in her unostentatious way Mrs. Tyler did for the choir. With her rare powers of awakening enthusiasm she was able to bring about remarkably good results, and all who have been associated with her in this cause will testify to her untiring patience and unflagging energy. She acted as pianist for the choir and was always ready with watchful care to come to the help of the singers if they found a hard place in the music. All the men and boys in the choir felt that they had a real friend in Mrs. Tyler. At Christmas time she was ever ready to give service under her special direction, and each festival service seemed brighter and more beautiful than the last. It is a significant memory that the last time Mrs. Tyler worshipped in St. Paul's church was on Trinity church, Boston. To this latter church Mrs. Tyler for years gave of her strength and skill at the great festival seasons of the church. Dr. Brooks and later Dr. Donald amply appreciated the help which she brought to them. But Mrs. Tyler's good works were not confined to her church, various good causes claimed her allegiance, and she performed many little acts of kindness and generosity which were concealed under a delicate privacy. As a member for many years of the local circle of the Chautauqua, she was dearly loved by all associated with her, and no presence could be more readily applied the words "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace."

—The festival of the holy priesthood, celebrated at St. John's Seminary, Brighton, Wednesday, was attended by Rev. M. Dolan, Newton, D. W. Wadsworth, Newton Centre, and Rev. T. F. Wadsworth, Rev. C. I. Riordan, Newton Upper Falls.

—The girls formerly employed in the silk mill are arranging for a concert and entertainment which they are going to give in the Wade school hall Saturday evening. All proceeds to be contributed to the strikers and many of the numbers are to be filled by local talent. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the girls.

—The Newton Upper Falls silk strikers are receiving the moral and financial support of organized labor in Boston to a degree rarely witnessed before. Several labor organizations, who have determined upon a strike for the settlement of their troubles, Wednesday evening a delegation headed by delegate, J. T. Kealey of the Central labor union visited several labor organizations in the interest of the silk workers and received promises of financial aid from all of them. Those of the unions that endorsed the strike Wednesday evening and voted to contribute to the strikers are: N. W. spawners union, Iron moulder 106, Plumbers union, Plasterers union, Iron dressers union and Electrical workers union 35.

—The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York city there is an interesting collection of musical instruments of all nations, many of which belong to past centuries. They lie silently in the glass cases. The strings of mandolins and lutes that made sweet music in days gone by are broken and twisted, and the fingers that once swept them have passed away, but still the air seems trembling with melody. Imagination pictures the banquet hall, the summer nights when the troubadour sang songs under his ladylove's window, or the Bedouin camp in the desert, where the flute and guitar were played during the evening hour of repose. There are instruments here of all characters—rude violins and banjos fashioned by savage hands, and dainty lutes of gold and mother of pearl, instruments which have played their part in ancient ceremonies in faraway India and China, in the castles of the middle ages and in the African wilderness. It is interesting to note that all nations have tried to make instruments to please the eye as well as to produce sweet sounds. The stringed instruments and flutes of savage races are often grotesque and even ugly to civilized eyes, but the poor savage did his best. He carved his instruments as well as he could and also adorned it with whatever precious trinkets he had in his possession.—H. S. Conant in St. Nicholas.

—Engine One was called out Tuesday

—The picnic of the Methodist Sunday school at Forest Grove, last Saturday, was a very pleasant one. About a hundred went over in the morning in a special electric car, gallily decorated with flags, and others followed in the afternoon. One of the features was a ball game between the married and single men, the latter winning

by the score, 23 to 18.

—Miss Anna R. Bissett, who is known as a china decorator in Newton, will copy family crests or mottoes on table or ornamental china to order. There is certainly nothing more effective than a coat of arms

on thin china, and as it is something rather new for this country, many may be glad of this opportunity. Miss Bissett is now living on University road, Aspinwall Hill, Brookline.

—The estate, formerly owned by Mr.

Geo. M. Strong, on Vernon street, and which he traded with Mr. Henry H.

avenue, Boston, the latter disposing of it to Eugene H. Fay, was sold at auction

Monday afternoon by J. F. C. Hyde &

Son, to George F. Bean or Woburn for $18,000. The price is considered low, as the estate is one of the finest in the city, with a large lot of land fronting on Vernon and Tremont streets.

—One evidence of the prolonged dry weather is the clouds of dust which envelop the express trains that pass through Newton, and which hang over the tracks for some time after they pass. If the pulpit, and the large congregation present was deeply interested by his eloquent discourse. He has not yet finished his studies, but promises to be one of the most eloquent preachers in the denomination.

—In addition to the races at the Waltham bicycle park, next Monday afternoon,

which are under the auspices of the Waltham Cycle Club, there will be two attempts to create new world's records.

Walter Sanger, who is looked on as the successor of Zimmerman, will inaugurate a novelty in record performances and will attempt something never before done in America. He will ride a mile without pacemakers thus demonstrating just what a man's power is on a wheel, without outside assistance or pressure. This record has been the subject of much discussion and there is a large class of race patrons who believe that this should be the mark selected as the only one for the world's mile. John S. Johnson will make an attempt to lower the track record of 2:7 1-5 made by Zimmerman last October. Other famous riders who have promised to ride are Tyler, Callahan, Taylor, Garv and Murphy. The Watch Company

ning at the June Festival of Eliot Sunday school. The little exhibit must have convinced every one of the success of the club. The work may be examined on Sun-

CITY GOVERNMENT.

SPECIAL MEETING FRIDAY WITH REFERENCE TO THE BOULEVARD.

The city council met last Friday evening in special session for the purpose of amending an order to allow the mayor to execute an agreement with the City of Boston relative to the construction of the boulevard along the Boston aqueduct.

The mayor presided in the aldermanic chamber and first introduced a communication from W. M. Olin, Secretary of State, relative to the incorporation of the Newton Camera Club as petitioned by Theo. W. Clark et al. The paper was received and the mayor affixed his signature thereto.

John Monaghan petitioned for license for one more wagon on West Newton, which was granted. S. B. Hunter of the London Concert & International Remedy Co. petitioned for license to exhibit on Morse's field for two weeks, commencing June 12, which was referred; Carrie M. Ritchie petitioned for concrete sidewalk on Newtonville avenue. Referred.

The petition of Nathaniel T. Allen and other residents of that vicinity was presented, asking that Elm street between Washington and Webster streets be laid out to a width of 50 feet. This petition was referred to the highway committee.

THE IMPORTANT ORDER.

Alderman Bothfield presented an order "that his honor the mayor be and is hereby authorized to execute an agreement, in form as attached to this order, with the City of Boston by its water board relative to the laying out of the Newton Central boulevard or way over land taken by the City of Boston, for the purpose of connecting with its water supply system, and for settlement of all claims by the City of Boston for damages by reason of such laying out of said boulevard or way." This was passed, and in the lower branch received concurrent action.

Orders were also passed authorizing the water board to lay water mains as follows: 262 ft. of 6 in. off Bourne street for $292, and 337 ft. of 6 in. in Sewall and Sterling streets at a cost of $475; changing judgments against the city caused by the building of sewers, to the sewer construction account. The board then adjourned.

Common Council.

President Knapp presided in the common council, and Councilmen Wing and Tolman were absent.

Papers from the aldermen were taken up in concurrence. When the order relative to the display of flags on the 18th came up, Council-Degen moved a suspension of the rules for a second reading and its passage. The motion was supported and then came similar motions from Councilman Parker on the $400 fire order and Councilman Savage on the $250 order for exchange of fire horses.

Councilman Weed arose before the latter passed, to ask why this exception to the rules was being made. He saw no reason why the last two orders could not lay over until the next meeting, which has recently been the custom in the council.

Councilman Savage said the city was paying $175 a day for hiring horses and a new one was needed at once.

A general discussion ensued and the order finally laid over to enable the council to secure information.

Tent Caterpillars.

The Newton Horticultural Society received $125.50 from the citizens of Newton to aid in its crusade against the Tent Caterpillar this spring, and it extends its thanks to all who generously contributed.

The boys in many instances reported a scarcity of belts and a number who collected in previous years did not do so this year on that account. The number of belts of eggs brought to the committee were collected as follows:

W. J. Dolt, 11,150; C. A. Dickens, 7,000; G. L. Hartfield, 2,000; S. Cobb, 6,000; P. A. Barton, 14,100; J. B. Hayes, 12,800; A. W. Fuller, 1,000; G. G. Sherman, 1,000; C. B. Knapp, 1,000; W. E. Sanderson, 1,000. Total, 57,050 belts of eggs.

While there is a marked decrease in the number of caterpillars to be found on the trees in the vicinity this year, owing possibly to the action of our society this and the previous years, yet the appearance of the trees is not improved owing to the ravages of the canker worm. In the circulars which we have sent out, the remedies for this latter pest have been enlarged upon and citizens have been urged to combat it, but except in a few instances nothing has been done.

The canker worm has not confined its attention to the apple trees, but can be found on most all the deciduous trees and shrubs and undoubtedly will be worse next year unless some unforeseen event happens.

We urge all make an effort towards its destruction and to those who are interested in the subject a circular will be sent by applying to

Sec'y.

The Man and the Lamp.

Cincinnati Inquirer: A story going the rounds to the effect that a married lady had a birthday anniversary a short time ago, upon which her husband, presented her with a pretty piano lamp. He was much flattered when she told him she intended to give it his name, until he asked her reasons for so peculiar a proceeding. "Well," said she, "you know, dear, it has a good deal of brass about it, it is handsome to look at, it is not remarkably brilliant, requires a good deal of attention, is sometimes unsteady on its legs, liable to explode when half full, flares up occasionally, is always out at bedtime and is bound to smoke."

Places Needing Attention.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

The board of health should make thorough examinations of all foul places and order prompt removal, especially manure of stables which is very disagreeable to the neighborhood, if allowed to remain intact. We have a beautiful city and the city has gone to the expense of many thousands of dollars to secure the benefits of sewerage, still I consider there are many lurking places of disease yet in Newton.

GARDEN CITY.

West Newton, June 9, 1894.

CHIEF BIXBY KILLED.

Thrown from his Wagon on Washington Street.

DRIVER RAWSON BADLY HURT AND ASSISTANT CHIEF RANLETT INJURED.

While on his way to the fire in Newtonville, Monday afternoon, the chief of the fire department, Henry L. Bixby, was thrown from his wagon and received injuries which resulted in his death a few hours after the accident. The sad fatality has shocked the community, where the deceased had lived from boyhood and where he was esteemed and respected by every one.

It was about 3 o'clock when an alarm was rung in from box 23 in the Newtonville district. Soon after the gong sounded at fire department headquarters in West Newton, Assistant Chief Ranlett was on the road, closely followed by Chief Bixby and his driver, E. A. Rawson.

There was a clear road down Washington street (an extremely narrow thoroughfare) until Brookside avenue was reached. An electric car had stopped there, and an ice team, which had just made its way out of Brookside avenue, had partly blocked one side of the street.

There was very little room to pass with safety on the other side of the car, and Assistant Chief Ranlett therefore tried to turn up Brookside avenue, unfortunately coming in collision with a post. His wagon was overturned and badly demolished, and he was thrown out.

Chief Bixby had to choose between two alternatives. He could take the passageway over the wreckage where the assistant chief lay in the road, or chance getting through between the ice car and the car. He chose the latter way, and a collision resulted.

His horse was thrown high in the air, but succeeded in clearing the wagon when again striking terra firma, and dashed down the road toward Newtonville square.

The force of the collision threw Chief Bixby and his driver from their wagon. The former struck his head. He was picked up unconscious and taken to the Newtonville truck house. The driver, who received serious injuries, was taken to the Cottage Hospital.

About the time the accident occurred the patrol wagon put in an appearance at the scene and it was immediately dispatched for medical assistance. Dis. Baker, Hunt, Talbot and Calvert were brought quickly to the truck house to attend Chief Bixby. In the mean time Mrs. Bixby had learned of the accident and was conveyed to the place where her husband had been taken in a carriage.

The injured chief partly regained consciousness, but only long enough to recognize his life-long friend, F. E. Humphrey, foreman of engine company 2, who was by his side, and to make the request to be removed to his home in West Newton.

The hasty examination made by the physician established the fact that no bones were broken. The forehead was badly swollen, and there was a great lump on the head. It was thought, however, that he would pull through all right. He was taken to his home in the police ambulance in a semi-conscious condition. At 8.50 o'clock he passed away, death resulting, it is thought, from concussion of the brain.

His family and friends were entirely unprepared for the sad ending, for, although realizing the serious character of his injuries, they had been buoyed up by the hope that had been given them from the cheering reports of the medical men. At the end, the life thread snapped off quickly, death coming when preparations were being made to provide nurses for the victim of the accident.

Assistant Chief Ranlett escaped with slight injuries. Driver Rawson's condition was regarded as critical, but he is now reported out of danger.

Chief Henry L. Bixby was born in Framingham and was 52 years of age. He came to West Newton with his parents to reside when a mere lad. His father, John Bixby, was the station agent at West Newton for a great many years.

The deceased commenced to go to fires when in his 13th year and was connected with the local fire company at that time, doing service on the famous handbitt, Triton 3. A few years later, he was appointed a substitute on engine 1 company.

During the war he was a telegraph operator in Boston, and was an expert, acquiring the reputation of being one of the best telegraphers in the state. He succeeded his father as depot master at West Newton soon after the war, and filled that position until 1878, when he was appointed chief of the Newton fire department.

Before receiving his appointment as chief, he had filled the office of assistant chief under Chiefs Whipple and Ellis, both veterans in fire matters.

He earned the reputation of being one of the best fire fighters in the state, and was noted for the qualities he possessed in the way of discipline and management.

He was a man of more than ordinary executive ability, and had the advantage of an excellent education. He stood very high in the opinion of firemen in various parts of the country, and was a prominent member and ex-officer of the National Fire Association.

He was president of the Newton Firemen's Relief Association and a member of various social and secret organizations, including Dalhousie lodge, F. A. M.

Personally, he was a man of genial manners, sympathetic and honest in character, a reliable friend and an excellent citizen. No man who has held official position in Newton will be more sincerely mourned. A widow, two sons and two daughters survive him.

WHAT EYE WITNESSES SAY.

Charles D. Bates was conductor of the electric car which stopped at the place where the fire teams were heard, according to the instructions given to all the street car officials. Conductor Bates says "We saw Chief Bixby and Assistant Chief Ranlett in another wagon, coming towards us at a furious pace. The motorman brought his car instantly to a stop as provided by rule. At this instant a two horse ice wagon bound east, and going near our track, pulled out to clear the car and right in the way of the approaching teams."

"Mr. Ranlett was ahead and pulled his horse sharp to the left to clear the ice team, and his horse ran into a pole on the north side, knocking the horse down and throwing Mr. Ranlett out. Mr. Bixby's team was close behind and to avoid running over Mr. Ranlett, his horse was pulled between the car and the ice wagon, the open space being less than six feet. The front wheels of the wagon struck the car and the ice wagon, and Mr. Bixby was thrown out, turning a complete somersault and landing on his head, and missing the foot board of the car by about a foot. The driver was also thrown out, diagonally, landing on his shoulder."

"Mr. Bixby was insensible from the shock, and bleeding from the nose. E. D. Lovewell, a passenger, and myself, picked him up and carried him into the Hook & Ladder House, and laid him on a reclining chair. Capt. Davis and the patrol wagon then arrived and took charge of him."

On the car were F. G. Clough and two ladies of Cambridge, E. D. Lovewell of Boston, Geo. E. Thompson of Newtonville, A. P. Bugbee and G. F. Hodgdon of Newton. F. C. Brooks of Newtonville and several ladies.

The driver of the ice wagon was Joseph Trimmings, and he had a helper with him. The wagon was heavily laden with ice, and the wagon made so much noise that the driver heard nothing of the fire signals.

Frank E. Browne, the motorman, said "Where the car stopped the street heads, and we could not see 100 feet ahead. The car was close to the side of the street, as the tracks curve in at the Hook & Ladder House. The Hook & Ladder truck passed us near Lowell street, and I was keeping a sharp look out for other fire apparatus, and stopped as soon as I heard the horses. The horses were coming at their highest rate of speed, and apparently Chief Bixby thought there was room enough to pass as he did not pull up his horse. The whole affair was over in an instant on account of the speed of the horses."

The testimony of the other witnesses was substantially the same as the above.

SIGNS OF MOURNING.

The flags on all the city buildings were placed at half mast on Tuesday, and a knot of crepe attached to the door of the late Chief Bixby's private office in City Hall. The engine houses were also draped in mourning by the members of the various companies, long black and white streamers hanging over the front of the buildings, denoting the universal mourning.

Tuesday morning City Clerk Isaac F. Kingsbury penned the following note and sent it to Mrs. Bixby:

"My Dear Mrs. Bixby: His Honor Mayor Fenno desires to extend to you and your family his heartfelt sympathy in the great bereavement which has so suddenly fallen upon you and the entire community. Very sincerely,

ISAAC F. KINGSBURY,
City Clerk.

"Mrs. Henry L. Bixby, June 12, 1894."

THE CITY COUNCIL TAKE ACTION.

At the special meeting of the Newton city council called Tuesday evening by Mayor John A. Fenno the entire government convened.

Mayor Fenno called the aldermen to order and read the following communication, bearing his official signature:

Gentlemen of the City Council: It is my sad duty to announce officially the death of Henry L. Bixby, chief of the fire department of the city of Newton. While on his way to a fire yesterday afternoon he received injuries from which he died a few hours later.

Mr. Bixby has been connected with the fire department of the city for many years, and was appointed chief in 1878.

Always faithful to duty, he was eminently fitted for the responsible position he held, and the signal ability he always displayed in the line of his profession gave him a reputation that extended far beyond the limits of the city and of the commonwealth.

It has been my privilege during the last year and a half to become intimately acquainted with him, and I learned to love and respect him, not only for his kindly nature and his personal worth, but also for his unswerving devotion to the interests of the city, his sterling integrity and his fearlessness.

In his death the city has experienced a great loss, and the vacancy thereby occasioned will not be easy to fill.

I have therefore called you together tonight to take such action as you may deem best.

At the conclusion of the reading of the communication Alderman Hamilton made a motion that a committee of two from the aldermen, with as many from the common council as that body might wish to elect, should be appointed by his honor the mayor, to draft resolutions and to make necessary arrangements in behalf of the city government for the funeral services.

Mayor Fenno appointed Aldermen Hamilton and Rumery from the board to act upon the committee. His communication and the board's action in the selection of a committee on arrangements was transmitted to the common council.

In that body the communication was read and adopted. President Knapp of the common council and Councilmen Parker and Bullard were appointed to serve in conjunction with Aldermen Rumery and Hamilton upon the committee.

A recess was then taken by both branches, and the committee went into session, and drafted resolutions, which were subsequently unanimously adopted by both branches by a rising vote as follows:

RESOLUTIONS.

The members of the City Council of Newton with profound sorrow for the death of Henry Lyman Bixby, Chief of the Fire Department, desire to make some expression of their appreciation of his worth, therefore be it

Resolved, that in his death the city of Newton has lost an officer, who was ready for the first stroke of alarm, courageous and able at the place of action, inspiring confidence and ready obedience; an officer familiar with every detail of his department, unassuming in bearing the burden of great responsibilities, enthusiastic as a fireman.

Resolved, that as a man of unblemished reputation, of great kindness of heart, the shafts of criticism were unavailing to prevent the honest purposes of his life, or provoke reply.

Resolved, that the City Council records its deep sympathy with the bereaved family and voices the universal sentiment of esteem in which the deceased was held.

Resolved, that on Thursday next, the flags of all staffs and public buildings be placed at half mast, the City Hall be closed during the afternoon, and that the City Council attend the funeral.

Resolved, that these resolutions be placed upon the records of the City and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

The city government then adjourned.

DANGER OF NARROW STREETS.

The sad accident of Monday, by which Newton lost one of its most efficient officers, and a wide circle of relatives and friends is plunged into mourning, is directly due to the narrow limits of Washington street, and it is only due to our good fortune that such accidents have not happened before. Given electric cars in a narrow street, with barely room for a team to pass on either side of the track, with poles and trees lining the edge of the sidewalk, and we have all the conditions favorable for fatal accidents, especially when the street is the only main highway between thickly settled villages.

The men in charge of the electric car appear to have taken all due precautions, and stopped their car as soon as they heard the gongs. The driver of the ice wagon did not hear the alarm, on account of the noise his wagon made, but he was driving along in his usual way. Although the car tracks were on the side in this section of the street, yet the remainder of the street is so narrow that two teams can pass with difficulty. The fire department teams were going at a high rate of speed, as is usual and important that they should, because life and property may depend on the prompt arrival of the chief at a fire. The road makes a curve at this point, and the drivers of the teams could not see far enough ahead to pull their horses up in time. There was a chance of getting through and Mr. Ranlett took one side and was wrecked by a pole on the sidewalk, and Mr. Bixby, to avoid running over Mr. Ranlett, took the other and met with his fatal accident.

There are many such dangerous places on Washington street, and the same circumstances may occur again. In fact the street is generally regarded as so dangerous, that owners of spirited horses always avoid it if they can and make a wide detour through side streets when going between the three villages connected by this street.

There has long been an agitation for the widening of this street, and under Mayor Hibbard the plans were all drawn, and the work might have been completed had not opposition arisen. If it had been done Chief Bixby would have been alive today.

The sad affair has again called attention to the dangerous condition of the street, and there will be an urgent demand that some action be taken before more lives are sacrificed. The work could have been done three years ago much cheaper than it can be done now, and it can be done this year much cheaper than at any future time. It is the great need of Newton today, and even more important than the abolition of grade crossings, dangerous as they are, and the people are urgent in their demands that something shall be done.

THE LATE CHIEF BIXBY.

The high tribute which Rev. Dr. Shinn pays to Chief Henry L. Bixby, in a letter given elsewhere, will be endorsed by all who knew him. He was a man absolutely fearless in the performance of his duty, and it was to this characteristic that he owed a great part of his success. He knew what ought to be done to maintain the efficiency of the fire department, and to protect the lives and property of Newton citizens, and he did it without fear or favor. His strict impartiality and his rectitude of character always commanded respect, and few fire department officials in the country equalled him in executive ability. His work was done with military precision and the results were admirable. It is to him that Newton owes its immunity from disastrous fires, and it will be very difficult to fill his place. No change of administration had any terrors for him, he utterly disregarded politics, but did his work faithfully and well and let the results take care of themselves. On all fire department matters he was an authority, and although his advice was not always followed by members of the City Council, it was because they made a mistake and allowed themselves to be influenced by considerations other than the highest good of the department. As a man he could always be depended on, he said just what he thought, and those who possessed his friendship felt that they had something of great value. His death comes as a personal loss to many, and the greatest sympathy is felt for his family, so suddenly called upon to mourn his untimely death.

The attempt made by the committee on nominations of the Boston School Board to oust Superintendent Seaver will cause great surprise to all interested in educational matters. Mr. Seaver has long stood at the head of the school superintendents of the country, and his services in the Boston schools have been so invaluable that no one thought there could be any opposition to him. But the committee on nominations, of which Miss Caroline Hastings is chairman, went into political methods and secretly went about among the members of the school board getting pledges to vote against Mr. Seaver, having a candidate of their own they wished to present. One of the prominent members of the board who disliked such methods disclosed the whole scheme at the school board meeting Tuesday night, and there was a lively time, the members of the nominating committee trying to defend their action, and Miss Hastings admitting that she had sent word to Mr. Seaver that his name would not be presented. The premature disclosure may interfere with the scheme, as the committee had not perfected their plans, but the matter has been postponed to the meeting of June 26th, when the influence of public opinion will probably be felt. The prominence of Miss Hastings in the matter has pained those who believe in having women on school boards, and has also gratified the opponents, as they believe it demonstrates the truth of their contention that women can not take a large and broadminded view of educational matters. It was not revealed whom Miss Hastings and her committee had selected to succeed Mr. Seaver, but it goes without saying that their candidate will be very far from being the equal of Mr. Seaver in ability or in reputation. The secrecy of the movement is alone sufficient to condemn it.

SUPERINTENDENT BALLET of Springfield is the man the nominating committee of the Boston school board is after to succeed Mr. Seaver. The Record explains the trouble by saying that the Boston school board is simply a lot of men and women with hobbies, and for superintendent to satisfy all these hobby riders is impossible. The hobbyists say they want an "aggressive leader," which being interpreted means that they want one who will ride the particular hobby of each member, and a lively time he would have of it.

THE city has won its suit against Mr. Perry of Needham, and he has been ordered to move from his farm, which was taken by the city for water purposes. He was paid for the land but contended that he had a right to live on it and keep his stock and piggery, but the court asked what the city paid its money for, and ordered him to vacate the premises.

LITERARY NOTES.

A Daughter of To-day, the new novel by Mrs. Everard Cotes (Sara Jeannette Duncan), is construed by some of the English reviewers as a brilliant satire upon the "revolving daughter" of whom so much is heard at present.

Another successful novel has caused a stir among English readers. The title is A Daughter of Music, and the author, G. Colmore, has been compared with the Brontë sisters by various English critics. The book seems to have awakened an interest as general as that in A Yellow Aster and Dodo, although the theme appears to be different in many respects.

Justin McCarthy's new novel, Red Diamonds, is said to be full of stirring incidents, which form a story of exceptional interest to men as well as women.

Bass Point Attractions.

The season at Bass Point, Nahant, opened very auspiciously Sunday considering there has been no beach weather so far this season, and it was quite remarkable to see the number of people that patronized the steamer "City of Jacksonville" on her first trips. During the afternoon the Point was pretty well covered with a crowd of busy sight seers, and the scene was fully as animated as on busy days last summer. Many indicated in the fish dinner, quite a number taking advantage of the cafe, which the Bass Point House opened this season for those who do not care to go to the expense or require a full dinner. The annual open regatta of the Massachusetts Yacht Club will take place off Nahant, next Monday, June 18th, which will no doubt attract many people. It was a pretty sight last year to see the white wings thickly dotting the bay.

Cholly—What do you think, old chap, of women's rights?
Gussie—When I heard that some of them were getting so masculine that they were smoking cigarettes and wearing high collars, I knew it would come next. Bah! Jove! they want every privilege a man has!—Puck.

Miss Brightie—Oh, Mr. Search, there's a young lady here tonight I know you will like!
Mr. Search—I feel extremely flattered to find that you have made such a close study of my tastes. Please describe her. Miss Brightie—She's worth a million. —New York Weekly.

"Is marriage a failure?" asked the elderly Spilkens of a former flame, who had been a party to a May and December marriage.
"No," she replied, with a glance toward her husband in the next room. "Not a failure; only a temporary embarrassment."—Texas Siftings.

—The closing exercises of the West Newton English and Classical school which took place this morning were largely attended and the hall was lavishly decorated with ferns and wild flowers. The school has had 96 pupils the past year, coming from South America, Porto Rico, Honolulu, Cape Breton and from 13 of the states and territories of this country. A two part program comprising vocal and instrumental solos and duets, his time and his counsel have been freely given to the cause and we regret the necessity which compels him to tender his resignation. We would express our hearty sympathy with him and his family, that his illness is so severe, and our best wishes for his speedy recovery. The league, knowing Mr. Urbino's fondness for plants, voted to send him a handsome potted plant as a token of their remembrance. The general meeting of the league followed that of the business, presided over by the President, Mr. Edwin F. Kimball. The prizes for the two best essays written by members of the senior class in the High school were presented by Mrs. Edna D. Cheney to Mr. Ralph Hatch of West Newton and Mr. William A. During the evening a pleasant musical program was presented under the direction of Mrs. Marian Stutson, consisting of vocal and instrumental selections. The many friends of Mr. Goldstein in Auburndale and West Newton, and particularly his present pupils, will be glad to know that he reserves stated days for them as before, and will not give up his engagements here.

—On Saturday the Karma Koterie took their annual ride, this year, their destination being Sudbury town, and the Wayside Inn. The ride is one of such beauty, especially on a perfect June day, that they felt no desire to hurry over the road, and it was nearly five ere they drew up before the ancient hostelry. A region of repose it seemed, a place of slumber and of dreams, remote, among the wooded hills, though the air of "repose" soon changed, when the Koterie, preceded by as genial a host as ever held sway there "In the old Colonial days," went from room to room, with ampler hospitality. After a delightful lunch, served under the great oaks that throw tangles of light and shade below, they drove home in the late evening, charmed with their outing, and determined to repeat at once, the "Tales of a Wayside Inn."

On Thursday evening, at 7 o'clock, the wedding of Miss Mary Dyer and Mr. Henry DeM. Witt Young was solemnized in the Methodist Episcopal church, Dr. J. L. Hurlbut of New York, uncle of the bride, and Rev. T. W. Bishop, pastor of the church, officiating. The bridesmaids, in gowns of white dotted muslin, and wearing large liberty hats, entered from the side of the church and proceeded down the aisle to meet the bride. Miss Mary Sinclair Macleod, reading of New Bedford and Miss Harriet Sawyer of Auburndale, carried bouquets of maiden hair fern; Miss Mary Kendall and Miss Jane Dyer Robinson of Boston, of yellow iris; Miss Fannie Bent Dillingham and Mrs. A. M. Adams of Auburndale, of sweet peas; Miss Agnes F. Ricker of Brighton and Miss Mabel Tower Eager of Auburndale, of purple fleur-de-lis. The maid of honor, Miss Helen Dyer, sister of the bride, wore a quaint gown of yellow silk and carried Jacqueminot roses. The organist, L. H. Goldthwaite of Peabody, played Gullmatt's Nuptial March as the bride entered the church, preceded by the ushers and bridesmaids and leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Michael Dyer, Jr., of Boston. The bride's gown was of white Japanese crepe with a veil of chiffon, and she carried roses. She was met at the altar by the groom, attended by his best man, Mr. Laurence Maynard of Boston, and she was given away by her mother, Mrs. Helen H. Dyer. Mrs. Dyer wore a trained gown of pale grey trimmed with valuable lace. The ushers were Mr. Charles A. Cole of Auburndale, Charles Chase Hurlbut of New York, Harrie B. Coe of Portland, Albert L. Crowell, Sears Gallagher, Winfred Spencely, Harry Day and Allen Hubbard of Boston. During the ceremony Mr. Henry K. Hadley of Boston played selections from the Meistersinger. There was a small reception to the bridal party and the relatives at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Dyer on Henshaw street. Mr. and Mrs. Young will enjoy an extended trip through the provinces this summer and will be at home to their friends in November in Boston.

Chief Bixby's Death.

The death of Mr. Henry Lyman Bixby gave a shock to the whole community. It may indeed be termed a great public loss, even a calamity.

In addition to our deep sympathy with the family and immediate friends, we lament his loss to our city, which he has served so faithfully and with such signal ability these many years. A sense of insecurity is felt from the fact that should dread fire come to our dwellings, our late trained and experienced chief is not present to direct his efficient force. However ungracious it may seem even to allude to the cause of our great loss, it cannot be denied that in all probability our friend would be with us today to care for us and our dwellings, except for the unfortunate width of Washington street, where the collision occurred, with its sad results. At least 18 or 20 years ago, meetings were held in the old town hall and a well considered plan, devised for straightening and widening Washington street. We were then under town government. The measure would have undoubtedly been carried through except for the transition from town to city government.

Then, there were no electric or horse car tracks with the added huge poles to narrow the road bed. Without attaching blame to any man or set of men, it is true that we citizens of Newton have been shamefully derelict in allowing this chief and most travelled street in our city to become the most dangerous.

It is quite conceivable that in the event of a fire starting in some crowded section of our city, the superior services of our late chief would have been the direct cause of a pecuniary saving equal to the total expense of widening Washington street from West Newton to the bank at Newton.

A Quiet Time.

"Mr. Akenhead," said the eminent specialist on nervous disorders, severely, "it is useless for you to expect to derive benefit from my treatment unless you consent to follow my directions. I recommended you to go to the quiet hamlet of Lonesomehurst and spend at least six months in strict retirement, and yet I find you back in the turmoil and excitement of the city in less than four weeks."

"The trouble, Doctor," replied the patient, "is that the monotony of a quiet, uneventful country existence is more than I can endure. In this short time we have had fourteen different cooks, one of whom was discharged for setting fire to the house while intoxicated, another for assaulting me with a frying-pan, and a third for poisoning us, whether accidentally or maliciously I do not know. I have been mixed up in four different runaway accidents, and twice bitten by dogs. Because of my kindness of heart, I was drawn into an elopement episode which resulted in my being shot at and narrowly missed by the bride's father, who claimed that he was near-sighted and mistook me for the groom. One night somebody hung a total stranger to a tree on the lawn. About the same time, a tramp burned the barn and several out-buildings. A large apple tree was blown down so near the house that the piazza roof was crushed in. I was arrested three times for unknowingly violating some of the rural laws. My wife's mother was thrown from a carriage in front of the house and fatally injured. There was a small-pox scare in the neighborhood about half the time, and a mad-dog fright every now and then. Taking it all in all, I finally concluded that the turmoil and excitement of city life was less enervating than the peace and quiet of a monotonous country existence."

FUNERAL SERVICES.

during the services, and allowed to die out gradually at the conclusion of the impressive ceremonies.

The officials of the City Hall sent a large floral pillow bearing the inscription: "Faithful Unto Death." The tribute of the police department was a large crescent and star. Ex-Alderman Luke sent an open book composed of white carnations. The Newton fire department sent a floral fac simile of its badge and a chief's fire hat resting on a bed of oxalis leaves. From the fire department headquarters a pillow was sent bearing these words: "Last alarm—box 23." The Fire Chiefs' Club of Massachusetts sent a cross of pink and white roses resting on a base of lilies and carnations. The Gloucester fire department sent a fac simile of its badge made of roses and carnations. Mr. Willard Higgins sent a floral fire cap, upon which the word "Chief" was worked in immortelles. It rested on a base of roses, ferns, pinks and spiraea. Ex-Alderman Cleghorn, at one time chairman of the fire committee of the city government, sent a very handsome wreath of begonia leaves partially circled with roses. Messrs. Davis, May and P. Y. Hession sent an anchor composed of pink roses, hydrangeas, white carnations and maiden-hair ferns. Mr. Henry Cate sent a basket of roses, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Cate a large wreath of pink roses and maiden-hair ferns. The contribution of Mr. George Haven of Fall River was a beautiful bunch of calla lilies, tied with a bow of satin ribbon. The Newton Veteran Firemen's Association sent an ivy wreath and badge with the letters "N. V. F. A." and Chief John Kerr of St. Johns, N. B., sent a wreath. Lilies and ferns were sent by Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Childs, a shield with "G. D. M." from the Gloucester fire department, a wreath of roses from the highway department. The Masons sent a pillow with a Masonic emblem thereon. Upon the casket rested a pillow of white immortelles with the one word "Husband," and beside it lay a bunch of 52 red roses from the children.

Following the services in the church the remains were borne to the hearse by these persons: Engineer A. D. Colby, Steamers 3; Reuben S. Cummings, Steamer 2; Ex-Alderman F. M. Crebore; Alderman Rumery, chairman of the Newton fire committee, and President Knapp of the Newton council, representing the city government of this city; Chiefs Cushing of Hingham and Tolman of Taunton representing the visiting chiefs; George W. Whitmore, representing the Masons.

The procession formed on Washington street which was lined its entire length with spectators and carriages. At the head of the procession walked City Marshal C. F. Richardson and Capt. C. E. Davis, and following them in order were Steamer One, Hose One, Steamer Two, Hose Two, Chemical A and Truck One, the old pair of whites, "Frank" and "Charlie," who went into service in 1878 when Chief Bixby was appointed and always favorites of his, harnessed to the ladder. The active and calm members of the fire department on foot in citizens dress and white gloves, numbering over 100 men, were followed by fifty members of the Newton Veteran Firemen's Association with the band engine "Nonantum." After these came the hearse, and immediately behind, the chief's team in which he rode his death, draped in mourning, the horses led by Firemen Stacy and Ayles. A long line of carriages containing the family, members of the city council and city officials and the visiting chiefs brought up the rear of the cortege, the most sad and impressive that the city has ever seen.

The fire apparatus was heavily draped in black and white and the members of the department wore black and white rosettes under their fire badges.

The route was down Washington street to Newtonville square, thence through Walnut street to the Newton cemetery, where the remains were interred in the family lot.

The Firemen Meet.

A committee from the fire department comprising the foremen of the 10 companies, was held in Truck One house, Newtonville, Tuesday evening.

Capt. Bernard Early of Hose 6 was chosen chairman and Capt. S. W. Cobbett of Truck Two, secretary.

A committee from the city council comprising Aldermen Rumery and Hamilton and Councilmen Knapp, Parker and Dickens convened with them, and in joint session a sub-committee consisting of Bernard Early, F. H. Humphrey, E. H. Waterhouse, A. I. English and A. A. Savage was appointed with full powers to make all necessary arrangements relative to the funeral.

The committee on Thursday morning met and made final arrangements and prepared these resolutions:

No. 1 Truck House, Newtonville, June 12.

Whereas, by the sudden death of Chief Henry Lyman Bixby, the Newton Fire Department suffers the loss of a most worthy and efficient officer and member, therefore let it be

Resolved, that we have lost a true and faithful brother, a sincere friend and one who commanded respect by his energy, ability and uprightness.

Resolved, that our heartfelt sympathy is tendered the bereaved wife and family in their great and sudden affliction.

Resolved, that these resolutions be entered on the records of the department and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

Testimonial to Chief Bixby.

Directly after the funeral services over Chief Henry Lyman Bixby yesterday, a meeting of prominent citizens was held at the residence of ex-Alderman Arthur F. Luke, West Newton, interested in organizing for the purpose of raising some testimonial to express the appreciation of the citizens of Newton of the late chief's untiring devotion and work in their behalf.

A committee of 10 from each ward was organized and they will meet at City Hall, West Newton, this evening, to perfect a permanent organization for the work and prepare definite plans for action.

Everyone will be given an opportunity to assist in this testimonial. It is hoped to raise a fund of $10,000 and several $100 pledges have already been made.

A MAN

Too old to be idle,
And too old to play,
Hence with that weakness,
Which will have its say,
But who can fix a Machine,
Equal to the best
And as to the future,
Well! Let that rest.
But this much I know,
By what I have learned,
That I must live,
By what I have earned,
Who are able to say,
I have fixed your Machine,
Come take it away.
I have earned my bread,
And want my pay.

Annual Report of the Newton Suffrage League.

The year 1893 and 1894 has been an eventful one. The great loss in the death of our dear departed leader and friend, Lucy Stone, is still fresh in our memory; and to a certain extent will not allow us to enjoy all the progress woman suffrage has attained in the victory of our sister State, Colorado, and nearer home in our own legislation. We have come within five votes of receiving the right of casting the ballot in all Municipal elections for which our guiding star so faithfully stood all her life.
 May the thought of her inspire us with new animation and may we all strive to gain the victory which is ours by birthright.

The events of the year in our league work are summarized as follows: May 23rd, 1893, our annual meeting was held at the house of Mrs. Geo. A. Walton at which there was a large attendance of members and a great many guests.
 After the business meeting, Miss Lorenzo Haines of Waltham, in a concise and able address, spoke of the equality of the woman to the man, and it was voted by our league to have this address printed and sent to the Massachusetts Suffrage Association. Senator Gilman, Hon. Mr.
 Howard and others followed with short speeches.

In August of this year the executive committee met and delegates were chosen to attend Woman's Day at the New England Fair in Worcester. Five ladies represented our league that day.
 We also contributed ten dollars to a fund raised by Mrs. Henshaw of Worcester to present Mrs. Lucy Stone to use as she considered best for our cause.

On October 7th, at a committee meeting, it was voted to have Mrs. Ormiston Chant of England lecture for the benefit of our league, and on the 18th of the same month Mrs. Chant gave her lecture, the subject being the "Political Status of Women in England and America."
 This lecture was a success and thirty-seven dollars were added to our treasury from the proceeds of the sale of tickets.
 In the same month a hallow 'e'en party was held which netted us seventy-three dollars.

In November the executive committee met to arrange for the coming election and to see if any woman could be secured to fill any vacancy on the school board, and to assist the renomination of Mrs. Davis who has so ably filled this position for six years. It was also voted at this meeting to send a letter to Miss Blackwell and Mr. Blackwell, expressing our sincere sympathy and regrets for the great loss the community and Woman Suffrage has sustained in the death of Mrs. Lucy Stone. At this same meeting a resolution was carried to send fifty dollars in addition to our annual contribution to the Massachusetts Suffrage Association which has been complied with.

Our league has offered a prize to the Newton High school scholars for the best essay for or against Woman Suffrage.

On Dec. 5th, we had a social meeting in West Newton, notwithstanding the severe storm, quite a party assembled.
 The first object was to send a business
 Mrs. Flora Sampson was elected to represent us at the monthly meetings of the Massachusetts Suffrage League in Boston and the following delegates were chosen to attend the annual meeting:
 Mr. Nathaniel Allen, Mrs. Kate Mead,
 Mrs. Tolman, Mrs. Burrage and Mrs.
 Carrie Anders. A committee of five were chosen to appeal to our legislature for woman's equal right in having their names once registered, retained upon the registry the same as men have.

Mr. Urbino, our treasurer, being confined in the Massachusetts Hospital for three months, it was voted to send a letter to him expressing our sincere sympathy and regrets at his prolonged illness and wishing him a speedy recovery. Mr. Nathaniel Allen also paid tribute to the memory of one of our most loyal members, Mr. F. H. Henshaw of Waban, who died the last week in November, his wife having passed a few days prior. He was a man of sterling integrity, of high public spirit and was always ready to help in any movement that would benefit the community, he was a loving husband and a kind father and Woman's Suffrage has lost a good friend.

The rest of the evening was devoted to social enjoyment. After partaking of refreshments we parted well pleased with the evening's success.

Mrs. Moses Grain of Newton Centre opened her spacious house to a large number of friends and neighbors this winter. Mrs. Walton of West Newton in a very able and interesting paper spoke of the aspect of Woman's Suffrage of the present day; which during the social hour led to quite an animated discussion and we hope that it made many converts.

On March 13th, our league held a social meeting in Newtonville. Mrs.
 Louise Chapman having kindly opened her house and there was a large attendance. Mr. Kimball the president, presiding. Mrs. Walton read a letter received from Mr. Garrison, thanking our league for the donation of fifty dollars which had been sent to the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage League, and remarking that if all leagues were so earnest in their work Woman's Suffrage would certainly be assured.

It was voted to give ten dollars to help them defray expenses.
 A letter received by the secretary was read, asking our league to assist in extending the membership of the Antislavery League, who are working for the complete abolition of the Spoils System from the public service. It was voted to have a number of these membership cards sent for and members were requested to have them filled by friends who are legal voters and mailed to given address on card.

The business finished, the speaker of the evening was introduced.
 Mrs. Russel Ballou of Newton read a paper upon the Moral Progress in the United States. This paper showed very convincingly the enormous progress made in all reforms in this country and how much of the success was due to the effort of noble women.

This paper was so much enjoyed that at the close of the reading a rising vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Ballou.
 Refreshments were kindly served by the hostess and a pleasant social hour spent.

At our last executive committee meeting
 Mrs. Davis spoke in behalf of the Lucy Stone Memorial Boxes and suggested that all members of our league should be invited to take one box and to try to get as many contributions as possible until next August the 13th, which is dear Lucy Stone's birthday. On that day the boxes should be sent in to the league to be Kansas for the Campaign. All women owe to Lucy Stone a debt for the freedom they enjoy today. It was voted that the secretary should get the boxes, which has been done, and a large number are now on hand. It was also voted to have a local committee to work in the different wards during the summer and fall to obtain donations for the Suffrage Fair to be held next December in Boston.

The following ladies were chosen: Mrs.
 Goodwin of Newton, Mrs. Clement of Newton Centre, Mrs. Johnnet of Newton Upper Falls, Mrs. Johnson of Elliot and Mrs. Anders of West Newton.

The arrangements for the annual meeting having been completed, the meeting adjourned. CARRIE ANDERS, Sec.

The Bell Telephone Stock.
 Members of the State House, hiding behind the quibble that the Bell Telephone Company is a private and not a quasi-public corporation, have again by a substantial majority prevented any public interference with the rich dividend of new stock at par among stockholders, or a stock dividend in effect amounting to some 90 per cent. But they know, as well as anybody knows, that this is a quibble, and that the Bell Company is as much a quasi-public affair as its subsidiary Erie. In general, an effort has been made to put off until a later date any action, specific curative power, with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient.
 The druggists all sit it.

—TREMONT THEATRE—Never in the history of the Boston stage has a summer season opened so auspiciously as that at the Tremont Theatre, where the Camille D'Arville comic opera company is producing Gilbert and Sullivan's useful opera, "The Pirates of Penzance." The first presentation was given last Monday night before an immense audience, and its success was tremendous, Miss D'Arville scoring an artistic triumph. The piece was magnificently staged, and the company one of great intelligence, two of the most popular parts being taken by people who created them when "The Pirates" was first given in America. Mr. George Wilson was one of these, and gave a most amusing rendition of the part of the police sergeant, while Mr. A. F. MacCollum was seen to great advantage in his old character of the major-general. The same bill is announced for next week. Between the acts the California quartette continues to delight the audience by singing the popular songs of the day. A prize of $25 is offered by the management for the best design or suggestion for a souvenir to be presented by Miss Camille D'Arville to the lady patrons of the theatre on June 25, the tenth anniversary of her debut on the stage.

tendance on the 12th annual convention of the National Association of Master Plumbers at Detroit, the former being one of the

-The celebration of the 17th fell on Monday this year and was as usual very quiet in Newton, the only special features being the raising of a few flags, and an occasional fire cracker. The heat made most people glad to remain quietly at home.

-Mr. Robert G. Smith, who is the Lay assistant at Grace church, ended his duties there for the present last Sunday. He will be away all summer, returning to Newton in September. His ordination to the ministry is appointed for next June.

-A curious feature on Wednesday was quite a heavy shower in the vicinity of Kenrick street and the easterly side of Nonantum hill, while not a drop of rain fell in other sections of Newton. The thunder showers of the week have all avoided Newton and vegetation is suffering from the long spell of dry weather.

-Ground for the new chapel for St.
Andrew's parish, Wellesley, was broken with appropriate ceremonies on the afternoon of Monday, June 18th. Addresses were made by the Rev. Mr. Hayes and the Rev. Dr. Shinn. The architect of the building is Mr. S. D. Hayden of Newton-ville, whose plans have been greatly admired.

-Owing to the heat of last Sunday, the plan of a short service for summer time, which goes into effect in Grace church regularly during July and August, has begun at once. The first morning service commences promptly at 10.45 and ends at 12. After a short interval those who stay for the second service go into the chapel. At night the service and brief sermon occupy less than an hour.

-Not all tramps are unwilling to work.
One applied to a Newton man for work some days ago and worked for a week very industriously, being able to turn his hand to anything from carpentry to gardening.
He was also found to be a fine musician, and could play well many instruments and he gave some particulars in his history, which had been very varied. But his tramping instincts were too much for him, and one day he disappeared suddenly with a companion, who had been noticed hanging about. His week's work had made him a specialist, and he evidently could not work with all that money in his pocket.

-Today is class day at Harvard and several Newton young men will give people will go on to Cambridge this after-

Magnificat in E flat, King Hall
Nunc Dimittis in E flat, King Hall
Anthem, "O how amiable are thy dwellings," Richardson
Anthem, "Lord I call upon Thee," Guiley Recessional, "O happy band of pilgrims."

-The work of the University Settlement in the North end of Boston, will be represented by Miss Prof. Cooke and Sec'y
Helen at the Methodist church on Sunday morning. Mr. Bronson's evening subject will be "Thomas, the Skeptic." The short Sunday evening services for the summer are quite popular.

-The New England Water Works Association to the number of 200 took a trip through Newton last Friday. They came out on the cars to Eliot, and were met there by all of Cate's barges, a tally ho and other carriages from Boston. They then visited Echo Bridge and the Newton Water Works pumping station, after which they left the city by way of Oak Hill.

-The alarm from Box 251, yesterday noon, during the thunder shower, was caused by the lightning striking the house of Mrs. Boyle, corner of Adams and Lincoln street. The bolt filled the house with dust and smoke and at first it was thought there must be a fire, and the alarm was given, but no fire was discovered. The damage was about $25, to say nothing of the inconvenience and suffering experienced in answering the call, during the hardest part of the shower.

-Master Ralph Keller, youngest son of Mr. Jasper N. Keller of Park street, was badly injured the eighteenth by a premature explosion of a small cannon with which he was celebrating the birthday of his father. While trying to light the fuse a spark fell upon the nipple of the cannon causing it to explode and blowing a large quantity of powder into his face. Dr. McIntosh was called and after three hours work better. Master Keller bore the pain bravely and did not flinch at the most painful operation.

-Early Thursday morning some evil disposed person hacked down a lot of shrubbery along the railroad track, opposite the baggage room of the Newton station.
There is no trace of the guilty party, and it is supposed to have been done some time between midnight and 5 a. m. Several of the bushes were cut entirely down and others were hacked so badly that they present a very ragged appearance. What possible object any one could have it is difficult to imagine, as the bushes hid the unsightly board fence and helped make the station attractive, and it could have been nothing but malicious mischief.

-Dr. Bartlett's bear, which has more visitors than any other Newton resident, is a good natured animal, but like many people has a very quick temper and resents being teased. Last Sunday the son of Mr. Pressy ventured too near his bearship and was severely clawed in the back, several stitches having to be taken in the wound. The bear is always kept securely chained, and in the hot weather it is better to admire him from a respectful distance, as the heat does not improve the temper of bears any more than of people. He has been plagued a good while by small boys, and does not know better than to try to get even with them.

-Mr. Edward H. Cutler's Preparatory School, which has become one of the best-known institutions of the city. With this week it closes its seventh and most successful year.
During the year 46 pupils have been enrolled on its membership list, though Mr.
Cutler does not intend that the membership at any time shall exceed 40. Mr.
Cutler has been obliged to take the whole range of rooms on the south side of Brack-ett's block, and during the year has employed a regular assistant and a very special teacher. Under the present arrangement proper accommodations and a separate room are provided for the young women, who desire to take advantage of the facilities of the school.
The sessions of the eighth year begin the tenth of September and it is desirable that application for admission be made promptly.

-Mr. James Valentine Sullivan died at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Francis Murdoch, on Saturday, aged 80 years. 7 months and 16 days. He had been seriously ill but a short time, though his health had been gradually failing for some months. Mr. Sullivan was a member of the old New England family of that name, one of his ancestors having been Governor Sullivan of New Hampshire.
His father was Deacon John Sullivan of the First Baptist church of Boston, a prominent business man of his day, and he resided at what is now the North End of Boston, then one of the fine residence sections of the city. The son was educated in the Boston schools, and entered into business in that city, and for many years has been one of that state in a sailing vessel, remaining there for about two years. He was Miss Spear's School.

The graduating exercises of Miss Spear's school, which took place in Gymnasium Hall on Thursday afternoon, June 21st, in the presence of a large and appreciative audience, may be counted among the most successful and interesting that have ever marked the close of the year at this popular school.

From the little ones in the primary class to the young ladies who were graduated from the High School department, every part was well done and spoke volumes for the painstaking efficiency of the teachers. It takes no small amount of drilling little children to make a play run as smoothly as did that clever little production, "Rosebud's Party," in which the young representatives of the flowers looked as dainty and sweet as the blossoms themselves.

The French Play was very amusing, and the taken in connection with the graciously and effectively rendered recitations by Misses Beulah Field and Marion Franklin indicates that histrionic ability of no mean order is being nurtured in the school.

Music, vocal and instrumental, and exercises in calisthenics gave an agreeable variety to the entertainment.
Charles E. Eddy, Esq., on behalf of Miss Spear, presented diplomas to Misses Clara A. Burgess and Ernestine Emery, certificates to the primary and grammar classes, also the Walter Thayer prize for punctuality to Miss Ellen A. Lamb, as she had not been absent or tardy for two years. Misses Helen McIntosh, Bertha Howe and Marion Lowe, also Fred Lowe and Ernest Lowe have not been absent or tardy for one year.

OF INTEREST TO WHEELMEN.

LAW OF THE ROAD OF WHOSE EXIST-ENCE THEY SEEM IGNORANT.

The following letter which appeared in the Boston Herald is republished by request:
To the Editor of the Herald:-

Will you allow me through your valued columns to call attention of the bicyclists to the law of the road? Perhaps many of the bicyclists do not know that the law is so definite; and it certainly seems as if the proportion of bicyclists who are ignorant of the law were an increasing one. It is for these reasons; and because, while riding or driving a horse, I have lately several times narrowly escaped collision with bicyclists, that I write. Even taking into account the bicyclists' preference for the smoothest and hardest part of the road, for one who has himself ridden a bicycle this is easy to do, it is becoming more and more difficult to decide on what part of the road a bicycle will go, or to make up one's mind, when a bicycle is approaching, on what side it will try to pass.
Their riders are growing more reckless,
and the risks taken more unnecessary and purposeless. A bunch of bicyclists will often have no more system or sense as to when to turn out, or in the direction they turn out, than would as many hens; and every one knows how impossible it is to foretell what way they will go.

Secs. 1, 2 and 4 of chap. 93 of the Public Statutes are, in part, as follows:

"Sec. 1. When persons meet each other on a bridge or road, traveling with carriages, wagons, carts, sleds, sleighs or other vehicles, each person shall seasonably drive his carriage or other vehicle to the right of the middle of the travelled part of such bridge or road, so that their respective carriages on other vehicles may pass each other without interference.

"Sec. 2. The driver of a carriage or other vehicle passing a carriage or other vehicle travelling in the same direction shall drive to the left of the middle of the travelled part of a bridge or road;

"Sec. 4. Whoever offends against the provisions of the preceding sections shall for each offence forfeit a sum not exceeding $20, and be further liable to any party for all damages sustained by reason of such offence; * * *

To be sure, the law provides a penalty and places the liability for damage, but to many people it is not all satisfying to know that, if when driving you collide with and injure a man (or, worse yet a woman), if you are within your legal rights, that man or woman may be fined $20 and is liable for any damage you may suffer. Most people do not want accidents anyway. There are but a few who would accept, and act up to, the rule of a driver who was quoted as saying about bicyclists: "I never regard them at all.
I keep on my own side of the road going ahead and let them look out for themselves. The object of the law is to prevent accidents, and for that reason, if for no other, it should be observed.

The Summer Solstice.

The astronomical summer began at 6 o'clock Thursday morning. At that hour the sun reached the summer solstice, which marks its farthest advance north of the equator, and today will be the longest day in the year. But while the sun attains its greatest elevation during this month, and begins perceptibly to decline before the month is ended, yet the temperature will continue to increase until the latter part of July.
The reason the longest day of the year in our latitude is not also the hottest is because the earth and the air have not yet
at that time, ceased to accumulate heat, and such accumulation continues for at least a month after the sun has passed the solstice. Not until the amount of heat radiated from the face of the earth at night becomes greater than that which it has received from the

CITY GOVERNMENT.

A LARGE AMOUNT OF ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

Both branches of the city council convened in their respective chambers at City Hall, on Tuesday evening, and before adjournment quite a large amount of business of a routine character was completed.

The mayor presided in the aldermanic chamber, where all were present.

The records were laid aside until a later meeting and several hearings were at once opened.

These were on the taking of private land for sewer between Chapel and Dalby streets, private land of Albert Gay and the B. & A. R. R. near Austin street, sewer in Beach and Faxon streets, and for laying out Dalby street from California. No remonstrance was offered and the hearings were closed.

In a hearing for sewer in private lands between Rowe and Lexington streets, F. J. Ranlett appeared for one of the owners to claim their legal rights in the premises, and Minnie W. B. Hartley was also represented in a similar manner.

In the hearing given on the widening of Washington street to 75 feet near the estate of Charles Harrington, in answer to a query Alderman Bothfield stated that the land to be taken was on the south side of Washington street and west of the Newtonville Truck house.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The mayor submitted several papers the first being a communication from the Garden City Improvement Society by its President Francis A. Dewson, setting forth the growth of a lawless and defiant spirit which finds expression on the morning preceding the Fourth of July by the indiscriminate use of firearms and other explosives, fireworks, etc. There was a disposition on the part of some to commit depredations, in some cases incendiary fires had resulted. The allowance made at this time was not only a great annoyance to citizens but encouraged hoodlums, and the city council were requested to enforce the existing ordinance and if necessary to employ special police officers to that end. This was received.

Another communication was received from the inspector of buildings relative to the erection of a frame stable 25x41 feet for W. W. Jacques, which was 47 feet from any house.

The mayor asked if there was any recommendation to be made.

The inspector said he understood some of the neighbors objected.

Alderman Bothfield said he was acquainted with the facts and as some of the opposition seemed to be just he recommended a reference of the matter to the license committee.

The N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. accepted the location for conduits granted them with provision in the same for the electric and other city wires.

GARBAGE DUMPING.

The board of health submitted a communication in regard to the dumping of garbage on the Maque land, representing that some such disposal was absolutely necessary and that it was now attended to in the best possible manner. They had been considering the cremation of garbage and hoped before long to report the result of their investigations.

PETITIONS.

John G. Forbes petitioned for sewer off Freeman street, John Stearns et al., petitioned for the laying out and acceptance of Stearns street; W. R. Dipee et al., petitioned for completion of sidewalk on Beacon street; F. H. Rice et al., that Rice street be sprinkled; Arthur C. Farley, et al., that the corner of Woodland road, Rowe and Central streets be rounded; George C. Harvey for crosswalk on Woodland road near the junction of Central street; petition for sewer in Ware street, Ward, Park, Mary W. Fuller for sidewalk; H. W. Crowell for sidewalk, Hunnewell avenue; G. A. Blaney et al., for extension to the boulevard of Ex-ter and Dartmouth streets. These were referred to the proper committees.

Petitions were received and hearings granted the N. & W. Gas Light Co. for location for one electric light pole on Newtonville square, N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. for pole location in Alpine, Watertown, Fountain, Cypress streets and Griffin avenue, also to relocate one pole on Bellevue street, and to cross Pen-brake street with two wires.

Residents of Newton proper petitioned for the extension of the central boulevard to the Charles river by the Rowe street route so called. Referred.

Alderman Rumery presented a petition signed by over 200 citizens, among them such men as Hon. Joseph R. Lees, Hon. H. E. Hibbard, Hon. Wm. P. Ellison, Hon. Gorman D. Gilman, Rev. Dr. G. W. Shinn, E. L. Pickard, J. C. Johnson, John T. Langford, George L. Chandler, John C. Chaffin, William J. Follett and John B. Goodrich. The petition requested the city council to take that land bordering on the Charles river between the Newton Boat Club property and the Weston bridge as a public park.

LICENSES.

R. J. McAdoo was granted two wagon licenses; Frank Curry license to move a building from Concord street to Wellesley; J. H. Farrell for pool table in Boyd block, Nonantum. The Lomax street concert and International Remedy Co. were given leave to withdraw.

REPORTS.

Alderman Hunt for the sewer committee made several reports, and James Gamman's for sewer in Lowell street, and E. A. W. diamond for sewer in Water street were given leave to withdraw.

ORDERS.

The sum of $62,200 was appropriated for July expenses and $20,000 to pay damages arising from the construction of the Central boulevard.

Orders were passed for the construction and authorizing the construction of sewers in Faxon and Beach streets, through private land of Albert Gay and B. & A. R. R., private land of the Nonantum Worsted Co. near Chapel street, private land between Rowe and Lexington streets, and giving notice and appointing hearings for the construction of sewers in Glen avenue and private land of Arthur W. Pope. An order rescinding the taking of certain land for sewers was passed.

An order was passed authorizing the taking of land for public park purposes on the Charles river between the Newton

Boat Club and the Weston bridge and giving notice of such intention and appointing a hearing for those parties interested.

The city clerk was authorized to issue permits to responsible parties for the sale of fire works up to and including July fourth and allowing the use of the same on that date.

The mayor was authorized to cause the national colors to be displayed on public buildings and have the bells rung in the different wards on July fourth at noon and sunset. An order was adopted notifying Delia Sullivan of the city's intention to discontinue a portion of Beacon street and appointing a hearing on the same. Dalby street was ordered laid out and accepted by the city.

The order for the widening of Washington street to 75 feet near the estate of Charles Harrington was adopted. Alderman Bothfield explaining that a large part of the land had been seized for a large drain and it seemed wise to take the land at this time for widening the street making only one seizure necessary. It was all vacant land.

An order was passed authorizing the mayor to enter into an agreement with the city of Boston for the use of a small parcel of land at the corner of Hillside avenue and Bowdoin street now under control of their water board, for public park purposes, the city of Newton by such use gaining no fee or title to the same.

THEY CAME UP.

Papers came up from the common council, which received concurrent action, including a request that the board of health consider and report the advisability of providing and maintaining one or more public bath-houses. Petitions from Charles Lowell, Lowell street, for a catch basin, petition for sewer in Crafts street, and for street light on Walnut street.

The board adjourned to June 28.

Williams' Benediculus.

[A Memorial of Sunday, June 17th, 1894.]

The words of this glorious anthem are those of the hymn of pious thanksgiving of Vacharias for the birth of that holy prophet of God, bold preacher of His righteousness, and hence fit fore-runner of our Lord, St. John the Baptist.

It is recorded in St. Luke, 1: 68-79, and is found in the Prayer Book after the second lesson of the morning service.

Great admiration of it in the musical setting known as Williams' Benediculus, has inspired this brief attempt at an analysis of it as thus presented, as a small contribution toward the combined musical and devotional education of all who may hear it without being familiar with it, and because a listener to it is both musically delighted and inly uplifted much more, if he be heard with an intelligent understanding of it.

It opens with a succession of stirring chords on the organ, as if a company of saints and angels summoned all above and below, as with trumpet calls, to wake and join in the divine song.

The opening words, "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel," then follow in loud full chorus to grand prolonged chords, as if they were the joyful outburst of full hearts. Here is nothing light, languishing or tripping. All is fittingly strong, steady, full, slow-going and majestic.

Then, as if the people, after first dutifully singing with all rich tunefulness, and in very deed to the praise and glory of God, might next rehearse to themselves with mutual rejoicing the cause of their previous jubilant words of praise, the song proceeds in lighter and quicker movement to recite, "For He hath visited and redeemed His people, and hath raised up a mighty salvation for us," etc., to verse 72. There, with youthful appropriateness, as if the younger were oftener in need of mercy, because of their scantier wisdom and more frequent errors of inexperience, and also because a promise is much set by in their eyes, a chorus of boys sing, "To perform the mercy promised to our fathers." Then, as serious business, with its attendant solemnity, witnesses to the sacred covenant with long gone forefathers, be longs more to men, a strong chorus follows on, singing of "the oath which he swore unto our father Abraham."

Next, when the blessed contents of the holy covenant come to be opened and read and dwelt upon with gladness, the music, too, dwells sweetly, expressing sobriety of purpose and innocence of spirit, on the words, "In holiness and righteousness before Him all the days of our life," words most beautifully expressive of what every choir singer should live to be, and most graciously persuasive to make God's altar his heart's best home.

With hearts and minds thus attuned and prepared for a return to still diviner thoughts, a glorious vision of the heavenly mission of John the Baptist takes possession of the company, and, to the words, "And thou shalt be called the prophet of the Highest," the music nobly responds in a succession of thrilling chords of increasing grandeur, like the successively overtopping ranges in one of the magnificent vistas of a Norwegian fiord. Words and tones continue hand in hand, as if in rare friendship, gradually and easily letting the exalted emotions down from the heights of "The Highest" along to verse 79. There, by a smooth series of subtle changes, the gradually gathering gloom of those who "sit in darkness" is marvellously expressed, until at last, the deep darkness of "the shadow of death" is expressed in weird tones, which make the fit antithesis to the noonday splendor of verse 79.

Then, as if the feet could not hastily flee from these deep shades, the light "to guide our feet" softly dawns and gradually increases as told in cheering chords of quiet beauty, while, on the gracious words "into the way of peace," heart and voice alike linger, repeating words and tones in a strain of rare sweetness, out of which the closing doxology, linking the elder church to that of the Christian dispensation, rises as sunrise from a placid sea to lead the procession of glorified thoughts back to the "Father of all," whence cometh every good and perfect gift."

Thus, from beginning to end, nothing in this composition is unmeaning, nothing trivial, nothing unworthy. It is a blessing to have heard it and to share in performing it. It is a helping influence in every effort to be and do better, an influence also which must be resisted if one would listen to evil. May such influence ever be welcome, and never be resisted, and may all learn and love to study the sacred music that they sing or hear, so as to sing with the spirit and with the understanding also, until it shall not seem an impracticable vision that the time may come when whole congregations will join in singing such compositions, even in this our almost too practical New England, whose earnestly pious founders and patriot defenders were no strangers to the covenant with our father Abraham.

INSPECTED THE NEW HOME.

WORKING BOYS' FRIEND SOCIETY AND GUESTS VISIT NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

At the invitation of Fr. O'Farrell, president of the corporation of the Working Boys' Home, the ladies of the Working Boys' Friend Society, and their friends, visited Monday the new home at Newton Highlands, and then enjoyed a luncheon. The society has just been organized, with the assistance of the home as its special object. There are 60 members, each of whom has pledged herself to bring in 10 new members before next fall; thus a membership of 600 will be secured.

The scheme for operation is that each one of the 600 members shall pledge herself to collect $1 per month. By this process it is hoped to finish the home, which as yet is but brick and mortar. It will require $40,000 to finish the immense structure, which will accommodate about 1000 boys.

Barges awaited the arrival of the trains, and the guests were quickly transported to Oak Hill, the site of the home, which is to be a handsome brick building, with granite stairway and trimmings. The present building, which is a fraction of the house proper, has a frontage of 154 feet, with a wing 44x80 feet. It is four stories high. The entire building will have a frontage of 268 feet. It overlooks the blue hills of Milton, and commands a fine view of the Charles river, three-eighths of a mile of which is controlled by the home farm, which has 55 acres of good tillage land.

The kitchen and laundry are separated from the main building, and are respectively 50x30 and 22x30 feet in size. In the basement of the main building, in addition to the boiler and engine rooms, will be the tailor shop, the printing office and other departments of the trade school. Here, also, in the wing, will be the boys' recreation and refectory rooms. The first floor in the main building will be utilized for offices, reception rooms and parlors, and in the wing will be located four class rooms, each 24x32 feet in size.

The second floor will be used as one of the dormitories, and small rooms for the housekeeping departments of the home. On the third floor of the main building will be the dispensary, infirmary, emergency and linen rooms. In the wing on this floor, extending two stories, will be a temporary chapel.

The attic floor of the main building will be used as another dormitory. The center of the building rises to a height of 175 feet, in the shape of a stone tower. Opening at the tower, at a height of 130 feet, is a balcony, and space is reserved in the tower above for the massive clock.

While it is not expected that the house will be ready for occupancy until next summer, the plumbing, steam fittings and part of the interior decoration are being pushed rapidly toward completion. It will be a magnificent monument to industry and charity, and the dense forest that surrounds the home will be of untold benefit to those stray waifs who are unused to fresh air and cool breezes.

Messrs. W. H. and J. A. McGinty are its architects.

After the tour of inspection had been made and the luncheon partaken of, Fr. O'Farrell welcomed his friends, and Fr. Ford told of the work in hand. He was followed by Mrs. Devine, whose words inspired the ladies to greater interest for the waifs and orphans, a picnic in whose interest will be held at Apollo gardens, near Boylston station, Roxbury, July 28.

St. Andrews.

A sleepy old town it is, quaint and self-satisfied, its streets laid out with distressing regularity, but dotted here and there with relics of the past, suggestive of colonial days and the Royalists who founded it. One would naturally expect much of interest, historically, in this little town, but will be disappointed. It was once quite a shipping port, but other cities seem to have stolen its prestige away.

Its principal stock in trade at present is its marvellously pure and dry atmosphere, of which there is an inexhaustible supply of the purest and driest kind. Gen. Greely is quoted as ample authority in this connection; his reports showing that, curiously enough, small areas, at the extreme southwestern and northeastern limits of our country, possess the most perfect climate conditions, a mean summer temperature of 68 degrees, and an atmosphere remarkably free from humidity. This is quite noteworthy, considering the interior proximity of Grand Maun and its reputation.

Another and equally desirable article is its picturesque environment,—Passamaquoddy, beautiful Chamcook Mountains, and no less beautiful Chamcook Lake, among the mountains and flowing into the bay by a short stream.

It is characteristic of American enterprise that the St. Andrews Land Company should have selected this particular place for improvement should have erected on one of the four hills mentioned previously as view points of this region the splendid hotel, known everywhere as "The Algonquin," a house of perfect appointments, and having that enviable reputation of success, five seasons of "ten strikes" as a hotel man expressed it!

Good roads reach inland, fine bathing near at hand, fresh and salt water recreations, mountain climbing, and every possible out-of-door sport are the fitting accompaniment of this ideal resort. "Immunity from hay fever" is the legend, par excellence, inscribed on its card!

From St. Andrews, running out under the striking headland of Joe's Point, another excellent observation point of the lake, the steamer immediately enters St. Croix river proper, the little town of Robbinston on the opposite bank laying snugly and comfortably under the protecting shoulder of an evergreen ridge, which runs out and abruptly drops into the river just above.

Let it be understood that the humped-back style of bicycling is now wholly optional. It is a matter of handles. The back-humping handle represents the machine as it is formed for racing. A racing man, like a camel or a jack-rabbit, has to hump himself for speed. But handles can be put on any machine, which will enable the rider to sit up like a happy, healthy and independent American gentleman out for pleasure and not for business. There is no excuse for the hunchback off the racing track.

BRAY'S BRICK BLOCK.

THE FINEST BUSINESS STRUCTURE IN BOSTON'S VICINITY—THE PRIDE OF NEWTON CENTRE—A DESCRIPTION.

The new brick block, nearly completed on Institution avenue and Union streets, Newton Centre, is undoubtedly the finest business block in the suburbs of Boston and very few of New England's inland cities can boast its equal in thoroughness of construction and completeness of equipment. There has been no contract work on the building, everything being done by the day and although work was begun on the first of April 1893, there are, at this writing, several weeks work before the building will be entirely finished.

The citizens of Newton Centre are very justly proud of the block and only words of praise are heard for the owner. Mr. Mellen Bray, for whom the block was built, is looked upon as a public benefactor and so greatly appreciated is his public spirit and enterprise in behalf of the village, that the leading citizens hope soon to show that appreciation in some suitable public manner.

The foundation work for the block was put in by Contractor Arthur Muldoon of this place, and it kept a large force busy for four months putting in a foundation which is said to be capable of supporting an eight-story brick building.

It was not until the latter part of August that the brick walls began to rise and the floor timbers to be put in place.

The building is a handsome structure, 250x62 feet in size, facing on both Institution avenue and Union street and the general detail of design is Italian renaissance. The face brick is the mottled Pompeian with trimmings of granite and cornices and dormers of copper throughout. It is two and one half stories in height, a frame slated roof covering the building.

The ground floor of the block accommodates seven stores in all, all but one of which are 62x24 feet in size. The corner store toward Beacon street is to be occupied as a drug store by G. W. Cobb of Pleasant street, and the fixtures are elegant in design and finish. They are of quartered oak in dark antique finish with brown Tennessee marble base which makes an extremely rich combination and with mosaic floor completes the finest equipped drug store in this vicinity. The mirrors, show windows and all show cases are of imported French plate glass, the show cases containing beveled plate.

The store of James Paxton, caterer, of Newton, is one of the finest in the block and the fittings throughout are in ivory white with yellow wall effect. The store is divided into two sections, the main store and the ice cream saloon, by a white archway supported on carved columns. The general detail of design is Colonial and the effect is very pleasing. The white polished counters in the main store are topped with mahogany and have brown Tennessee marble bases. They are flanked by tall antique cases with doors of beveled French plate. The saloon has a white marble dado, three feet high extending around it, and above, the walls are ornamented by figures nearly life size representing "Morning," "Noon," "Night," "Summer" and "Autumn" and several faucy sketches all done in fresco. A stately ivory white display case with plate glass doors occupies a convenient niche and a large ground glass window at the rear of the saloon throws a soft light over the interior. The floors throughout are of mosaic.

George H. Loomer's boot and shoe store is substantially finished with fittings of North Carolina pine. A large 20 foot show window affords light and an opportunity for display.

E. E. Brown has the next store which is fitted up in natural wood for his bicycle business. Another large show window allows him an excellent opportunity for displaying his goods.

The store of C. O. Tucker & Co., grocers, is fitted throughout in quartered oak oiled and rubbed down to a dull finish. The store is one of the finest in the New England states. The counters are of paneled oak with show cases of imported beveled French plate glass. Roll top bins extend along the left counters with rolled French plate glass tops. In the rear is another row of roll top bins with oak covers. A large refrigerator, with plate glass doors, is supplied by cold blast on the premises and in front of it sets a counter topped with white marble. The office for the cashier is large and commodious and has a well front which adds to the general beauty of the store. The coffee grinder, concealed under one of the counters, is run by water power from the power house. Two large show windows, with reflecting mirrors at the sides, give ample opportunity for the display of goods.

The finest store in the block is the mammoth one that is to be occupied by Mr. George F. Richardson, and it is authoritatively stated that it will be the finest retail provision store in Massachusetts and probably in the New England states. The floor area averages 55x35 feet and the store has a magnificent 65 foot show window of imported French plate glass. Inside this window is a white marble base five feet wide containing an expanse of about 300 square feet of marble. At one end is a miniature pond sunk in the marble in which live fish will be kept and from which a window fountain will be kept in operation. The store has two main entrances and the rest of the interior is finely fitted up. Large marble tables of the best material occupy the centre of the room, the stands being of quartered oak in harmony with the store fittings. A marble topped counter 36 feet in length with oak shelves above stands along the east side and above the columns, supporting the ceiling, are circular oak shelving with marble bases. The refrigerator is supplied by cold blast and through the elegant French sides a whole side of beef can be displayed on the runways. Every modern convenience for the keeping and preparation of fish is provided at the rear of the store with elaborate marble counters wherever they are desirable. The cashier's place is of paneled oak with plate glass front, and conveniently accessible for the public is a handsome tight closet for the public telephone. At the rear of the store is the elevator to convey goods to the mammoth cellar, the same size as the store and outside is a large loading place at the right height for the unloading of the Boston teams and the dispatch of orders. The market is simply magnificent in its proportions and equipment.

The end of the block opposite the depot is to be occupied by the Newton Centre Trust Co. of which Mr. Dwight Chester is president. The dimensions are 23x60 feet. The bank has a mosaic floor and in the front window is the directors room, 13x15 feet, separated from the bank by a glass partition. The counters are surmounted by metal grills with openings for the cashier and teller. There are two vaults 5x8 feet in size, the upper one for the use of the bank and that below for use as a storage vault.

Below the bank are the bowling alleys. They are three in number and rest upon eight inch timbers imbedded in twelve inches of concrete. Dressing and toilet rooms fitted with every convenience connect with the alleys.

The main entrance leading to the second floor is of cut granite with carved mouldings and is massive and effective. The heavy oaken doors swing both ways and one enters a white marble hall with marble steps leading in two short flights to the second floor. There is a four foot dado of Champlain marble bordered by a brown Tennessee shade, and above, the wall is of white enameled tile surmounted by a light green tile cornice.

The landing hall is square and is Colonial in detail with cornice and beam finish of quartered oak. Several square doric columns add much to the beauty of the hall.

The ticket offices and check rooms at the left, finished in the most thorough manner, are for the large hall beyond which is entered through large double doors. The hall is 102x62 feet in size. 37 feet high in the centre and 20 feet at the sides. The ceiling of the main hall shows the open timber and the truss work painted a light wood color. The wood work of the hall and gallery is finished in white shellac and the walls are of a soft olive shade. There are nineteen large windows and above are sixteen dormer windows affording splendid light and ventilation and six arc electric and three gas chandeliers, afford ample illumination after twilight.

Opening from the hall opposite the entrance is a fire escape providing two exits in case of need. Toilet rooms fitted in the best possible manner connect with the hall and also from the entrance hall outside. The gallery extends back over the entrance hall interfering with the main hall in no way, upon which it looks through four elliptical arches resting upon square doric columns. The seats are raised and entrance is gained by two doors opening from the third floor. The hall and gallery will seat 1500 people.

The small hall faces Union street. It is 35x48 feet in size and Doric in detail. The finish is in plaster panel work. A quartered oak panel dado is surmounted by wooden pilasters running to wooden cornices and above the wall covers out to the ceiling which is in beam panel work. The lower panels are in old rose shading into a light green, all in oil. The stage is elliptical in form with swell front and there are ample dressing rooms in the rear with exit. The small room at the rear of the hall is entered by two doors and can be used in connection with it when desired.

Just at the left and opening from the hall or from the entrance hall is a dining room, 30x30 feet, finished in oak with brown tile fireplace in one corner and a pantry opening from the room.

Several office rooms are on this floor and the elevator opens on the entrance hall.

An oak staircase with handsome oak rail and three foot oak dado with a wall of olive tint, lead to the third floor where are the janitor's apartments and several other rooms which can serve as offices or chambers.

At the rear of the block is the power house where three large boilers, supplied by the Walker Pratt Manufacturing Co., furnish steam for running the dynamo for electric lighting, for the cold storage blast, for heating, ventilating and power purposes.

The block is heated by steam, lighted by electricity and has a large freight elevator.

The architects were Kendall & Stevens.

The decorations were by Bemis & Jewett of Newton Centre.

A MEMORIAL TO CHIEF BIXBY.

THE CITIZENS HOLD A MEETING TO ARRANGE FOR A TESTIMONIAL.

A meeting of representative citizens was held Friday night in the council chamber, City Hall, West Newton, to organize committees for the purpose of arranging for a memorial to the late Chief Henry L. Bixby of the fire department. A preliminary meeting was held the preceding night, at which ward committees were chosen, and the meeting Friday was to perfect a permanent organization.

Ex-Alderman Arthur E. Luke was chosen chairman, J. C. Brimblecom clerk and David Bates treasurer. After listening to a detailed description of the accident by Assistant Chief W. B. Rantlett, several gentlemen were heard regarding the present movement and the hearty support with which it was received. Mr. Henry E. Cobb spoke of the devotion of the late chief to his profession, his remarkable ability as a fireman, and said that he was a man who held the respect of every one.

Mr. Edwin B. Haskell of Auburndale spoke of his own loss in the last large fire the chief handled, and the splendid service which Mr. Bixby rendered. He was glad to join in a fitting expression of the late chief's worth and the loss, and he declared that the whole city was in hearty sympathy with this movement. The meeting instructed the secretary to notify those whose names were at the head of each ward list that a committee of 10 citizens in each ward be chosen, and that vigorous steps be immediately taken to allow all citizens who desired a chance, to assist by contribution in raising the necessary funds.

Only One Righteous.

Perhaps it may be a source of wonder that the Boston press has no more influence upon the Legislature in preventing the passage of the Meigs bill. Here, again, I quote from a well-read legislator. The members don't care, he says, for what the Boston papers say, for they are every one of them for sale, not only their news columns, but their editorials. When pressed for particulars, he did agree, that one, at least, was probably incorruptible. Which one it was I will not say and so let each suppose that it is itself the cue, but I will give them all the benefit of their current reputation among a portion, at least, of the members of the Legislature. This is by no means a new charge, or I should not mention it. But when there is an impression that any one, not to say more than one of the papers, will support measures in its editorial columns from other considerations than the merits of the case, then it cannot be expected that the editorials will have as much influence as if it were a certainty that public good was the only reason for the attitude of the paper.—Boston Letter to Springfield Republican.

A Chicago Girl's Runaway Wheel.

The Chicago News says this all happened on a South side street: The shades of night were getting in their work, and the peace of a righteous community was filtering through the atmosphere. Brown and Jones were enjoying their last cigars and conversing on stocks; there is nothing frivolous or flighty about Brown and Jones.

Suddenly there came a swish of feminine skirts, a skurry of a bicycle, and through the darkened air a shrill wail faltered: "Oh, won't you please help me!" Then a bicycle at full tilt sped across the street crossing, and Brown and Jones stared at each other aghast. "O-o-o-h!" half cried the voice of the disappearing rider.

"What in thunder does she want help about?" gasped Jones.

"She wasn't tipping over!" cried Brown.

"Her wheel was all right!"

"No one was pursuing—"

"Help!" floated back to the crossing. With one wild gust of alarm two cigars were flung to destruction and two reputable citizens were spinning down Lake avenue. Never since their college days have Jones and Brown made a running record like the one credited to that night's performance, with a movable block for an object. One block, two blocks, two and a half, and then the fleeing wheel with its sobbing rider came in view.

With an extraordinary spurt Brown and Jones caught up, grabbed the handle-bars and stopped the wild progress of the modern Flying Dutchman.

"What—" began Jones. "How—" gasped Brown, who was stout and unpleasantly conscious of something ridiculous in the whole proceeding.

"Oh," quivered the feminine rider, who was not young and not fair: "Oh, how can I ever thank you! Oh, my goodness what a scare! I can ride, my goodness—just learned—but I can't turn round, and I can't mount and can't stop my wheel, and I was getting farther away from home every minute, and oh, dear, what would I have done if—"

Jones coughed. In her excitement the distressed lady was reposing against his shirt front. It was a fresh shirt front and her act disturbed him.

"Shall we get you started for home?" quivered Brown, who always had presence of mind.

"Oh, if you would," said the distressed lady, and then two reputable citizens put her on her wheel, turned it around, pushed her half a block, and saw her disappear in the darkness, leaving a trail of inarticulate gasps, thanks, protests and exclamations in her wake.

Since fell over Lake avenue. Brown and Jones stuffed their handkerchiefs into their collars, and looked at each other meditatively. Suddenly Brown went into convulsions. He grabbed Jones's arm.

"How," he stuttered, "how, I say, is that fool woman going to stop when she does get home?"

Then they sat down on the curbstone to recover, and incidentally to calculate whether the woman who hadn't learned how to make the wheel stop going round would eventually reach the north pole or be drowned in Lake Superior.

"And yet," Brown says scornfully, when he tells the adventure, "yet some misguided mortals claim that women have sense enough to vote and decide the fate of the nation. Humph!"

The way he says "humph" makes the hearer whither away—if the hearer is a woman.

THE BIXBY TESTIMONIAL.

The hearty way in which the plan to raise a testimonial to the late Chief Henry L. Bixby has been undertaken by prominent citizens, is very creditable to the community in which he lived and labored. It shows that earnest and faithful work is sure to be appreciated, even when it is done quietly and without ostentation.

It is an excellent thing for a community to show their appreciation of such a man, and show it in a substantial and generous way. It shows the interest that people take in their home city, it not only gives expression to their gratitude for the faithful service of a city official who gave his whole life to their service, but it will have a beneficial effect on all departments of city work, as it proves that honesty and faithfulness do furnish a paying investment, and that those qualities are sure to meet with due recognition.

The project of raising this testimonial is one of the most creditable ones Newton has ever undertaken, and it is especially gratifying to see the way in which all classes of citizens are joining in it. The list of the committees, which have been appointed, are given in another column, and they are men who will see that the work does not languish like the monument fund to General Grant, for instance.

Newton will set an honorable example to other cities, and Chief Bixby was so well known outside of Newton that in honoring him, we also do honor to Newton.

In regard to the contributions, one ward in the city has already received pledges amounting to some $2,500, and the work has only begun there. The other wards will no doubt be fully as anxious to do their share, and the result will be a substantial and handsome memorial.

The New Hampshire State Board of Agriculture has just issued a very handsome pamphlet, entitled "New Hampshire Farms for Summer Homes," with fine illustrations on heavy white paper. It gives a very glowing account of the attractions of the Granite State, and follows it by a list of the "abandoned farms," by which, the report states, is meant farms unoccupied but with buildings in good condition. As every business man has an idea of sometime owning a farm, the pamphlet will have a good many readers. The list of abandoned farms is now reduced to 750, from 1342 in 1890, so that those who have not yet made their choice will find the variety lessening every year. Nevertheless, the man who wants a farm could probably be accommodated, at his own price, even if these on the list were all taken. The descriptions are very taking in such weather as we have had the past week. Think of 900 acres in a mountain town, with house of fifteen rooms and several barns for only $3 an acre. There are several small farms of a hundred acres or so with buildings for less than a thousand dollars, and the locations vary from half a mile from a railroad station to twenty. As the report states, a farm can be purchased for the cost of a summer's outing for the family, and the buyer could have a home for all the future, as the land would be left even if the buildings fell over his head the first summer. The descriptions read very fine on paper, but one who has looked up some of these bargains says that the would-be buyer should always visit them before closing a trade, just to see how far the reality falls short of the ideas called up by the description. The New Hampshire board of agriculture is certainly enterprising in sending out this list just at this time, but if any Newton man wants a cheap farm he can find plenty of them in Massachusetts within a short railroad ride of Boston, by applying to any real estate agent who deals in farm property. It is not best for a city man to go too far from civilization, in his first venture of country life.

AN amusing feature of the Meigs' elevated railroad bill scandal is found in the report that the bill was helped to pass by giving to some members stock in the Meigs Company of West Virginia, which the members supposed would be made valuable by the passage of the bill. The astute lobbyists in charge of the bill, however, got in a final amendment that the company to be chartered should have the right to construct lines of Meigs or any other system, which made the stock held by members of no value. The whole thing is one of the most unpleasant features that ever characterized a Massachusetts legislature, as it gives away the streets of Boston to a New York clique of speculators to do what they please with, and the people of Boston are left helpless. A New York board of aldermen could not have done a more scandalous thing. If such a franchise was to have been granted at all, it ought to have been carefully guarded, and with a condition that Boston should derive some revenue from such a valuable gift. The practice of giving the streets of cities to any corporation or speculative clique that asks for them is not a commendable one, and it is high time that a stop was put to it. The whole thing shows the worse than foolishness of allowing country legislators to legislate for a great city, and if the bill is finally enacted Governor Greenhalge ought to put a most emphatic veto upon it.

The city ordinance requiring bicyclists to carry lighted lanterns at night will become of no effect after July 14th, as the law passed by the present legislature repeals all previous laws, city or town ordinances, and also prohibits the future enactment of similar laws by any city or town. The lantern ordinance was very unpopular with wheelmen, though it was as much for their protection as for that of the riding or walking public. The new law regulates the speed of bicycles to 10 miles an hour, and provides that a bell shall be carried. In the public parks of Boston and parks or other grounds under the supervision of the park commissioners a lantern must still be carried and the park commissioners are the only body that can make any rules in conflict with this law. The bill was drawn up in favor of the wheelmen by Chief Consul Geo. A. Perkins of the Mass. Div. L. A. W., and is very satisfactory to them.

SUNDAY was one of the hottest days experienced in Newton and the thermometric reports were so high that to print them would ruin any paper's reputation for veracity. Several usually reliable gentlemen testify that their thermometers went up to 98 in the shade, and all reports agree that it was several degrees over 90. The heat was intense and even in the evening the mercury only dropped a few degrees. Monday was another hot day, but a refreshing breeze made it bearable; Tuesday was cooler but the humidity was so great that it was almost as uncomfortable as on any of the three preceding days. We generally have some of the hottest weather of the summer in June, but this year it beat the record.

MANY people have asked if it is necessary to have an open patrol wagon to carry drunken men through the streets, and if so, if they could not be unloaded at West Newton without making the affair into a spectacle for all the school children and loafers of that ward, as is now too often the case. The spectacle is not an edifying one for children of tender years, and possibly the wagon might be driven into the patrol stable, and the doors closed before the victim is tumbled out of the wagon and dragged off to a cell. The ends of justice would be just as well served and the public spared a painful sight.

SOME interest is being taken in local politics and one hears some discussion of possible candidates. It is said that the friends of ex-Alderman Harbach, who was defeated two years ago, will again present his name to the convention, as a candidate for mayor, and there may be a warm fight and there may not. His friends believe that now that the question of sewer assessments has been settled, the opposition to him has practically died out, and that he would be a popular candidate, especially with the working men.

WABAN RACQUET CLUB.
SECOND OPEN TOURNAMENT OF THE SEAS-ON HELD MONDAY--THE WINNERS.

The Waban Racquet Club, with courts on Boyd street, lying both in Newton and Watertown, held its second open tournament of the season on the club courts Monday, and much better playing was developed than was shown on Memorial Day. There were 10 entries, and play began early in the morning.
 Secretary C. S. Esgen being in charge.
 The playing was notable for the long drives, and it seemed as though many of the contestants had good control of the Lawford stroke.

The tournament was finished with the exceptions of the finals, which were played Tuesday. The summary: Preliminary round--Lee beat Walworth 6-1, 6-4. Birmbleom beat Griswold 6-3, 6-4. Keith beat Applin 6-5,

 Emery beat Ensign 6-5, 6-1. Condon beat Garrison 5-2, 6-4. Hollis beat Hornbrook 6-2, 6-1. Whittemore beat Whitney, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

First round--Lee beat Birmbleom 6-2, 6-2. Keith beat Childs 6-3, 6-6, 6-4.

NEWSPAPER ONLY MEDIUM.
LOTS OF PEOPLE WASTING MONEY ON SCHEMES.

"It astonishes me to see people patronize all the catchpenny advertising schemes that come along," said a well-known business man. "Hotel blotters, pads, advertising frames and all sorts of quack allurements are held out to people by glib talkers, who explain the great benefits to be derived from patronizing them. I wouldn't give a cent for any advertising of that kind, and I never pay any attention to such things."

"The only legitimate and paying advertising medium for me is the newspaper. If you should lose your pocketbook, containing a sum of money, would you expect to recover your property by advertising for it on a program or a blotting pad? No; you would go at once and place an advertisement in a newspaper that is read by the people. A rule that applies to a lost pocketbook advertising applies with equal force to every other class of advertising."

"Get your wares, your propositions,
 your wants, before the reading people,
 and you are doing the best canvassing for customers that you possibly can.
 Money spent with these travelling advertising solicitors is simply money thrown away. That's all."—The Journalist.

Grandpa's Pet—"Little Dirty-Face."
 [Boston Transcript.]

We have a little maid at home,
 She says "my name is Dwee"—
 To pa and ma she's better known As "Little Dirty-Face."

You scrub and dress that child at ten—
 While ma and pa trimm'd with lace—
 In fifteen minutes, of an even,
 She's Little Dirty-Face.

But smile off break that crust of dirt,
 And smile off the dimples chase,
 And tender eyes light up with love
 That Little Dirty-Face.

'T is naught but superficial dirt
 Which scrubbing will erase;
 So ma and pa are rather proud Of Little Dirty-Face.

On top's small phiz the trouble is
 To find a kissing place,
 But stay—I see a rose bud mouth
 O Little Dirty-Face.

Then come and give the sweet "bear hug"—
 Then little tottling Grace—
 Thy soul's as pure as angels' robes,
 My Little Dirty-Face.

Newtonville, Mass. E. BRADSHAW.

Politics and Religion in Hawaii.
 [Rev. Dr. A. S. Twombly in Congregationalist.]

I have been into many of the native churches in Honolulu and have conversed with religious people, native and foreign,
 from this and other islands, and am forced to the conclusion that the religious, not to say the moral, condition of the native Hawaiians is not encouraging to the lovers of this interesting race. I could give a remarkable account of a visit to a native Mormon church where the worshippers (sic) did whatever they pleased during the service, just what the natives enjoy doing the best. I could tell of the Roman Catholic successes among them—500 native boys in St. Louis college of Honolulu and a cathedral filled with natives on Easter Sunday. I could also relate my experiences on Sunday afternoons at the little Protestant churches in the vicinity of Honolulu and the frequency of disgraceful scenes on Sunday in native houses, where liquor drinking and worse vices
 are indulged in out of sight of the police.
 But it is safe to say that at least one-half of the congregations have deserted their churches because of the political troubles, at any rate making that an excuse for staying away. At Hilo the native pastor said it was hard to get together even a half of his people on Sundays, although in some of the Coast's little churches scattered over the vicinity a few faithful souls still keep up a surprise prayer-meeting before going to their work.

Sad as these symptoms of decline may be, there are some hopeful signs. A Sunday school convention at Ewa, near this city, was largely attended. The papers gave a detailed account of a most encouraging series of meetings. There are devoted native pastors on all the islands. The last two reigns did not carry any large proportion of the natives back to the Kahunas or revive the hula dances as a national practice. But it will require many years of faithful labor by self-sacrificing white men and women to restore the religious condition to what it was even 20 years ago. The natives seem indifferent, rather than opposed, to religion. They grow more and more indolent in their habits. They resent foreign interference in politics and religion, and the missionary is no longer their beloved leader and spiritual guide.

However we must not forget that there are 57 native churches, with native pastors on the Hawaiian islands; that 284 new members were received in one year, 1892-93; that 44 suspended members were restored and 82 suspended;
 that the total number of names on the church rolls is over 4000; that nearly 3000 are in the Sunday schools; that they have given over $1200 for pastor's support, about $1500 for church buildings and for benevolent work $600.

If these things seem small in a native population of 40,000, then we must fall back on the 70,000 hopeful conversions of the past 74 years; on the hope that the docile, kindly people will, under an improved Christian government in the future, return to their allegiance to the king of kings, and on the promises of God's word that "the isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust." With this motto as their watchword, the Hawaiian Evangelical Association, with such men as A. F. Judd, Rev.
 Dr. C. M. Hyde, Rev. Hiram Bingham, Rev. S. E. Bishop, Rev. H. H. Parker, and others like the Damons, the Alexanders and the Joneses, may hope for better things as they devise larger measures and give ample means for the work.

To Stop Docking.
 If legislation can put a stop to the docking of horses' tails the bill which has been passed by the present Legislature, and which has been signed by the Governor, ought to accomplish that end.
 It is provided in this act that whoever causes or knowingly permits docking to be done upon a horse of which he is the owner, lessee, proprietor, or user, or whoever assists in or is present at such cutting, shall be punished by imprisonment in the jail not exceeding one year or by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $300. The discovery of a horse with its tail cut and the wound unhealed upon the premises of any person to be accepted as prima facie evidence that the person having charge of the horse, or the person who has use of the premises, committed the offence. As an inducement to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to be on the lookout for this offence, it is further provided that one-half of the fines collected under this act shall go to the society. This is by far the most drastic legislation yet in this direction, but it remains to be seen whether it will prove effective.—Boston Herald.

A Bright Lad,
 Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone.
 If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—

—The Newton Centre post office was opened in its new quarters on Monday morning. The description in these columns a few weeks since did not overestimate its excellent advantages one bit, and its appointments are fully in keeping with any in the city. The public are much pleased at the increased convenience and facilities afforded them.

—The store of C. O. Tucker & Co. in Bray's block was a very busy place on Saturday afternoon and evening, and over 600 people visited the store between the hours of 2 and 8 p. m., inspecting its elegant appointments and enjoying the fine Simpson Spring beverages which were served free to all guests. The four clerks had all they could do to attend to the wants of their visitors.

D., will address the young people and their friends. The public cordially invited. A special orchestra will furnish the music.

—There is some sentiment manifesting itself as to who the probable successor of the late Chief Bixby of the fire department will be. It is conceded by all that Assistant Chief Ranlett should be given an opportunity to say whether or no he will accept the position as he would seem to be qualified for it. There seems to be a general feeling that if Capt. Ranlett should not take the position an outside man would be the only wise choice, as an appointment from the Newton department would create a feeling of dissatisfaction and imperil discipline. The action of the mayor and aldermen is awaited with expectancy, for Capt. Ranlett is universally respected here.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Kelsey gave a very pleasant "at home" at their new residence on Montvale road, Wednesday afternoon and evening. Mr. Kelsey's house is the first to be built on the newly opened section in the vicinity of the boulevard and is quite a model of architectural beauty. The damage to household goods was one hundred dollars or thereabout. Insured.

—An important sale of land has been made at Eliot, near the station, of about five acres running from Boylston street to the aqueduct, comprising a part of the estate of Mr. George Bacon. It has been purchased by Mr. Otis T. Pettie of Upper Falls who will develop the property by building streets and the erection of houses. Mr. Bacon has also sold a lot of 10,000 feet on the corner of Boylston and new street, to Mr. Aaron R. Cook of this place who will have a house built for his own occupancy.

The music in the afternoon was by the Putnam Boy's Orchestra of Cambridge, and in the evening the Union Male quartet of Boston, and the Crescent band of Waltham rendered music. There were four tables containing light refreshments of all kinds, and they were in charge of ladies from the various wards. The Newton table was trimmed in yellow and was presided over by Mrs. T. F. Delaney, the West table by Mrs. Hyde, the Cambridge table by Miss Joyce, Miss Hyde, Miss Grace, Miss Sullivan, Miss Wall, Miss Barrett. The Newtonville table decorated in red, was in charge of Mrs. Lizzie Blount, Miss O'Brien, Miss Carr, Miss McGuire, and Miss Cashman. The Newton Centre table, including Newton Highlands and Newton Upper Falls was tended by Mrs. R. T. Sullivan, Mrs. Robert Levy, Miss W. H. McOwen, Mrs. Levy, Miss Mulcaire, Miss Kneeland and Miss Foley, and was dressed in pink. The proceeds of the party will go toward supporting the Free Home for Consumptives.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE COUNCIL MET MONDAY AND BOTH BRANCHES LAST EVENING.

The meeting of the common council Monday evening was presided over by President Knapp and ten members were present.

At 7.30 o'clock hearings were opened on laying out the Newton central boulevard from the Boston line to Centre street, Centre to Valentine and Valentine to Washington streets. Also on taking land for sewer near Suffolk road between Temple and Washington and Crescent and Ewa streets. They were closed without remonstrance.

Papers from the aldermen were then passed in concurrence and the council adjourned.

NEWTON SCHOOL BOARD.

THE LAST MEETING OF THE YEAR SLIMLY ATTENDED.

The school board met Wednesday evening, with Chairman J. Edward Hollis in the chair and Messrs. Knapp, Drew, Brackett, Mason, Smith and Mrs. Martin absent.

Orders were adopted granting leave of absence to Lawrence L. Wilson and Delia A. Allen of the Williams school, Julia M. Cole of the High school and Elizabeth F. Paddock of the Pierce school, with balance of salary.

Appointments were then made as follows: Alice M. Wimple and Harriet B. Spooner as assistants at the Williams school at a salary of $620 each; Alice M. Macomber to succeed Miss Tyler, resigned, as laboratory assistant at the High school; Harriet E. Constantine as assistant at the High school at a salary of $1000.

Relative to the latter appointment the superintendent said Miss Constantine was a Wellesley graduate and was very highly appreciated in Worcester, where she had been teaching Latin in the High school for the past year or so. She would teach Latin here for the present.

David F. Clark and James W. Beecher were appointed by appointment to the present list of truant officers.

The report of the superintendent dealt with the question of establishing new lines for school districts and the members of the board were exclusively provided with printed copies of the new districts as prepared. The superintendent said there were no material changes, only in the Underwood and Lincoln school districts where quite a large number of the present Underwood school pupils will be transferred to the Lincoln school on Thornton and Pearl streets.

The press were not furnished with copies of these changes as the lines cannot be defined for the information of our readers.

Mr. Boyden moved that the report be accepted and moved to adopt the district lines as presented. This was seconded by Mr. Hale.

Chairman Hollis suggested that in the absence of both the Ward One gentlemen in whose ward these changes were contemplated, it might be wise not to take such summary action.

Some discussion was followed by a passage of the motion with the understanding that the Ward One gentlemen could suggest an amendment if they desired, next fall.

The finance committee reported adversely on increasing the Claffin school janitor salary to $60 per month, but recommended that $10 per month be allowed for extra work, which after some discussion was adopted.

The sum of $15,480.15 was appropriated for June expenses.

Mr. Howes brought up the question of sanitary and safety investigation of the school houses of the city referred to the city council some weeks since and from which nothing has been heard. He submitted a letter from T. E. Cabot of the Boston fire underwriters and U. C. Crosby of the N. E. Insurance Exchange, in which they detailed a thorough investigation of the Bigelow and Underwood schools, which they found in a very dangerous condition relative to fire, which could not from the location of the chimneys, otherwise than by fire and stacks were of metal directly in violation of all modern building laws, and both buildings were momentarily dangerous and unfit for school houses.

He offered a resolution to be forwarded to the city council, but it was finally referred to the school house committee.

Mr. Beck referred to the present lack of teachers and thought something should be done about it, but it was laid over until fall for discussion.

Mrs. Davis called attention to the non-attendance at school and truancy of children, mentioning two cases of particular flagrance in Ward Three.

Mr. Ward believed the truancy should be firmly dealt with and that the board was desirous of having the laws in this respect, rigidly enforced.

The board then adjourned into executive session.

The Bixby Testimonial.

The committee of citizens engaged in raising a testimonial in honor of the late Henry L. Bixby, Newton's fire department chief, are meeting with gratifying success and over $5000 has already been contributed.

The facts in this case peculiarly appeal to the sympathies of the people of Newton, and if generally known would doubtless influence many to give who have not as yet done so.

David Bates, assistant cashier of the Boston National Bank, 95 Milk street, is treasurer of the fund, and any who have not been solicited to give may forward their contributions to him. It is hoped to raise $10,000.

Righteous Indignation.

(From Truth.)

Porter (in hotel)—Were you looking for any one, sir?

Irritable gentleman (angrily)—Yes, a man promised to meet me here on important business at 2 o'clock. I've just come, and here it is 4 o'clock and he is not here yet. Shows how prompt some people are in keeping their appointments.

His mother—Johnny, always remember what I told you. When you see any little boy showing anger take him aside and make him feel that he is wrong. Did you do so yesterday with naughty Tommy Tubb?

Johnny—Yes, indeed, I did. I punched him good, too.—Chicago Record.

"I suppose you forgot it when it came around eight or nine years ago," was Miss Fypp's reply.

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Gallagher, "it was funny enough to make a donkey laugh. I laughed till I cried." And then, as he saw a smile go round the room, he grew red in the face and went away angry.

CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS.

SOME BRILLIANT PLAYING AT THE NEIGHBORHOOD CLUB.

The invitation tournament on the courts of the Neighborhood Club has been the centre of attraction this week, and tennis lovers from all over the country have attended the games, the members of the club keeping open houses for the entertainment of their friends.

Monday's games had the attraction of the presence of Arthur Foote, the Yale expert who has come up so suddenly few knew anything about his play, and were curious to see him. Hovey, Wrenn and Chase have been seen before but Foote was an unknown quantity.

The match between Hovey and Foote was well contested, but Hovey won, while Wrenn met with a bad defeat, he having not recovered from the injury to his foot, caused by being spiked in a ball game. In the afternoon Hovey defeated Chase and Foote defeated Wrenn.

Mr. Joseph Whitteley, secretary of the National Lawn Tennis Association, officiated as referee, and also kept tabs on the individual work of the players.

FIRST SET. Foote.....0 2 3 0 5 0 7 0 10-6 Hovey.....1 0 0 4 0 6 0 8 0-4

SECOND SET. Hovey.....0 2 3 4 5 6 0 8-6 Foote.....1 0 0 0 0 0 7 0-2

FOOT-WEEN. FIRST SET. Foote.....0 2 0 4 5 6 7 8-6 Wrenn.....1 0 3 0 0 0 0 0-2

In the second set Foote won the match 6-0.

TUESDAY'S GAMES. Clarence Hobart was the bright particular star at the Neighborhood Club tennis tournament at West Newton Tuesday. In the morning he defeated Malcolm Chase 6-2, 4-0, 6-3, and in the afternoon he lowered the colors of the state champion, Fred Hovey, in two straight sets, 6-2, 7-5.

There was a large crowd of spectators with many ladies in dainty summer gowns. The score was as follows:

FIRST SET. Hobart.....0 2 3 4 5 6 7 8-6 Chase.....1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-2

SECOND SET. Hobart.....0 2 0 0 0 5 6 7 0 10-6 Hobart.....1 0 3 0 0 0 0 8 9-0-6

THIRD SET. Hobart.....0 2 3 4 5 6 7 0 9-6 Chase.....1 0 0 0 0 0 6 8 0-3

Hobart's match in the afternoon with Fred Hovey pointed to him as the probable winner of the tournament. The afternoon match was started at 3.30 o'clock, with Dr. Dwight as referee.

FIRST SET. Hobart.....0 2 3 4 5 6 0 8-6 Hovey.....1 0 0 0 0 0 7 0-2

SECOND SET. Hobart.....1 0 0 0 0 0 7 0 10-12-7 Hovey.....0 2 0 4 0 6 0 8 0-5

An exhibition match in doubles was the closing event on the program, with Hobart and Hovey against Wrenn and Chase. It was one-sided, the former team winning two straight sets. The score by games:

FIRST SET. Hobart and Hovey.....0 2 3 0 5 6 7 8 9-6 Wrenn and Chase.....1 0 0 4 0 5 0 0 0-3

SECOND SET. Hobart and Hovey.....1 0 0 4 5 6 7 8 9-6 Wrenn and Chase.....0 2 3 0 0 6 0 0 0-3

WEDNESDAY'S GAMES. In the Neighborhood Club tennis tournament at West Newton, Wednesday, Malcolm Chase, who had lost to Hovey on Monday and to Hobart on Tuesday, retrieved his laurels in a large measure by defeating Hobart and Foote.

There was the same large attendance of leading society people as on previous days. Mr. Willis Farrington, who is known to tennis men all over New England, refereed the matches.

The score by games follow: FIRST SET. Chase.....1 2 0 0 5 6 7 8 9-6 Foote.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-3

SECOND SET. Chase.....1 2 3 0 5 6 7-6 Foote.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-1

THIRD SET. Chase.....1 2 3 4 5 6-6 Foote.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-0

SECOND SET. Chase.....1 0 0 0 0 6 7 8 9 11-12-7 Hobart.....0 2 3 4 5 6 0 0 0 0-5

An exhibition in doubles followed between Wrenn and Foote and Hobart and Chase. Wrenn showed improvement in his playing. With a little practice, he will soon be in form again. Only one set was played and the men stopped when ten games all was reached.

Newton Veteran Firemen. The Newton Veteran Firemen's Association with their now celebrated prize winning engine, Nonantum, will leave West Newton station Saturday morning, June 30, at 6.58 a. m., for the Milford muster, where last October they took first prize of $200.

At least 100 men in full uniform will go, and the chances for capturing a prize are fair, providing of course the weather is favorable, and no accidents occur.

There will be 12 competitors and possibly one or two more, some of them are prize winners with big muster rewards. Notably the Red Jackets of Cambridge, the Veteran Union of Peabody, Hancock of Brockton, Fire King of Pawtucket, R. L. E. Hopkins, 2 of Hopkinton. The other entries are: Hydrant 3 of Holliston, Niagara 1 of Upton, which took second prize last year, Rescue 1 of Grafton, Fire King 1 of East Douglas, Quinsigamon 1 and Quinsigamon 3 of Hopkinton, and possibly the Central Falls, R. I., and the Wakefield Associations.

The playing rules which were prepared by a member of the Newton Association, are excellent and if the day is fine, Newton, as usual will make a good showing under the command of Capt. John Exley, one of the best hand engine commanders in the N. E. Veterans League.

If afflicted with scalp diseases, hair falling out, and premature baldness, do not use Green's Sulfur preparations, but apply Hall's Hair Renewer.

DR. PLUMB ON CATHOLICISM.

A LARGELY ATTENDED MEETING SUNDAY IN ELIOT HALL.

Rev. A. H. Plumb of Boston spoke before a large audience last Sunday in Eliot hall. A half hour praise service led by Mr. W. H. Partridge and assisted by the participation of Miss Brackett, soprano, and Miss Parks, cornet, preceded the address.

Rev. Dr. Calkins of Eliot church presided and Rev. J. B. Gould delivered the opening prayer.

Rev. Dr. Plumb took for his text the words "For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth." II Cor. XIII, 8. In these words the apostle refers to the fact of the omnipotence of truth. All aims, methods and deeds are regulated by the laws of truth and all gained by untruth or that which is not in harmony with truth is without strength or permanency.

The importance of courteous discussion in relation to sectarian interference in civil affairs was the leading topic of discourse, which he wished to call to the attention of his hearers. In the first place it was not the Roman Catholic people but the hierarchy which had so outrageously interfered in our civil affairs, and the fact that such interference tends toward a revolution of our government, is one reason why everyone should become alive and active in these matters. Sectarian interference changes the whole aim and effect of our government. The latter is of and for the whole people and not of or for any one class or sect, and the control of civil affairs must not be in the favor of any one class or church, but for the good of the people at large.

It was a great thing for the Roman Catholics to interfere at Baltimore to stop the sale of liquor, and the Roman Catholic church has done a great work in the support of the home against the loose laws which fill our divorce courts. But those are not for the church alone but of the people at large.

The state and the church should be kept distinctly separate, and in confounding these two the Roman Catholic church is wrong. It is a hand to hand conflict to live in these times of social turbulence, and the government has a right to interfere in these matters for the welfare of the people. Sectarian interference is a violation of the great fundamental principles under which this government was established. The Catholic congress of laymen recently stated that the pope was not a subject which is contrary to all our belief in that all men are alike amendable to the law and no man has irresponsible power over others. Such statements are in direct opposition to all our best laws and all these things show that they are working in the interests of their church, solely.

The speaker referred to the use of $9,000,000 of the public money out of the state treasury of New York in the past 11 years in the interests of the Catholic church, and the corrupt officials who took that money are in high esteem in the Roman Catholic church. The latter insists on a lion's share of public office in order to get into the public treasury. Referring to the parochial schools, he said the scholars were brought up in ignorance of many great historical facts, and anything reflecting on the church was carefully excluded from their text books.

These evils may be fought in various ways. By the ballot in putting men in public office who will labor solely for the good of the people at large, by lending support to an amendment to our national law, prohibiting the use of public money for sectarian institutions, and by open, honorable, courteous discussion of these matters.

St. Andrews, N. B.

A glance shows St. Andrews to be situated on a peninsula five miles in length, extending into Passamaquoddy Bay, which is seventeen miles long by six in width, and in point of attraction has but few rivals, with strong points in common and being often compared with the Bay of Naples.

The outer edge of the bay is encircled by mountainous island ranges, which serve to guard both the bay and peninsula from the objectionable fogs of the eastern coast. During the summer months cool breezes prevail, the thermometer seldom reaching 85 degrees Fahrenheit.

The entire vicinity is traversed by the finest roads. Salt and fresh water fishing is had within an hour's sail or ride, while the bay and lakes afford unsurpassed yachting and boating facilities.

The entire absence of mosquitoes and malaria, the general air of refreshment, together with the curative properties of the balsam-laden atmosphere, have made St. Andrews long and extensively known as an elysium for the hay-fever patient, jaded tourist, pleasure-seeker, and sportsman.

The town, of 1,700 population, numerous hotels and boarding-houses, has five excellent churches, schools, livery-stables, stores, markets, telegraph office, and a weekly newspaper, "The St. Andrews Beacon," while yachts in charge of reliable captains, canoes with or without their Indian owners, and rowboats can be hired on very reasonable terms.

Old Songs Made New.

There is not much that is new in the world when it comes to popular songs. Mark Twain observed recently to a reporter, that there were only 37 jokes in the world, and that that observation was one of them. There is even less variety in the songs of the day, and every few years some old favorite will be found bobbing blithely to the surface, disguised with a new name and words, and perhaps a few trifling variations in the air. Thus the Boston Transcript has called attention to the fact that "Sweet Marie," which is the latest aspirant to the popular favor enjoyed by such songs as "After the Ball," "Three Little Girls in Blue," and "The Bowery" is nothing but "Baby Mine," which had a great vogue about 15 years ago, with a more esthetic name, and a few slight improvements in the melody.

LASTING MEMENTO OF '94.

STAINED GLASS PANEL PLACED IN THE FRONT DOOR OF LASSELL SEMINARY.

The class of '94, Lasell Seminary, has left behind it a lasting memento.

Instead of the conventional ivy or tree, the class of '93 left a sturdy granite boulder, which stands out strong and beautiful from the green turf of the front lawn.

The class of '94 chose as its memorial to fill the large panel of the front door with a beautiful stained glass light, which has for a motive a plain panel of amber opalescent glass, in the center of which is a medallion, made similar in design to the class pin; that is, the upper half of the shield is in white and the lower half in gold, with the letter "L" worked out in cut jewels representing the diamonds of the pin. This is separated from the amber of the background by a soft green scroll.

The medallion is encircled by a laurel wreath, tied with a "Lasell blue" ribbon, which is significant to the graduating class.

Surrounding the center panel of amber glass there is a beautiful border of scroll work, in the same green which is used in the wreath surrounding the medallion. This is in variegated antique glass, and its strength contrasts beautifully with the softness of the amber. This, in turn, is edged with lines of "Lasell blue," and relieves the entire light from the woodwork of the door.

The effect of the whole is very artistic, embracing soft effect of color with strength of design.

Newton Hospital.

The graduating exercises of the Training School for Nurses were largely attended last week. This was an occasion of special interest to the friends of the school, since it was the first graduation day to be observed in the elegant building provided by the generosity of Mr. L. G. Pratt and the late Mr. E. W. Converse.

The spacious assembly rooms were filled with an interested audience, who could not fail to appreciate the significance of such a function, where consecrated wealth, devoted public spirit, technical instruction, and unselfish womanhood, combine to produce the bright consummate flower of our civilization.

The devotional exercises were appropriately conducted by Rev. Dr. Shinn, and the address was delivered by Dr. E. P. Soales, two of the original projectors of this institution, who have constantly worked for its interests from the beginning. Dr. Soales gave an interesting sketch of the hospital, its methods, its growth and its success, and closed with well-chosen words of advice to the graduates, and a welcome to the ranks of the profession, whose honors and responsibilities they divide with the doctors.

Each graduate received her diploma from the hands of President J. R. Leeson, and a badge of gold from Mrs. E. B. Haskell, of the Board of Managers. Referring to the diploma, President Leeson departed widely from the perfunctory Pro autoritate mihi commissa which one hears so often on commencement days, and gave to each graduate a few personal words of commendation and cheer, which they will always remember. The audience was delighted with the fresh illustration of the resources of the President, whom the hospital is so fortunate in having for its executive officer.

This graduation day was rich not only in science and sentiment, but art also contributed to grace the occasion. The Misses Kimberly and Miss Pyffe kindly provided a musical program, and gave selections on the piano and violin, which were exquisitely rendered and highly appreciated.

The interest of the day, however, centered about the class of ten nurses, who received the insignia of their profession after a thorough course of training at the school. They had passed examinations which showed exceptional attainments, and they had received a personal training which the Superintendent of nurses is admirably qualified to give. The hospital has no hesitation in sending out this class with the seal of its approval, and feels that in fitting these young women for their responsible work, it has rendered an inestimable service to the community, and is justifying the confidence reposed in its management. Such a work must not be allowed to falter for the want of means for its prosecution. Undoubtedly the aid and new friends of the institution will testify their appreciation by still larger gifts in the future.

An Unsavory Record.

It is going to be a very unsavory record which the Legislature of 1894 will leave behind. Referring to its course the United States Investor says:—
The willingness of legislative bodies to play into the hands of corporate interests was never more marked than during the past six months in Massachusetts. Probably the Bell telephone measure is as flagrant a piece of legislation as can be recalled. The contention that the Bell Company is not a quasi-public corporation is concerned. What with the Meigs bill and the telephone inquiry the body, as a whole, has distinguished itself beyond all power of imagination when it first met. The year 1894 seems to be a great period for corruption, its exposition and punishment in various parts of the country.

Pallor, languidness, and the appearance of ill-health being no longer fashionable among ladies, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is more largely resorted to as a tonic-alterative, nervous stomachic, and builder-up of the system generally. This is as it should be, Ayer's is the best.

THE TWENTIETH CENTURY WOMAN.

She was once taught to cook; use the sewing machine; sing ballads; and touch the harp gently; After club in the future she'll daily be seen, Where she'll study the papers intently.

And there in debate,
She will learnedly prate,
Of philosophy, poetry, scenery;
While her ignorant spouse,
Can look after the house,
And the baby is reared by machinery.

For man has oppressed us for years
With tyranny, almost inhuman;
He has now had his day,
And had better make way,
For the Twentieth Century Woman.

Sporting Gentry in Modern New England.

The New England gentleman of fifty years ago, if he could see the way we live now, would open his eyes at the importance which the horse and his accoutrements have acquired in the eye of the present generation, and undoubtedly would come to the conclusion, on the whole, that our ancestors were bigoted in their association of a semblance of sin with a free use of the quadruped in question. Certainly, the gay vehicles, bright harnesses, and sleek, stylish animals which are to be encountered nowadays along the country roads of the strict old country of Essex, are a vast improvement, from an aesthetic point of view, over the sombre chaises and elegant nags by means of which our forefathers endangered their chances of salvation. The charms of out-door life on the North Shore have fostered a taste for riding and driving which has proved, alike in a hygienic and a liberalizing sense, a great benefit to the people. Riding, at which most young ladies and many men in the North used to shy, has become, in several sections of the country, and conspicuously on the Beverly shore, a favorite form of exercise and recreation. Under the conduct of the Myron and Hunt Club, fox hunts after the English pattern engage the enthusiastic attention of a considerable number of young and middle-aged people during the early autumn months. The beautiful inland country about Wenham, Hamilton and Topsfield has become a race-course for this hunting element, many of whom do not hesitate to risk life and limb in their almost hysterical enjoyment of the transplanted ancient sport. The Hunt Club has a modest club house at Hamilton, where a pack of hounds are kept, and in the course of the last five years a colony of horse-loving spirits has absorbed and settled upon the most attractive of the surrounding farms, some of which possess an old fashioned picturesqueness which suggests brass andirons and gilly-flowers.—From "The North Shore of Massachusetts," by Robert Grant, in the July Scribner.

South Street Improvement.

The Newton Central boulevard is to enter Boston at the intersection of Lake and South streets, and it is proposed to make South street and Chestnut Hill avenue to Beacon street circle 120 feet wide, as an extension of the Newton boulevard.

The work of surveying this extension is progressing, and will probably be completed and the maps filed within a few weeks, for the action of the Boston street commissioners.

One side of South street runs on the line of Evergreen cemetery, and at that part of the street the widening will be entirely on the other side. The southerly side of the Newton boulevard will have to be extended to the junction of the cemetery line and South street, so that the takings will be largely on the northerly side, except at the intersection with Chestnut Hill avenue, where they will be mostly on the southerly side of this avenue.

The land owned and occupied by the St. John's Ecclesiastical Seminary will be cut into, also land on the avenue owned by the city of Boston.

Catholics and the Public School.

Frederic R. Couderc, in the July Forum.

As to our common schools, true there is an honest difference of opinion among our citizens as to the proper way of conducting them. But as the enormous majority of the people in every State is in favor of unsectarian public education, it is the height of absurdity to take that as the target for violence and oppression. When it is borne in mind that the Roman Catholics have spent millions and millions of money, for conscience' sake, in building schools, that their children might not forget the faith of their fathers,—a faith, which if persevered in, makes them honest, truthful, loyal citizens,—does it not seem as wicked as it is senseless to talk of menace on the part of Catholics against that system? Thus far, certainly, they have received but little aid from the State, and their magnanimous bearing, added to the great hardship which the system has entailed upon them, viz., payment for that education, which many of them conscientiously refuse to receive, should entitle them to the warmest admiration and respect.

Impure blood is the cause of innumerable ill-maladies. Hence, one of the greatest benefactions to humanity was the discovery of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which, more than any other medicine, has saved America from becoming a nation of invalids.

THE TELEPHONE VETO.

There is a good deal of discussion over the effect of Governor Greenhalge's veto of the Bell Telephone bill, and some people think that by it he has signed his political death warrant. There are so many prominent citizens who were financially interested in the bill, and their expected profits were so seriously interfered with, that it is not believed that they will easily forgive the act that dashed their hopes of gain to the ground.

The ease with which the bill passed the legislature, although it was contrary to the declarations against stock watering made by both parties, shows how great was the influence that the Bell Telephone people could exert, and how easily they compelled senators and representatives to obey their commands. They evidently had no idea that the governor would have "sand" enough to stand up for the interests of the people, and the veto must have been as unexpected as it was unwelcome.

It would be interesting if one could know the inside history of this bill in the legislature, and just how members were induced to favor it. There is the lobby influence, of course, and the telephone people are said to have been well represented there, but just how did the lobby get in such effective work is something that outsiders would like to know.

The Bell stockholders are scattered throughout the state and are mostly men of wealth and prominence, and possibly the representatives did not like to offend the most influential men of their own town. The paper that could get at the inside facts and print them would make its fortune.

It has been an interesting fight and a very significant one. We have been shown that a wealthy corporation can control our General Assembly, in spite of the anti-lobby laws, and that both the House and Senate are weak and subservient before a company that represents enormous capital, but fortunately we have a governor who is courageous enough to stand up for the interests of the people against monopoly, and his veto brushes aside all the flattery and quibbles which the legal counsel of the Bell company put forward. The veto means that in Massachusetts at least corporations are still under the control of the state, thanks to Governor Greenhalge. If he has incurred the enmity of the lobbyists, and would-be stock-grabbers, he has also earned the respect and confidence of the people, and the latter ought to be able to defeat the former, in any political fights that may come in the future.

SUPERINTENDENT SEEVER was re-elected without trouble by the Boston school committee, Tuesday night, and the premature disclosure of the plot against him was sufficient to defeat it. It roused at once a great public sentiment in favor of Mr. Seever, whose labors for the Boston schools have been widely appreciated, and have earned him the distinction of being one of the best school superintendents in the country. If Boston schools are not all that they should be, it is certainly not the fault of Mr. Seever, who has found himself hemmed in in every direction, but a change for the better in that respect will come under the new rules. Perhaps the blame, if there is any, may be laid to the doors of the multitude of "supervisors" as they are called, and who have the power to interfere in all sorts of ways with their own little hobbies, to say nothing of the hobbies of the members of the school board itself.

The tax rate in Watertown this year is $15.50, one dollar less than last year. The total valuation is $8,083,235, of which $1,204,007 is on personal property, $342,222 less than last year, and real estate shows a gain of $228,781, which shows that the old town is still growing.

MARSHAL RICHARDSON has had orders to prevent all premature celebration of the Fourth on the night of July 3rd, and has issued strict orders to see that the laws are enforced, as will be seen by a notice in another column, which quotes the regulations which must be observed.

SENATOR MILTON from this district is entitled to great credit for his fight against the $30,000,000 stock watering scheme of the Bell Telephone Company.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE LAST MEETING BEFORE THE SUMMER VACATION REPLETE WITH IMPORTANCE.

The aldermen and council held a meeting last evening which concludes their regular sessions until September.

The mayor presided in the board and all were present.

A hearing was opened on the matter of taking land on the banks of the Charles river between the Newton Boat club house and Auburn street bridge for public park purposes. The doors to the council chamber were opened and both branches assembled in a joint hearing on the matter.

Those in favor of the park were first given an opportunity but no one accepted and the remonstrants were heard with the understanding that those favoring should have a chance to close.

THE REMONSTRANTS.

Francis Blake of Weston was the first speaker. He was heartily in favor of anything which would improve or beautify the river banks, but wanted a right of way over the property with the joint owners of the land, the Boston Athletic Association as an outlet to the proposed grounds of the association. A system of parks on the opposite bank of the river were to extend to and about the grounds.

President Henry Parkman, of the Boston Athletic Association, spoke of the joint purchase of land with Mr. Blake for the purpose of extending the grounds and to furnish a convenient entrance near the Riverside station. The intention was to build a bridge to connect with the present end of Charles street affording an entrance from near the station to the grounds. If this entrance was refused them it would seriously injure their land and proposed improvements and they would be compelled to claim heavy damages on their grounds, which was allowable as adjoining property was affected by such claims.

Mr. Blake here submitted plans of an iron and wooden bridge, the latter with 30 feet spans, 20 feet wide and 120 feet long. He favored the iron bridge as less objectionable an obstruction and as more beautiful. He was perfectly willing to erect an iron bridge if the city so desired and would give them the right of way.

In answer to inquiries from Alderman Bothfield it was found that the association purchased the disputed land four or five weeks since and although a bridge at this point was on the plan first shown the association when they purchased the grounds a year ago the way of entrance did not enter into prominence in the original purchase. A station on the B. & A. at the grounds had never been considered.

The aldermen mentioned that as Weston bridge would be the terminal of the boulevard people driving would be apt to reach the grounds by that route.

Mr. Parkman admitted that he said the bridge was designed principally for people coming out on the trains to Riverside to avoid the distance by Weston bridge although the proposed structure would be large enough for carriage use.

Vice-president Shaw of the association spoke in corroboration of President Parkman's statements relative to the position of the club.

Andrew B. Cobb, president of the Newton Boat club protested in behalf of its 300 members and 200 petitioners, representing millions of property in Newton, and not in Weston. They were sorry to oppose the Boston club but the obstruction would be a serious matter affecting thousands of Newton citizens who enjoy the beauties of the Charles which would then be destroyed.

APPOINTMENTS.

The mayor appointed George S. Rice as a member of the water board, vice, F. M. Crehore resigned.

SPECIAL POLICE.

Forty-nine special policemen were appointed and confirmed for duty on July 3 and 4.

Inspector Elder submitted a report relative to the condition of the city's school houses.

ORDERS.

Orders were passed for sewers in Glen avenue, authorizing the mayor to release a portion of Beacon street near the estate of Delia Sullivan, authorizing the water board to lay 27.53 feet of mains in Cherry place, Ellis, Prince and Homer streets and Fairfax road at an expense of $3,004, authorizing the superintendent of streets to properly protect the interests of citizens, opposite the new Central church on Walnut street, authorizing the city treasurer to pay $17,021 damages on boulevard construction to Geo. A. Blaney and Frederick R. Cutler, et al, authorizing the payment of $905.50 from the fire department and $237 from the inspection of wires department to Mrs. Annie E. Bixby as full compensation for service rendered, authorizing establishing the pay of drivers of the fire department at $2.50 per day to take effect Jan. 1, 1895, appropriating $94,100 for city expenses in August and September, appropriating $2,250 for the purchase of 18,000 square feet of land bordering Crystal lake from M. G. Crane, for public park purposes requesting the state civil service board to place employees of the city under civil service regulations.

WASHINGTON STREET.

Alderman Bothfield presented an order to widen Washington street to 55 feet except where the B. & A. tracks adjoin the street where 75 feet would be the width, and authorizing a hearing thereon.

After discussion the order passed.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Adam Forepaugh was granted license to parade in certain streets. E. K. Hinkley to erect stable, also W. W. Jacques.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

N. B. C. VS. B. A. A.

Alderman Rumery in the matter of a public park near the Newton Boat club property moved a reference to the park committee with instructions to confer with the parties interested and submit an early report. Voted.

FROM THE COUNCIL.

Papers from the common council came up, notifying the board of refusal to concur in the appropriation for fire hose and horses, also sending up an order authorizing the issuance of a 20 year note of $12,078.50 for the purchase of 71,050 feet of land corner of Watertown and Edinborough streets for school purposes. The latter was imperfectly drawn and no action was taken by the board. Adjourned to Sept. 10.

REPRESENTATIVE Abbott of Watertown is stated to be in line for the Senatorship from this district, at the coming election.

CROWELL'S GRAIN ELEVATOR RUN INTO BY COAL CARS.

H. W. Crowell's three-story grain elevator on Church street was destroyed yesterday morning by being run into by loaded coal cars.

The damage was done by the through western freight which left Worcester at 1.45 in charge of Conductor Berry and drawn by engine 158 of the Boston & Albany railroad.

The freight reached Newton about 4.25 and ten minutes later a flying switch was made to leave nine long coal cars on a spare track near the Newton Coal Company's sheds.

The momentum given them must have been tremendous, as the two brakemen in charge could not control them, and they ran squarely into the elevator, which was opposite, and about 25 feet distant from the end of the track.

The shock when the cars struck was followed by a crash which awoke people a half-mile away, as the grain structure collapsed and came to the ground in a huge pile of timber, slate and thousands of bushels of grain.

It was completely demolished, and lies flat on the ground.

The freight brakemen jumped before the cars struck, escaping injury.

Two of the coal cars left the track, and the forward trucks of the one which did the execution were buried in the cellar of the wrecked building. This car is No. 10,743 of the Delaware & Hudson Coal Company, and has a capacity of 40,000 pounds, weighs 32,050 pounds. This is the smallest of the nine cars, all of which were loaded with coal consigned to Albert Brackett & Son. All but one were pulled on to the track again by the freight.

The wreck was visited by hundreds of people yesterday morning.

The elevator was owned by W. G. Lewis of Framingham, and was built 25 years ago. It is insured.

There were 3000 bushels of oats, 700 bushels of corn, 11 tons of shorts and one or more carloads of miscellaneous stock in the elevator at the time of the accident, all of which is covered by insurance.

DID THE HORSE PLAY THIS TRICK?

How Two Spanish Gentlemen Happened to Forget to Pay Their Check.

As I sat there one night I observed that the two sharp featured gentlemen in dress suits who sat at the table next to mine had already dispatched their second bottle of Chateau Yquem, besides a liberal array of toothsome edibles. They were now chatting over their cigarettes. The greater part of the conversation was in Spanish. Finally they gathered up their overcoats to go, and as they stepped toward the desk, apparently to settle the bill, one of them said to the waiter, "Call in our cab driver and give him a drink."

The jehu entered promptly. "I'll leave the door open if you don't mind, so as to keep an eye on the boss," he said. "He plays tricks on me sometimes."

The beaming "night hawk" had raised his glass, of a liberal three fingers of whisky, and was just remarking, "Ere's looking at ye, gentlemen," when he glanced out the open door and realized that the "boss that plays tricks sometimes" was leisurely ambling off toward Broadway. Dropping the glass unemptied, he bolted for the door, closely followed by the two gentlemen who wore dress suits and talked Spanish. The latter were laughing merrily, as though the whole affair were a good joke.

They didn't come back right away, and when the cashier, somewhat uneasily, went outside and looked down the street, night hawk, "boss," Spanish gentlemen and all had disappeared.

Then the cashier came back behind his desk. He looked ruefully at the figures on the unpaid check, banged the cash register viciously as he rang up another customer's 15 cents for a cocktail and remarked, "I'd like to know whether that 'boss' was taught to play those tricks or whether my Spanish friends simply took advantage of what was really an accident."

The worldly wise bartender stopped rinsing a glass, dipped a towel disdainfully over his shoulder and said with a pessimistic grin: "There's more ways than one to beat the house. I never saw that trick done before, but I've heard tell of it."—New York Herald.

Boiler Scales.

The use of oil in preventing boiler scale now so prevalent is met with the objection that in using other than standard oil of 150 to 300 degrees fire test there is danger of the formation of what is called oil scale. This, according to chemical authority, is owing to the fact that when the higher fire test oils are introduced they rise and float upon the top of the water, and the latter, impregnated with sediment and mud, boils and bubbles up through the oil scum on top, and on the water becoming vaporized it liberates the particles of mud and scale contained, which fall back upon this layer of oil upon the top of the water. After awhile the layer of oil becomes so impregnated with mineral substances that it sinks to the bottom of the boiler, forming an incrustation, or oil scale, which is as injurious to the boiler as is the lime or magnesium scale. But the same objection, it is remarked, has also been made to crude petroleum.—New York Sun.

To Her Art.

Mme. d'Albertin, one of the lesser painters of France, was as conceited about her artistic ability as she was notorious for her excessive use of cosmetics of all kinds. Her face was a study in enamel, rouge and penciling, and the older she grew the more pronounced it became. On one occasion a certain count, who held her in much disesteem, lost a bet to her.

"And what will madame choose?" he asked, with mock courtesy.

"Something in my art," she simpered. "Something I can paint."

"Very well, madame," he replied, bowing himself out.

A day later madame received a package from the count, which, upon being opened, revealed a life size drawing of her own face in outline.—Detroit Free Press.

Wondrous Evolution.

"In the slow evolution of the race," mused the elephant, looking with languid interest at the throng of curious gazers that stood on the outside of the ropes and fed him with cakes, peanuts and candy, "how many millions of years it must require to evolve from the shapeless and rudimentary projection on the face of the creature called man the full and perfect proboscis!"—Chicago Tribune.

What will do it.

Medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh is proof positive that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. Our druggists keep it.

Chief Bixby's Successor.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

There are many rumors afloat as to the probable successor of the late Chief H. L. Bixby of the fire department. It is said that Boston would be called upon to allow one of its fire department officials to accept the position; and a Waltham paper states that an ex-chief of that department is being boomed by his friends therefor, and numerous past and present firemen of Newton have been mentioned.

If Newton desires, as I believe it does, to continue the excellent system under what Chief Bixby so successfully conducted the department for 15 years, and made it one of the best call force departments in the country, and if it desires to have its fires as well handled as they have been during the late chief's regime, there is but one person who is fully qualified to take up the duties of that position and conduct the department as near as it is possible to do so as Chief Bixby's high standard, and that is Acting Chief W. B. Randlett, who for a decade or so has been second in command, and knows the late chief's methods and customs better than anyone else.

Could Chief Bixby have had a voice in the selection of his successor, Capt. Randlett would have been his choice most emphatically. He frequently found the writer that when his time came to step down and out that in Capt. Randlett the city would find a most competent successor, and that whenever he left the city he always felt at ease, knowing that the department in charge of Capt. Randlett was in competent hands, and in him the chief always had the utmost confidence.

For some ten years or so these two model city officials have worked harmoniously together; a combination of excellence which it would be difficult to duplicate in this or any other city. Each thoroughly understood the other, and would work together at all times, each knowing just what the other was doing without seeing or meeting until the fire was extinguished.

Capt. Randlett can take the department just where Chief Bixby left it and conduct it on the same lines, and handle fires in the same excellent manner as heretofore. The success of a fire chief does not wholly lie in his ability to handle a fire, he must possess sufficient executive ability to enable him to maintain discipline the department so that it can be handled in the best manner possible at a fire. He must also possess a knowledge of the fire service of the country to enable him to select the best suited for the department of which he is the head. Chief Bixby possessed these qualities in a marked degree and Capt. Randlett possesses far above the average, and is fully competent in all the necessary requisites to fill the responsible position of chief, which his past faithful services entitles him to, and true civil service reform makes him most eligible.

The selection of a chief from some other city will mean an almost entire new system to conform with the ideas and customs of the new incumbent. If a Boston man is selected it will mean Boston customs, which will never be tolerated in Newton. That is a permanent force department. Newton has a call force and no call force fire department was ever yet successfully conducted on permanent force lines.

To introduce Boston methods into the Newton department means the introduction of politics, which have never yet got a footing in this department, and we trust they never will. It will mean that a "pull" will be necessary to secure promotion instead of merit. It will mean a disregard of the rule which now absolutely prohibits the use of intoxicating liquors by members of the force. It will mean a large number of evils which exist in large city fire departments controlled by politics and politicians, which the Newton department now as always in the past is free from.

It would not be a wise policy to place at the head of so important a department, one who is a stranger to our city, its buildings, its people and their ways, and above all a stranger to all the fire department.

It is a mistake to think that all the best fire officials in the state are to be found in Boston. There is not an abler all-around chief in any of the larger cities in this country than was the late Chief Bixby, while Capt. Randlett whom none will say had a peer in the fire service has occupied while in this city, came from the small town of Milton. The small city and town departments for their size as a whole are the best managed, while some of the best handled fires are found outside of the largest cities.

There is not a man better qualified by nature, experience and knowledge of the city and the fire department for the position of chief than Walter B. Randlett, and the writer believes that 99 out of 100 persons in the city, desires his deserved promotion to that position, and above all, the people do not want an outsider to come in and demoralize our new excellent department, which in all probability, one selected from outside would do.

In closing I desire to add a few words to the many already spoken in praise of the late Chief Bixby. He was an honest man, and he has not been, he might have left more of this world's goods behind him than he did, as no public official has greater opportunities to accumulate money by dishonest methods, than has the chief of a fire department in the purchase of apparatus and supplies. To none of these would the late chief stoop, and the city by his strict honesty has been saved thousands of dollars during his long term of office, of which it knows nothing, by being able to buy the best supplies at the lowest price possible, because there were no cigars, wine, suppers or commissions to be paid for out of the profits by the settler. He would never accept even the slightest favor from those off whom he purchased goods, as they can all testify. He bought the best, which in the end is always the cheapest, and he leaves as a legacy to the city are of the best equipped departments in the country, and the equipments one of the best and will last for many years to come.

There are thousands of dollars wasted annually in many departments in the purchase of hose alone, a cheap grade is often purchased because it is cheap, which only lasts a few years and in the end costs about double what it has cost. Newton where Chief Bixby purchased it, and so with nearly all his other purchases.

The people can well afford to raise a testimonial fund of $10,000 for his family, as his honesty has saved the city that sum and probably more during the fifteen years he has been at the head of the department.

Outside of Newton there is no fire chief in this country more widely or favorably known than the late Chief Bixby, while his department is noted far and wide for its excellence. Could the people of Newton inspect other departments and the way some fires are handled in other places and compare them in every particular with Newton's, they would more fully understand and appreciate the excellence of Newton's model department, made so by the late chief.

No department is copied from more than Newton's which I know from positive knowledge.

Injustice has been done the late chief by his opponents, and it is often said that he was too fond of making "a show" by his uniform and bright red buggy. To make "a show" was far from his nature, as he was naturally of a quiet, unassuming and unostentatious disposition. He wore the uniform and used a red buggy because he considered them proper, and necessary for a thoroughly modern department, and so that people could distinguish his team enroute to fires and clear the way when they saw him approaching at a distance. The chief led and not followed in the work of chiefs of large cities, as many others do; he did what he believed was right, and in doing so he was often misunderstood and seldom fully appreciated. He stood in his own shoes and always wore the same size hat, whether he was criticized harshly and unjustly, or the recipient of deserved praise. He performed his duties, as he saw them, honestly, conscientiously and to the best of his ability, regardless of censure or praise and as an old-time friend of his recently stated in a communication published in a Waltham newspaper, no better epitaph could be placed on his tombstone than, "Here lies a man." H.

THE VALUE OF RICH MEN.

Extract From an Address by Richard H. Dana, Jr. in Boston, Feb. 25, 1894.

When in Chicago at the World's fair you probably saw in the fine art gallery a very striking statue of a group of persons struggling for labor tickets. As you know, there have been times in certain parts of England when labor has been very scarce, and what little employment there was used to be distributed by scattering labor tickets among the people. This statue represented such a scene as often took place. One large, strong man has grasped the tickets and holds it aloft in his hand, a stalwart young man is trying to take it from him. An old man clings piteously to his waist, but all the while the eyes of the fortunate holder are looking at a poor woman with her child at his feet, and he is struggling between his own desire for work and his pity for those more helpless than himself.

Now what does all this mean? It means a scarcity of wealth in that town. Now let us suppose that there should come into that town a party of men with incomes of $15,000 apiece, let us say owners of a rich copper mine in the west. What would be the result? They would build homes. That would create a demand for lumber, bricks, stone, lime, cement, hardware and labor. Then the lumber and hardware dealers would start up and with the joint employment of labor there would be a demand for all sorts of articles.

The servants would have more money, rents would be paid, real estate would advance, and again there would be more demand for goods, and that would be a demand for more labor and that in its turn create demand for goods and so on. Not only the townspeople, but the farmers would be benefitted. The demand for farm products would not stop with what the 100 rich men and their families would consume, but storekeepers, mechanics and laborers who before did not afford the pittance to keep life in their bodies would now be purchasers of milk, butter, eggs, meat and vegetables.

Now, would it have been a wise policy to have kept these 100 rich men from coming into that town by insisting on imposing an unjust double tax on their property which other countries did not insist on?

I heard on the floor of the legislature last year a member who got up and denounced rich men generally and said, "We don't want any more millionaires in the commonwealth." What is the use of talking that way? It isn't that we want the individual millionaires or that they are any more agreeable than equally well educated, honest and able men who are poor, but we do need their wealth, and yet we insist on a double tax in this state such as none of our surrounding states require, and which tends to keep out and drive out wealth from this state, and efforts are being made at the state house to enforce that unjust double tax more stringently than ever.

What's In a Name?

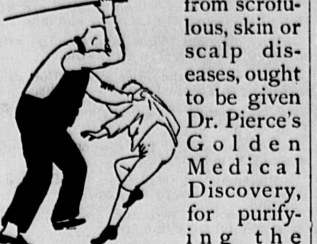

The custom of naming flats after their builders or owners is a growing one and sometimes results in a curious combination. Just below me are two new flat houses, built last summer. One was named "Albert," and on the plate glass front door of the adjoining one was the word "Madeira," it having been built by a patriotic gentleman who names his flat houses after various wines. But the latter was sold to a man named Hawkins, who forthwith put his own name up. So now the combination is complimentary to the old time and widely known White House coachman, "Albert Hawkins."—New York Herald.

The World's Fair Directors have settled it for all time, that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a scientific preparation, and worthy of public confidence. Rule 15, which gave the right of exhibition to Ayer's Sarsaparilla and prevented the admission of patent medicines and secret nostrums, was a simple method of pointing out to the world a blood-purifier that cures.

from scrofulous, skin or scalp diseases, ought to be given Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for purifying the blood. For children who are puny, pale or weak, the "Discovery" is a tonic which builds up both flesh and strength. What is said of it for children applies equally to adults. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, rouses every organ into natural action, and brings back health and strength. In recovering from "grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, and other wasting diseases, it speedily and surely invigorates and builds up the whole system.

For all diseases caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, as Dyspepsia and Biliousness, if it doesn't benefit or cure in every case, the money is returned.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

The July number of The Forum will be, as usual, a special educational number; and, as usual, it will deal with very practical problems in education—problems of interest not to professional educators only, but problems that touch the very base of our system of training. The three articles are: "The Ideal Training of an American Boy," a working statement of the highest ideal, by Prof. Thomas Davidson; "Research in the Vitalizing Method of Higher Teaching," by President J. Stanley Hall; the most suggestive of his series of articles; and "Will the Co-educational Co-educate their Children?" in other words, will women who attended co-educational colleges send their children, especially their daughters, to these colleges? This article, by Prof. Martha Foote Crow, of the University of Chicago, is based on a series of inquiries made of the Alumnae of Cornell, the University of Michigan, and the other co-educational schools.

As becomes a July number of any magazine, the Atlantic for this month has its share of out-of-door papers. They show more than one way of getting a change of scene and air, for besides Mr. Frank Bolles's Nova Scotia paper, "The Home of Glooscap," and Mr. Bradford Torrey's Florida sketch, "On the Beach at Daytona," an unsigned article, "The City on the House-tops," gives a vivid and sympathetic picture of the summer life on the roofs of houses in the most crowded quarters of New York. Mr. W. R. Thayer has edited for the Atlantic the letters of Sidney Lanier to a Philadelphia friend, Professor Tyrell, of Dublin, takes one into the far past with his study of "Lucretius," and "The Red Bridal," a Japanese love story, by Lafcadio Hearn, goes as far into the remote East. Two political papers of unusual value are Mr. Harvey N. Shepard's "The Mayor and the City," and Professor J. Laurence Laughlin's "Monetary Reform in Santo Domingo."

"Philip and his Wife" proceeds in three stirring chapters, and Mrs. Catherwood supplies a French Canadian story, "Pontiac's Lookout." Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

In the next Harper's Bazar there will be a story by Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford, entitled "Jesse," also a very useful and practical paper on "Color in the House," with special application to the treatment of floors, colorings and coverings, by Mrs. Candace Wheeler. A prominent fashion feature in this issue of the Bazar is a chic toilette to be worn at the races. To this may be added a number of graduating gowns and simple print waists for young women.

Scribner's Magazine for June contains an article by John Heard, Jr., which, for the first time in accessible form in English, tells the tragical story of "Maximilian and Mexico" in the light of many documents which have recently been published in France. This dramatic recital of an episode which the writer calls "one of Napoleon's Day-Dreams," gives, in that picturesque style which the author has shown in his stories, a perfectly clear account of the event from its conception to the execution of Maximilian. The true inside history of the part played by the United States, the author thinks, will probably never be thoroughly known because there were few documents and the real instructions were given by word of mouth by men who have passed away. Mr. Heard's narrative is enriched with a series of striking pictures by Marchetti and Gilbert Gaul.

A Daughter of Music, by G. Colmore, is the title of a novel which is attracting a remarkable degree of attention in England at present. This strong and brilliant work is to be published immediately in Appletons' Town and Country Library.

The first volume of the eagerly awaited Memoirs of the Baron de Meneval, Private Secretary of Napoleon I., is published immediately by D. Appleton & Co. In this volume the author describes his first meeting with Napoleon, and pictures the latter's personal habits and daily life.

Some dainty little handy volumes of fiction are to be published this season in permanent covers by D. Appleton & Co. A brilliant story of New York and Newport, by Henry Golet McVickar, will appear first, under the original title of The Purple Light of Love. Mr. William Allen Butler, the author of Nothing to Fear, has revised a story which first appeared anonymously, entitled Mrs. Limber's Raffle; and there is a promise of a brilliant new book by Miss Kate Sanborn.

July Fourth, 1894?

We understand that a petition has been sent in by the Social Science Club of Newton, to those directly responsible for our city's well being and well doing, asking for better protection from the license so cruelly shown in many instances heretofore, and especially July 4th, 1893.

The leading purpose of the day is patriotic, the cultivation of patriotic feeling in all suitable ways, of joy and gladness in the possession of our independent and happy country. For the older and more thoughtful of our citizens the celebration should be in harmony with the best ideas of the dignity and greatness of our nation. This idea conscientiously carried out by our best people, must, and will impress itself upon those not able to grasp the full meaning of the day, and especially upon the children and youth among us.

For them, the day afforded and should afford room for every kind of innocent demonstration. The country belongs to the whole people, all are its citizens, all should be its lovers, all its defenders, and the largest liberty the greatest variety of exercises, consistent with public order, and private rights must be allowed. All hilarity and noise cannot and should not be suppressed. Nothing is liked better by the majority of the people or is considered more appropriate than the salutes which usher in the day or mark the culminating points of the different ceremonies, and not only the firing of cannon, but small arms and even the fire crackers of the enthusiastic boys, under reasonable restrictions, have their patriotic uses. Fourth of July boys should make patriotic men. In their intense enjoyment of the day they learn to love it, and that love will help them to appreciate it, and to understand its deep meaning, as they grow up to manhood.

It is only natural that that intense feeling of joy and triumph should be expressed by noises, small and great, and there is no hope, nor is it desirable that their patriotic noises should ever be wholly suppressed in our national celebration.

In all that stirs our emotion or senses a thrill of patriotic feeling from heart to heart, or increases in any way our genuine love of country, let there be liberty, let the gate of enthusiasm "blow great guns and small arms," in the common rejoicing. But when this liberty is allowed it becomes "license" which means in this case "abuse of freedom." It is "license" which disturbs the slumbers of the sick by startling explosions at midnight. To many of these, the critical moment may have come, in their illness, when rest and quiet are essential to life itself. Have the well no private rights in this matter?

It was this license which allowed the malicious mischief done in Newton a year ago. Is the wanton destruction of property an evidence of patriotism, or can shameful cruelty to animals be regarded as less than on outrage? Is not the license all the more despicable when done on a day that celebrates our dearly bought liberty, a day that should be given to noble feelings and generous actions. Let us leave the celebration of anniversaries of liberty by acts of license to fanatics or such ill-balanced folk, of whom it was said by one noble woman, "Oh Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!" It is no doubt a far cry from the dark side of the French Revolution, to the breaches of good order, which mar our glorious Fourth, but the underlying principle is the same, and the carelessness or malice shown by small acts of wanton mischief was only opportunity to produce more serious evils. The "accidents" by which many people are maimed or killed, property destroyed, etc., would seem to teach their own lesson, but the same recklessness and carelessness is repeated year after year with the same results.

Would not the expression of a better and more thoughtful public sentiment in regard to these things result in a more cultivated carelessness? Reforms in these matters should be an easy thing in Newton, where our national holiday is not disgraced by the open saloon. If the day is free from the drunken men, that leads to so much that dishonors it, in the crazy excitement of drink, should not every street within our borders be alike safe for the passer-by, and every home, rich and poor alike, be so protected that there should be no need for the inmates to do police duty, by sitting up all night to prevent destruction of property? We are sure that our city fathers will devise some means to begin a reform so much needed everywhere, and that can be best begun where the public sentiment is for law and order as it is in Newton.

Drawing the Line.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)
 "I'm sick," whined the tramp at the kitchen door, "and will you please give me just a piece of bread and butter."
 "Nothing mean about you, is there?" responded the charity-lined cook.
 "No, ma'am, there ain't."

"Perhaps you would like to have some sugar on your bread?" said the cook, with sarcasm.
 The tramp drew back dignifiedly.
 "Excuse me," he said, "I may have my weaknesses, but I hardly think there is anything in my manner to warrant you in thinking I am a United States senator," and the intelligent cook apologized on the spot.

A FRIEND

Speaks through the Boothbay (Me.) Register of the beneficial results he has received from a regular use of Ayer's Pills. He says: "I was feeling sick and tired and my stomach seemed all out of order. I tried a number of remedies, but none seemed to give me relief until I was induced to try the old reliable Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but I feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so finely sugar-coated that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are in need of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills. They will do good."

—The fire Tuesday was in the cupola of the Mason grammar school building, in the square and occurred about 8.30, before the pupils had arrived. The blaze was discovered by the firemen returning from call of box 75, in the same district, rung for small fires, in the house of Charles E.
Thompson of box 3, in Ruffe's block on Cypress street, and the house of Foreman A. J. English of box 3, on Centre and Trowbridge streets. Slight damage was caused in the private residence. The damage was not large in the school building. When the cupola was found to be ablaze, a second alarm was sounded from the same box and the fire was quickly subdued. The damage to the building below the cupola was entirely by water. The cause of the three fires was the same.
There were private gongs, or tappers, in the firemen's houses, and the fire alarm bell in the cupola of the school building.
A fire alarm wire came in contact with a guard wire of the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company on Beacon street and the guard wire was said to have been charged in some way by the trolley wire.
An official investigation will tell the story better. The electric light wires were dead, the current having been shut off in the morning.
—Mr. Ivory Harmon died of heart failure
at his home on Dedham street, Oak Hill, Monday afternoon. He was apparently in the best of health at dinner time and after dining went into another room and sat down. A friend who was in the garden stopped at the window a few minutes later to show him a bouquet of flowers, and noticing a peculiarity about his attitude, called to his side, but he was dead. Mr. Harmon was born in Buxton, Me., March 8, 1821, and came to Boston 54 years ago. For half a century he was in business as contractor and builder, during most of this period of the firm of I. & H. M. Harmon, 31 Pemberton square. He drove the first piles on the Back Bay, Boston, and built about 100 of the fine residences there, besides some of the finest offices and stores in Boston. He was connected with the People's Bank and the Eliot Savings Bank of Roxbury, and for 25 years was a member of the Mechanic's Association. He was identified with the Immanuel Congregational church from its early history, served as deacon for many years, and took great interest in the erection of two new houses of worship. He resided in Roxbury 40 years and in Newton Centre the last few years.
He was a man of great integrity of character, and highly respected by all who knew him. He leaves a widow and daughter.

—The chief topic of conversation among citizens this week has been the control of the Mason school fire, and Acting Chief Ranlett is highly praised. The tower was a mass of flame five minutes after its discovery and there was not a ladder to be found, the Truck having been broken down and falling to hear the second alarm.
Capt. Ranlett and two hose men carried a line up through the building and fought the fire from the dark, smoke filled loft, up the ladder to the bell and finally worked their way out through the fierce flames onto the roof where the fire was finally subdued. It was a brave act and everyone who knows the building, the difficulties to be encountered in getting to the bell, and the tons of iron which hung in that blazing tower, appreciate the action which saved the school house. The ladders did not arrive until the fire was nearly out. The damage will not exceed $500.

—Tuesday evening was a gala night at Newton Centre. The occasion was the interesting as being the formal opening of the new hall in the Bray block, the event being a charming concert given by the Young Ladies' Double Quartet of this village, assisted by artists from Boston.
The evening was sultry, and the hall was packed to its utmost capacity, overflowing into the reception room, but nevertheless the perfect ventilation and lighting were commented on by all. The acoustic properties of the hall proved to be admirable and adapted to the most delicate expression of chamber music. Those present were heard to congratulate Newton Centre upon possessing an honored citizen whose public spirit has made possible so delightful a place of entertainment. The Young Ladies' Double Quartet is now in its fifth season, under the leadership of Mr. S. A.
Shannon, and the present concert was its third in course. The careful and painstaking work of the quartet was noticeable.
The vocal aid given by the soloists, because the early organization, it may be fairly stated that the breadth and smoothness and balance of the vocal work would do credit to any of the old semi-professional organizations of the city. If the purpose of music is to give pleasure to the listener then this purpose was fully realized, as the concert was artistically arranged and the program, delicately balanced and carried out without an apparent flaw, even from a critical standpoint. The program is too long to particularize. The opening number "There is one I love dearly" was especially accurate and neat in its phrasing, and the selection was fortunate as fixing the first good impression on the audience. (Some familiar numbers followed in which the phrasing was most creditable to the musical conception of the singers.)
The most striking number in the second part was "Fiddle and I" by Godevee, which was poetically whimsical in its phrasing. The vocal work sustained a charmingly obligato by Miss Rose Gish, in which the interlude between the verses was founded upon the tuning of the stringed instrument. The ordinarily harsh and distressing fifths were made to establish the chord of the following phrase which flowed out of them with an unexpected grace, which was heightened by the contrast. Miss Gish disappointed the audience in that she was assigned but one solo number on the program, and responded thereto with a single encore. The audience were charmed with the breadth of her solo work, as shown in Schendens

"Romanza," and would gladly have listened to more numbers and yet more en-cores. The vocal soloist of the evening was Miss Maud K. Williams of Boston, who received cordial accolades to every number. Miss Grace Mae Lamkin, as the reader, captivated all present by the charming simplicity of her manner, which she had the admirable taste to adapt to the delicate selections rendered. The eloquence of face added to the eloquence of voice, and the good nature with which Miss Lamkin responded to repeated calls made her a favorite with all. Mrs. Abby Clark-Ford, than whom no artist is more thoroughly appreciated, and no woman more thoroughly admired in Newton Centre, contributed her full share to the entertainment at the piano. Mrs. Ford is one of the accompanists who can abandon herself to impromptu without danger to the susceptibilities of the audience. The present organization of the Young Ladies' Double Quartet is as follows: First sopranos, Marion Haskell, Alice Clement;
second sopranos, Lillian White, Gladys Smith; first alto, Clara Bond; Eva Morse; second alto, Margaretta Logan, Fanny Edmonds.

Bishop-Hunter.

Miss Emilie Fanning Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen V. A. Hunter, and Mr. Elias Bullard Bishop, the son of Judge Robert R. Bishop, all of Newton Centre, were married last night in the First Congregational Church, which had been handsomely decorated for the occasion. Festoons of laurel were tastefully disposed, while palms and masses of pink and white roses added beauty to the decorative ensemble.
Previous to the entrance of the bridal party the guests were entertained with an organ recital by Mr. J. Wallace Goodrich, the organist of Eliot Church, Newton.
The costumes of the bride and her attendant bridesmaids repeated the dainty pink and white coloring of the floral decoration. The bride was attired in a gown of white satin, trimmed with duchesse and point lace, with tulle veil, and orange blossoms were gracefully arranged in her hair. She carried a bouquet of white Bride roses and wore a diamond pendant,
the gift of the groom.
Miss Lillian Hunter, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She wore pink chiffon over white satin, her bouquet being of pink roses. The two bridesmaids, Miss Clara T. Clark of New Haven and Miss Elsie W. Bennett of West Newton, wore gowns of white silk crepe over white, and carried pink roses, while the bride's eight attendants, who were attired in frocks of pink silk mull over pink, and who carried white roses, were Miss Emilie Maud Talbot and Miss Kittie Hunter, both of New Haven, and cousins of the bride, Miss Constantia W.
Smith, Miss Sara H. Sanborn, Miss Lillian
M. Furber and Miss Alice H. Sylvester of Newton Centre, Miss Sallie C. Baldwin of Brookline and Miss Carrie T. Hardwick of Quincy.
Mr. Robert R. Bishop, Jr., the brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Clarence Morgan, Clinton Hunter, Edmund E. Blake, Bulke-
ley Wells, Henry M. Wheelright, Hosmer
S. Cummings, George A. Holmes and Arthur E. Fowle.
The ceremony was performed by Rev.
Dr. D. E. Fisher.
After the words had been spoken making the happy couple one, many of the guests went to the home of the bride's father, where a reception was held from 7.30 until 9.30 o'clock. The handsome manor, with its surrounding lawns, had been prettily decorated and brightly lighted for the occasion. The guests were disposed about the grounds and the wide verandas were inclosed so as to make extra rooms, which, in spite of the spaciousness of the house, were necessary for the accommodation of the hosts of guests who had assembled to congratulate the young couple.
The bride's mother wore silver gray satin, trimmed with point lace, and her ornaments were diamonds, while the groom's mother wore a pale green and white satin brocade adorned with point lace. Her ornaments were diamonds and pearls.
At the request of the bride those of the guests who were recent brides wore their wedding dresses, and many white satin frocks which had graced previous weddings added to the gala appearance of the costumes at this reception.
After the reception a dainty supper was served. On this occasion much merriment was caused by the bride's cutting the handsome bride cake, which contained a mitten, a thimble, a piece of money and a ring. The cake was passed by the groomsmen to the 11 young women attendants, and those who received the faithful trophies were the objects of much badinage.
Another unique and pretty idea was the throwing of the bridal bouquet by the bride as she went upstairs. Her bouquet was so arranged as to fall, when thrown, into 11 tiny bouquets, one for each of the girl attendants, and the one securing the bunch of flowers on which was a bit of white satin ribbon was hailed by her companions as the bride next to be.
The happy couple were the recipients of many handsome and valuable gifts, including much artistic silver and china.
